GOBBLING OF LANDS.

Inquiry to Be Had in Montana.

Senator Clark Secures Very Fine Timber.

Interior Department Sends a Couple of Inspectors.

Mrs. McKinley Dispenses With Physicians—Appointees—Elkins on Politics.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Interior Department has sent two inspectors to Montana to look into the way in which Senator W. A. Clark has been taking up government lands in that State. In the last few months, according to reports which the Interior Department has received, Clark has come into possession of some twelve thousand acres of the finest pine timber land that the government had in Montana. The law does not allow one man to take up so much land, no matter who he may be. The department has heard that Senator Clark had his friends take up land from the government, paying therefore only $2.50 an acre, and then transfer it to him. The timber upon the land alleged to have been so taken up by Senator Clark is very valuable, being of the finest quality and of dense growth.

There is no intention on the part of the Interior Department officials to persecute Senator Clark in this connection, but the case is being handled in the same manner that it would be with any other person suspected of violation of the land laws. It was brought to the attention of the department that about twelve thousand acres of timber land in Montana had been partially patented by various parties, who were suspected of acting for Senator Clark, as the certificates ultimately found their way into his possession. It is said on good authority that if it is proved that Clark has employed men to take up lands and then transfer their title to him, the government will take proceedings to vitiate the transaction and vest the title to the lands in the United States once more, and open them for entry.

ELKINS ON REALIGNMENT.

BUSINESS INFLUENCES POLITICS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Stephen B. Elkins of West Virginia, in an interview here today expresses the belief that between now and the next Presidential campaign, there will be a realignment of the two great political parties upon issue of business. In this realignment Senator Elkins believes the Republicans will make very large gains in the South, where the business instinct is gaining ground with great rapidity. He also believes there will be Republican losses in the North, but thinks the gains in the South will greatly overbalance the losses in the North.

Senator Elkins said the realignment would be based entirely upon business issues. The people of the South were now appreciating the practical fact that business was business. Sentiment was giving way to business enterprise and business success, and because of this growth of commercial interests in the South the Republicans might reasonably count upon large gains in that section. In Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, Louisiana, North Carolina and parts of South Carolina and Florida business people were with the business men of the Republican party. They believed in Republican policies, and realized that their personal interests would be benefited along Republican lines. The only difficulty in the way of a general breaking upon the solid South was the race question, and in many States that subject was being dealt with in such manner that before a great while it might be entirely eliminated from southern politics.

Notwithstanding the fluctuations likely to occur in the two parties three years hence, Senator Elkins is a good enough partisan to see nothing but success for the Republican ticket, regardless of whom the candidates may be. He spoke doubtfully of many candidates now in the field. Most of these candidates are at present in the United States Senate, and Elkins called attention to the fact that the House would not be surprised to see a candidate loom up in the House in the next year or two and secure the nomination.

ITATA CASE DECIDED.

LAST OF CHILEAN CLAIMS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The United States and Chilean Claims Commission completed its work today. The last case to be decided was that involving the seizure in 1891 of the Chilean vessel Itata, by the authorities of the United States, on the ground that she was carrying a cargo of contraband arms to Chile. The claim was $44,051, with interest, and was made by the South American Steamship Company, which had chartered the ship to the Chilean government. The decision today dismisses the case. Minister Pioda of Switzerland, president of the commission, and Mr. Gage, the American commissioner, agreed in

DOWN ON STRIKERS.

Moran Brothers a Storm Center.

Armed Guards Posted at the Shipyards.

Work Well Under Way With Non-Union Men.

Canadian Pacific Trackmen Go Out—Newport News Yards Have Closed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Private guards, armed with Winchester rifles, surround Moran Bros.' big shipbuilding foundry and lumber-mill plant. Non-union machinists, patternmakers, foundrymen, boilermakers and carpenters have been employed, and today marked the resumption of work on the steamship Garonne and the battleship Nebraska.

Although the striking machinists denied any intention of using violence, they were very busy today, considering the situation, which is considered critical. This afternoon fire was discovered in the shipyard, but quick work by the fire department prevented any loss of consequence. The cause of the fire is a mystery, but under the circumstances, it has given rise to much talk. A pile of garbage on the wharf was the scene of the fire, which spread to a small building.

Moran Bros. have at present seventy-five non-union carpenters and about sixty non-union machinists at work. Although the head of the firm refuses to discuss his plans, it is known that more non-union men have been employed, and that the company intends to put them to work. Portland and San Francisco have furnished the men who are to take the place of the strikers. According to reliable information, the Morans have 200 men ready to go to work, but it is their intention to proceed slowly.

Inquiry has brought to light the fact that the guards are men who will fight, and any attempt of the strikers to use force will be deadly. Things are quiet tonight, but the situation shows that the Moran plant is to be a storm center, which will settle, one way or the other, the strike, which is paralyzing the industry from one end of the Coast to the other.

CANADIAN PACIFIC TRACK MEN OUT.

ROAD IS REPLACING ITS STRIKERS WITH NEW MEN.

Deputy Sheriffs are Guarding the Railway from One End to the Other. Only Two or Three Gangs of Men at Work—They are Expected to Quit.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A large number of special constables were appointed today along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, in consequence of the strike of trackmen and bridge builders. In Vancouver twenty men were sworn in this morning, and tonight further appointments are being made. These men are to guard tunnels and bridges and other property of the company. They are furnished with badges and full power as officers of the provincial government police force. There are many foreigners among the strikers, and some fears are entertained of what they might do in case of trouble. By tomorrow, officials of the company say, they will have every section along the whole railway line patrolled by men, night and day.

Regular provincial police constables have been sent out, and every show of authority is being made. There are only two section gangs at work between here and Halifax. This morning reports came pouring into the office of General Superintendent Marpole here from all over the provincial divisions in his control, from section foremen, stating that they had handed in their keys and tools, and would not do any more work until they had received orders from the headquarters of the brotherhood. Section foremen in engineering corps, and new section hands are being engaged to work under these officials.

MEN'S REASONS GIVEN.

WAGES TOO LOW.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MONTREAL, June 17.—Officials of the Track Men's Union announced that between three thousand and thirty-five hundred of the Canadian Pacific Railroad Company's trackmen struck today for an increase of wages.

The trackmen receive an average of $1.15 a day, and want an increase of from 10 to 20 cents a day, according to locality. They claim that while the Canadian Pacific pretended to increase their wages 5 cents a day, they really had decreased previously to that the week's wage of 57½ cents through cutting down track walking, so that the company, with no apparent decrease, still had the better of the trackmen by 57½ a week. The company claims that the men are as well paid as on any other road.

Grand President Wilson of the Trackmen's Union, counts upon 90 per cent. of the Canadian Pacific men having gone out on strike. Reports state that only one gang is at work on the Toronto division, and seven on the Atlantic division. On the Pacific division all the gangs have stopped work. In all, 3700 men are employed by the road.

DEMAND MORE WAGES.

PROVIDENCE CAR MEN'S CALL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) June 17.—The conductors and motormen of the Union Railway Company, which controls nearly all the electric lines in and about this city, have issued a call for a mass meeting at midnight to take action on the matter of an increase in wages. The meeting is called notwithstanding the order of the railway officials that any such action by the men would be deemed cause for their dismissal.

PLANT WILL CLOSE DOWN.

MACHINISTS WOULDN'T WORK.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ATLANTA (Ga.) June 17.—A special to the News from Newport News says that the striking machinists in the employ of the Newport News Company have not returned to work and the immense plant will be closed down at 6 o'clock tonight. This will throw 7000 employés out of work.

AT NEWPORT, NEWS.

HUNDREDS OF MEN OUT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEWPORT NEWS (Va.) June 17.—Twelve hundred men from the various departments were laid off today at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and as many more will be laid off tomorrow if the striking machinists do not return to work. The management will retain only enough men to handle the repair work, notably on the North German-Lloyd liner Maine, which is being rebuilt. The departments chiefly affected today are those of the boilermakers, blacksmiths, carpenters and joiners and ship fitters.

SERVANT GIRLS FORM FOR UNION CRUSADE.

OVER SIXTY THOUSAND CHICAGO GIRLS WILL JOIN IT.

The Organization Announces a Regular Scale of Wages, an Eight-hour Day, Plenty of Holidays and Extra Pay Allowances With the Slightest Provocation.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, June 17.—Union labor is to take a hand in the servant-girl problem in Chicago. It has been decided by the local branch of the Woman's International Labor League to start a vigorous crusade for the organization of the thousands of girls whose work is in the homes of Chicago.

The announcement of the league's decision was made on the floor of the Chicago Federation of Labor by Miss Sophia Becker of the Shoe Stitchers' Union, and was received with applause by the delegates to the assembly.

Miss Becker told the delegates in the federation that committees have been appointed and that the work of organizing the union would begin at once. The union will announce a regular scale of wages. An eight-hour day will be declared in vogue with extra pay for holidays and overtime. The number of afternoons which each servant girl may have for recreation each week also will be stipulated.

It is estimated that there are more than sixty thousand girls and women in Chicago willing and eligible for this new movement. They will work in sympathy with affiliated organizations of female labor.

DEBS SETTLES A STRIKE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TERRE HAUTE (Ind.) June 17.—The local machinists' strike was settled this afternoon through the efforts of Eugene V. Debs. The men got ten hours' pay for nine hours' work. On other points concessions were made by the men.

JUDGE VERSUS JUDGE.

FRAUD CHARGED BY ONE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CINCINNATI (O.) June 17.—Judge Tarvin rendered a sensational decision in the Kenton County Circuit Court at Covington, Ky., today in the strike-contest case. In the decision, Judge Tarvin attacks and criticises the Federal Court, Judge Walter Evans presiding. He says that the decision of the United States Court was rendered on records that had been forged.

Judge Tarvin points out how the forgeries were made and says the decision is without precedent and without foundation of truth and was a vindictive abuse of power.

C. F. AND I. COMPANY SOLD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] At a meeting held this afternoon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel negotiations were brought to a close which will result in the absorption of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company by the United States Steel Corporation, better known as the Steel Trust. Those who attended the meeting were John J. Mitchell, James C. Hutchins, John Lambert, Isaach L. Elwood, representing the Colorado concern, and the representative of J. Pierpont Morgan for the Steel Trust. The meeting lasted all afternoon, and at the close no one of the conferees was willing to speak concerning the transactions.

From other sources it was learned, however, that the deal was practically closed, and that the offer of the Steel Trust to buy the Colorado Fuel at a price not far from 170 was accepted. The culmination of the transaction is regarded with great satisfaction by John W. Gates and associates, who have been largely instrumental in the deal.

CAPTURED A PATROL.

Maritz Makes a Wee Killing.

Doran, for the British, Scores a Victory.

Scheener's Commando Loots Murrayburg Stores.

Kitchener Moves to Bloemfontein—Death List in Invaders' Camps.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CAPE TOWN, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sir Gordon Sprigg, Prime Minister of Cape Colony, reports that 150 Boers in the vicinity of Calvinia, in the western part of the colony, under Commandant Marits, surrounded a British patrol of 29 men. The British had 2 killed, 2 wounded and 20 captured. The Boers are being closely pursued.

The force of rebels at Kakamas, in Gordonia, some miles to the east of Prieska, in Cape Colony, numbering about 200, have moved to the southwest.

Col. Doran has engaged 100 Boers in the Midland district. The burghers had two men killed and three wounded.

Another part of Scheener's commando entered Murraysburg, Thursday, and looted stores. The chase after Commandant Kritsinger, who broke back from Barkley East district, has not as yet led to any result. The Boer prisoners now number 19,242.

KITCHENER MOVES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 18.—Lord Kitchener has not yet cabled the details of the reverse of the Victorian Rifles of Gen. Beatson's column at Steenkoelspruit, June 12.

Small affairs continue to be reported from South Africa. Lord Kitchener has moved to Bloemfontein.

BOERS STILL HOPEFUL.

WILL FIGHT UNTIL DEATH.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER (Colo.) June 17.—Commandant W. D. Snyman of the South African Republic is in Denver on a lecture tour, the proceeds of which are to aid the Boer prisoners.

"The struggle in South Africa is not a race animosity," said Commandant Snyman. "It is an awful war, a political war brought about by political gamblers and speculators, and so long as they have life the Boers will fight for their liberty. Our wives and daughters will pray and fight with us. Mothers send their sons into battle with a prayer. Widows and orphans are suffering, yet believing that God will bring them finally to victory."

ENGLISH VIEW GLOOMY.

BOERS ARE GAINING RECRUITS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The situation in South Africa is far from satisfactory just now for Englishmen, says the Tribune's London correspondent. It is believed that the Boers are gaining many recruits from the Dutch districts of Cape Colony, and in spite of Chamberlain's calm assertion that the embers of war are only smouldering, it looks very much as if they had burst into flame.

A question will shortly be put in the Liberal benches in the House of Commons as to the proposed suspension of the constitution in Cape Colony. There is a general belief that Chamberlain and Lord Milner will hesitate before taking this step. Lawyers are of the opinion that the only way it could be legally accomplished would be by an act of Parliament, and in the present state of public business the government will scarcely care to invite opposition on such a subject.

VIEWS AT A BANQUET.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—Exclusive Dispatch.] Sir Redvers Buller and Lord Strathcona were the principal speakers at the annual banquet of the Colonial Club tonight. Replying to the toast of "The Imperial Forces," Buller said in a blunt way, that the worst thing that could happen to any country was what was known as the "jingo feeling." Expenditure on the forces of the crown should not be for conquest or oppression.

Strathcona, who presided over the banquet, in proposing "The Colonial Club," referred in felicitous terms to the attachment of the people in the colonies to the institutions of the mother country. The colonists knew, he said, that in fighting to help England, they were fighting for their own best interests. The Canadian High Commissioner was loudly cheered on resuming his seat.

LARGE DEATH LIST.

REPORT FROM WAR CAMPS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Replying to questions in the House of Commons today, Brodrick, the War Secretary, said there were 40,229 persons in the concentration camps of the Transvaal and Orange River Colony. The deaths in these camps for the month of May numbered ninety-eight men and women and 318 children. The announcement of the mortality was received with groans from the Irish members and cries of "scandalous." Mr. Brodrick added that the authorities were arranging for the release of the women and children who had friends to receive them, but the government could not undertake to feed them in isolated places.

THE PHILIPPINES

SWEARING IN THE JUDGES.

Simple Ceremonies the Chief Feature.

Surrender of Cailles is Due Tomorrow.

Sharp Skirmishes in Bohol—Insurgents Going to Mindoro.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MANILA, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The former insurgent general, Ambrosio Flores, Governor of the newly-organized province of Rizal, says that Cailles, the Pilipino leader, has promised him he will surrender with his forces Wednesday.

The simplest ceremonies marked the administration of the oath of office today to the judges of the Supreme Court and courts of First Instance, who were appointed by the Philippine Commission Saturday. Judge Taft explained that as no court had existed since Saturday, an elaborate observance of the event customary under the Spanish régime was impossible.

Judge Taft administered the oath to Chief Justice Arellano at the audiencia, and Arellano in turn administered the oath to his fellow-justices. Courts of First Instance judges were sworn in at noon in the presence of members of the Bar Association the College of Lawyers. In his address Taft cautioned the judges that the first requirement of a successful administration was patience in dealing with litigants and counsellors, and especially under present conditions.

The American Bar Association submitted a petition signed by Chinese merchants, advocating the adoption of the English language by the courts. The association promised to submit similar petitions from other sources, including the American Chamber of Commerce. Memorials in behalf of the retention of the use of Spanish in the courts also are being drafted. Judge Taft granted the memorialists until tomorrow in which to submit their petitions, so that all classes might go on record, which will be sent to Congress for a definite decision on the point. The Philippine Commission will announce a tentative decision Wednesday.

SUMNER CONFIRMS IT.

CAILLES COLLECTING MEN.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MANILA, June 17.—[By Manila Cable.] Gen. Sumner has returned here from Santa Cruz province, where he has been negotiating for the surrender of Gen. Cailles. He confirms the dispatch of the Associated Press of Sunday, June 16, announcing that the preliminaries of the surrender of the insurgent leader have been arranged. Cailles is collecting his scattered troops. Of these 147 will surrender Wednesday, and the rest will give themselves up next Monday.

Cos. Cueverra and Infante, the representatives of Cailles, assured Gen. Sumner that Cailles is acting in good faith. Infante was previously an irreconcilable, and though he was the last to advise surrender, he told Gen. Sumner of his determination to bring in every gun.

There have been several sharp skirmishes in Bohol since the departure of the Forty-fourth Regiment. The conditions in Cebu are still backward. It is officially reported that insurgent bands, with American deserters, are going to Mindoro.

NATIVE THUGS CONVICTED.

HORRID CRIMES PUNISHED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Philippine mail brings to the War Department the records in cases wherein Filipinos were tried by military commissions on charges, including murder, rape, kidnaping, assault and battery, burglary and violation of the rules of war.

An especially notable case arose out of the operations of the famous oath-bound band of Filipinos called the "Society of the Sandathans." The principal officers of this society, next to a triumvirate of chiefs, are a chief executioner and assistants and a requisite number of grave-diggers, who participate in the self-appointed work of the band. The leaders select their victim, capture and carry him away in the night to a secret rendezvous on a sandy beach covered with very tall grass, where the diggers have already prepared the grave. Here, in the presence of the assembled band, helpless men and women from time to time have been stabbed to death and tossed into the graves. The members of the band then disperse and trust to the rise and fall of the near-by waters to hide the evidence of their ghastly work.

Ten members of the band, including two of the chiefs, were tried before a military commission, and eight of them were sentenced to be hanged. In approving the sentences, Gen. MacArthur says: "To the reviewing authority it is evident that there can be no hope for peace for the Filipinos nor security for their lives and property until they shall learn to unite against all bands of murderers and assassins, under whatever name they shall assume, and come to the assistance of the officers of the law in their determination to bring them all to justice."

In another case, an armed band of about twenty-five Filipinos carried away nine of the inhabitants of the barrio of Cesantuistra, and by repeated blows from the butts of their rifles, drove them to the Presidencia of Cabaruan. Here all hands drank freely of vino and the prisoners were made drunk. Then, according to the testimony of two of the prisoners who escaped, the others were led off in the direction of a grove of trees, where two days later their beheaded bodies were discovered. The members of the band who were captured received sentences of death in some cases, and imprisonment at hard labor for varying terms in others.

Four native policemen who had been sent to gather wood for a detachment of American troops were set upon, one of their number was killed and another lost his arm. A member of the band which attacked them was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

A native named Miranda was tried on four charges. A band under his leadership ambushed, robbed and killed two native brothers. Later the accused led his band against the country house of a native, set it afire, looted its contents and carried off into the fields three daughters of the owner, robbing them of their jewelry. Three days later his band attacked the town residence of the same native and thoroughly sacked it. His last crime was the murder of a native named Abelino, who frequented a gambling-house kept by his inamorata, for the reason that Abelino had not paid a gambling debt. Miranda was sentenced to be hanged.

Three natives were tried, charged with the murder of Private Henry F. Shafer, Co. L, Seventeenth Infantry. They were sentenced to be hanged, but this was commuted by Gen. MacArthur, in the case of two of them to imprisonment for life, and in the case of the other one to imprisonment for twenty years.

José Baligod, the president-elect of the Pueblo of Tuao, under the system established by the American government, while exercising the functions of his office, became cognizant of the organization of a band in a neighboring barrio for the purpose of attacking the small garrison of nineteen American soldiers stationed at Tuao. He traitorously cooperated with the leader of the band, advised him of the most auspicious time of attack, intercepted a messenger sent to warn the Americans and otherwise treacherously abused the trust of his office. He was sentenced to be confined at hard labor for twenty years.

Severina de Guia, vice-president of Bacoor, while returning in a caramata (a native vehicle) from San Nicholas, Cavite province, was set upon by a native band. They struck the coachman senseless, and carried off the vice-president and his two young sons, who were with him at the time. Some distance off they shot him dead before the eyes of his children and flung his body on a pile of rocks. A member of the band was captured and sentenced to be hanged.

NEWARK AT SUEZ.

SUEZ, June 17.—The United States cruiser Newark, which left Manila about May 5, homeward bound, has arrived here.

DE WITTE CRITICISES AMERICAN ACTION.

RUSSIA OBJECTS TO THIS COUNTRY'S SUGAR RULING.

Commercial Relations Between the Two Nations are Said to Be Strained. Present Conditions Very Unsatisfactory to the Czar's Government.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—M. De Witte, the Russian Minister of Finance, is quoted at length in a Herald special from St. Petersburg. He is made to say regarding the sugar question:

"It seems to me that the step taken by the United States cannot be characterized otherwise than as action taken without knowledge of Russian law. By the law here the produce of sugar is collected and the amount produced for home consumption is limited. Our object is to prevent a sudden slump in prices. But we must not put up prices. We insist on a reserve in order to prevent prices rising unduly and to check speculation. Our export manufacturers may do as they like, although we don't care that they export, because this gives grumblers and the newspapers an opportunity to say that Russian sugar is bought cheaper out of Russia than in. Russia most certainly does not give a bounty like Germany or France on exported sugar, nor can it be shown that she does. No semblance of bounty is given. What we do is a usage in all countries. We tax sugar for home consumption and not that exported. This is exactly the equivalent of the treatment of your alcohol spirits and your whiskey.

"I say that the American action was taken lightly because the exportation of Russian sugar to the United States is infinitesimal. Your legal authorities decided that Russia did not pay a bounty. Moreover, the Secretary of the Treasury stated that no action would be taken until the difference had been fully debated regarding both sugar and other classes of Russian exports. In spite of this, before there had been a full hearing, action was taken. That does not seem quite right. The situation now existing commercially between the United States and Russia is anything but satisfactory. I sincerely hope the present strained relations will end. They ought not to exist."

SECRETARY GAGE'S REPLY.

QUESTION OF LAW ONLY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The interview credited to M. De Witte, the Russian Minister of Finance, dealing with the sugar-duty question is commented upon as follows by Secretary Gage in a Washington special to the Herald:

"It is not contended that the remission of the internal taxes by the Russian government constitutes the granting of a bounty on Russian exports of sugar. The Russian home market for sugar is regulated by the government which fixes the price by limiting the amount of sugar that can be sold in the empire. When a cargo of sugar is exported the exporter receives a certificate setting forth that he has exported a given amount of sugar. The amount that a producer is allowed to put upon the Russian market is dependent in a large measure upon the certificates of export which he holds.

"These certificates are transferable. They have a market value of about three-fourths of a cent a pound. These certificates of the export of sugar have a recognized value in Russia.

"The Treasury Department, after a careful investigation of the whole subject, concluded that the evidence that a bounty was paid was at least strong enough to warrant action which would bring the question before the tribunal constituted by law to determine such questions. That tribunal—the Board of General Appraisers—has decided by a vote of 2 to 1, that the Russian treatment of sugar exports does constitute a bounty within the meaning of our law.

"I think that the effect of the retaliatory action of the Russian government has been greatly exaggerated. The statistics of export for last year show that we exported goods affected by the Russian retaliation to the value of only about $600,000. There is no disposition to do anything that would be displeasing to the Russian government. Every member of the present administration prizes the friendship and the good will of Russia very highly, and we hope for the continuance of the best relations between the two governments."

THE CRISIS IN CHINA

HAGUE PLAN TOO RISKY.

It Might Increase the Indemnity Figure.

Settlement is Expected for Present Week.

Great Britain Wants Opium Traffic Unrestricted—Foreign Troops.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Commissioner Rockhill has cabled from Peking that it is his expectation that before the end of the present week, the powers will settle the Chinese indemnity question by deciding that China must pay 450,000,000 taels and pay interest at 4 per cent. until this amount has been paid. If the powers do this, they will be accepting the British plan of settling the indemnity question. It will not suit the United States very well, because the total indemnity is higher than this government believes China can pay, but probably the United States will agree to it.

The State Department officials were very anxious, a while ago, to have the whole indemnity question referred to The Hague tribunal for settlement, in the hope that the Low indemnity would be decided upon. Lately a change has come over Washington in this respect. It is now feared that if the indemnity question is referred to The Hague, that tribunal, being composed largely of Europeans, will demand even a larger indemnity than that now demanded, simply because this country wants the figures cut down. So that plan has been practically shelved.

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Shanghia correspondent of the Globe, telegraphing under today's date, says he learns in Chinese quarters that the Dowager Empress proposes, when the court reaches Kai Fong Fu, in Ho Nan, to announce that the Emperor has been killed by brigands, and that Prince Tuan's son has succeeded to the throne.

The Dowager Empress will then establish a new capital at Kai Fong Fu, which will be connected by railway with Nanking. The contract for this railway will be given to John C. Fergusson of Boston, who, the correspondent understands, will sell the concession to the Russians.

The correspondent adds that Fergusson is acting in behalf of Li Hung Chang and Tao Tai Shang, who hope to escape censure by throwing the blame for the transaction upon Fergusson.

FAVORS OPIUM TRAFFIC.

BRITISH CHINESE CONTENTION.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—According to a Herald special from Washington, Great Britain has formally informed the powers that she will not consent to China putting an increased duty upon imports of opium and rice. Unless the combined influence of the powers induces the British government to withdraw from this position China's efforts to lessen the opium traffic will result in failure. It is almost seventy years since the Peking government, alarmed by the effects of opium upon its people, first sought to stop its importation.

The policy was followed by the "opium war" and Great Britain forced China to legalize the traffic. The war brought closer relations with China, but it was disastrous in fastening a national curse upon the empire. Great Britain's determination to oppose an increase in duty on opium and rice was communicated to the powers through her Minister to Peking.

The State Department will instruct Special Commissioner Rockhill to oppose on the part of this nation to have particular imports exempted from the application of the increased duty. If opium and rice, the important imports into China from India, continue to enjoy the advantage of a duty of only 5 per cent. ad valorem in silver, while the imports of other nations have to pay the proposed duty of 10 per cent., Great Britain would naturally derive considerable benefit.

DECISION ON INDEMNITY.

ONE NOW EXPECTED EARLY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—A cablegram has been received at the State Department from Special Commissioner Rockhill, fully confirming the Associated Press dispatches from Peking, to the effect that an early and complete decision on the indemnity question is expected, and that, too, on the basis of the proposition variously known as the American, British and the British-American. The officials here are hopeful that the present week will witness the close of negotiations on the subject of indemnity, though it is possible that a further slight delay may occur through a yielding to a desire of one of the Ministers that he be allowed one more opportunity to consult with his home government.

Once the subject of indemnity is out of the way, the withdrawal of the foreign troops from China will progress with rapidity. But there are still several other matters of the first order of importance to be finally adjusted by the Ministers, and one that is expected to give the most trouble is the arrangement of the newer trade treaties between the powers and China.

POINTS TO BE FIXED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, June 17.—Dispatches received at the Foreign Office here from Peking say that at the end of the meeting of the foreign Ministers there, Saturday, two points remained to be settled—firstly, fixing the value of the tael, which is tending to depreciate and is now reckoned at 74 Tc; secondly, the claim advanced by countries whose credit is low, such as Russia and Japan.

The latter countries wish to be allotted, proportionately, a larger number of bonds than the others, because they are obliged to pay a higher rate of interest. This suggestion did not evoke enthusiasm among the representatives of the other powers, and may give rise to considerable discussion.

ANNIVERSARY OF SIEGE.

SOLDIERS' GRAVES DECORATED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TIEN-TSIN, June 17.—[By Asiatic Cable.] This being the anniversary of the beginning of the siege of Tien-Tsin, the ladies today decorated the graves of the soldiers of all nationalities, while Mr. Vicuna of Chile dissented. The commission sums its findings as follows:

"First—That the damages alleged by the plaintiffs were not occasioned by any unjustifiable act on the part of the United States; that the Itata was not pursued by the naval authorities of the United States, upon the high seas into Chilean waters, induced to surrender by display of superior force, and brought back under duress.

"Second—That the Itata was voluntarily placed at the disposal of the United States by the provisional government of Chile.

"Third—That there was probable cause for the detention of the Itata at San Diego by the authorities of the United States, and therefore no wrong was done.

"Fourth—That the claimant has brought suit in the courts of Chile against the government of Chile to recover damages upon the identical claim that is here set up against the United States; that the company has recovered judgment thereon, and that these judgments have been paid to the company by the government of Chile. The case must therefore be dismissed."

Another important case decided today was that of the Central and South American Telegraph Company against Chile, growing out of a tax of 2 cents a message levied during the uprising of 1891. The commission awarded $4000 damages.

During the sessions of the commission there have been seventeen cases against Chile and two against the United States. The total of American claims against Chile was $3,400,000, and of this $28,062, or .084 per cent., has been awarded by the commission. The two Chilean claims against this government were The Itata case, disposed of today, and that of Richard Trumbull, who was awarded $3000 for services to the United States legation in Chile in an extradition case some years ago.

WON'T PRESS TOO HARD

THE HAGUE COURT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—A special to the Times from Washington says there has been some interesting talk at the Department of State about arbitration suggested by the decision of the United States not to press to the arbitrament of The Hague court the question of the amount of indemnity to be exacted by the powers from China and the other question of the proposed loan guarantee.

At the time Commissioner Rockhill requested authority to suggest this course, it seemed to be a very proper subject to submit to the court, and an indication of confidence in the principle of arbitration. But some considerations have arisen that took away from the prospect some of the attractiveness at first revealed.

To submit the question to the court of arbitration would have required stipulations to agree to the findings of the court, both as to the amount of the indemnity, and the method of securing its payment. That would possibly have called upon the United States to become a joint guarantor, which the administration does not desire, not because it objected to go in with guarantors with poorer credit than the United States, but for the more important reason that joint action would be obnoxious to the national policy.

Having once departed from a traditional policy that permits cooperation, but not joint action, it is realized that it would be embarrassing to refuse to act jointly with foreign powers in one matter, and not to abide by joint action in another instance. Should this departure be made in the first instance by submitting to arbitration the question of indemnity, it is suggested as possible that out of the increasing commercial rivalry incidental to expansion, many disputes may arise that might seek The Hague tribunal. It is questioned by some persons whether the United States could afford to refer all disputes arising out of trade rivalry to a court made up in a great part of our rivals.

DELEGATES CALLED HOME.

PORTO RICAN LEGISLATURE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Dr. José Barbosa and Gen. José Gomez Brioso, members of the executive council of Porto Rico, who are in this city, have received cablegrams from Porto Rico calling them back to attend a special session of the Legislature, called for July 4. Although they are not informed of the purpose of this extraordinary session, they believe that it is called to take action upon the question of the abolition of the tariff duties between the United States and Porto Rico.

They say that Treasurer Hollander has made a report showing that the receipts of the island will be sufficient to carry on the administration of the government after the new Hollander law goes into effect, July 1, and this being the case, the Legislature can request the United States government to suspend the further operation of the Foraker law.

HEISTAND WILL ANSWER

CHARGES OF A CONSPIRACY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—Lieut.-Col. H. O. S. Heistand of the Adjutant-General's department will arrive in San Francisco next Thursday, says a Herald special from Washington, and he will go direct to Washington, to reply to the charge that he was involved in a conspiracy to control the hemp export of the Philippines.

This charge was made by Maj. E. L. Hawkes, once of the volunteer service, who also connected ex-Assistant Secretary of War Meiklejohn, ex-Assistant Secretary of the Navy Allen, Adjt.-Gen. Corbin and other officials with the alleged conspiracy.

Maj. Hawkes succeeded in getting the Senate to order an investigation by its military committee. The committee desired to hear Lieut.-Col. Heistand, and he was ordered home to appear before it. The committee will resume its session upon his arrival.

PHYSICIANS DID NOT CALL.

MRS. M'KINLEY IS BETTER.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Mrs. McKinley's condition continues to improve, and there was no consultation of physicians at the White House today. Surgeon-General Sternberg, one of the consulting physicians, left for the Philippines today, and Dr. Rixey did not consider it necessary to call in Dr. Johnston, the other consulting physician. If the present improvement goes on, it is expected that Mrs. McKinley will be able to travel soon after July 1. The President will then accompany her to Canton, where the McKinley home has been made ready to receive her.

How long the President and Mrs. McKinley will remain in Canton will depend upon the benefit Mrs. McKinley receives from her stay at her old home. After she has been there for some time, if the weather is oppressively warm, and her physician recommends a change, the President probably will take her to some quiet place in the mountains or at the seashore. At any event, when the President departs for Canton with Mrs. McKinley, early in July, it will be to remain away from Washington for the remainder of the heated term. He might return for a day or two, once or twice during the summer, but he will not again take up his abode at the White House until fall.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Dr. Rixey on leaving the White House shortly after 11 o'clock tonight, said Mrs. McKinley had passed an excellent day. She had rested in her easy chair for a longer time than usual. He expressed with considerable confidence the belief that Mrs. McKinley will be strong enough to go to Canton by July 1.

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The following changes in diplomatic posts were announced today:

Francis B. Loomis, Minister to Venezuela, has been transferred to be Minister to Portugal, vice John N. Irwin of Iowa, resigned.

Herbert W. Gowen of New York, present Minister to Persia, has been transferred to Caracas, succeeding Mr. Loomis as Minister to Venezuela.

Lloyd F. Griscom of Pennsylvania, present first secretary of legation at Constantinople, has been made Minister to Persia.

Spencer Eddy of Illinois, present second secretary at Paris, has been made first secretary at Constantinople, to succeed Mr. Griscom.

Arthur Bailey Blanchard of Louisiana, has been promoted from third to second secretary at Paris.

LOOMIS'S LOSS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—By his transfer from Venezuela to Portugal, Minister Loomis will lose $2500 a year. He is now on leave in England. His actual rank will be the same, namely, minister extraordinary and envoy plenipotentiary.

Herbert W. Bowen, who becomes the new Minister to Venezuela, has a most creditable record in the consular and diplomatic service. He became United States Consul at Barcelona in 1889, and his office at that post was raised to the rank of Consul-General five years afterward. Bowen stuck to his post through the exciting days preceding the Spanish-American war as long as any American could have found safety on Spanish soil.

At the conclusion of the war he was about to return to his old post, but instead was appointed Minister Resident and Consul-General to Persia.

Lloyd Griscom has had a short but brilliant career as first secretary of legation at Constantinople. He has discharged his full duties of a minister at that important capital for several years, and if the American missionary claims have been successfully adjusted at last, a large part of the credit belongs to Mr. Griscom. He receives in his new capacity a salary of $5000 a year. He is a son of the president of the American Steamship Line Company.

Spencer Eddy has had a good deal of experience in diplomatic life. When Secretary Hay was Ambassador to London, Eddy, who was a resident of Chicago, became an honorary and personal attaché of the Ambassador. When Eddy returned with Mr. Hay to Washington, he was appointed third secretary of embassy at London. In February, 1899. Four months later he was proposed to be second secretary of embassy at Paris, where he has achieved great popularity and discharged a multitude of delicate and difficult duties during the exposition.

Blanchard, who becomes the second secretary to the embassy at Paris, has been in Paris less than one year. He is related to ex-Senator Blanchard of Louisiana.

ALLISON "NOT IN IT."

WON'T RUN FOR PRESIDENT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Senator Allison of Iowa was at the White House today. Speaking of Gov. Shaw's telegram urging him to enter the Presidential race, Senator Allison said he had already announced that he would not be a candidate.

"I have not changed my mind," said he. "I am not in it."

There is reason to believe that the Senator has written a letter uopn the subject to Gov. Shaw.

AMERICAN GOODS ABROAD.

INVESTIGATION OF PRICES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The industrial Commission has decided to make a general inquiry by means of circular letters into the charge that exporters of American-made goods often sell them for lower prices than are asked for similar goods at home, and a resolution was adopted today requiring from the business interests of the United States "a full and frank statement covering the efforts made to extend consumption of products to foreign markets."

The secretary of the commission was instructed to prepare a letter to manufacturers indicating the information desired, and asking among other questions whether they sell their goods at a lower price abroad than at home, and if so, requesting them to give reasons for this course. The letter also will ask for suggestions for securing better prices abroad for American goods.

CHEROKEE INDIANS INTERESTED

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The President has disapproved an act of the Cherokee Indian Council providing for a committee to execute a new agreement with the Dawes Commission. The tribe, by popular vote, recently rejected, by a majority of over a thousand, the agreement which had been made between its representatives and the Dawes Commission.

PHILIPPINE COMMERCE.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS GROW.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—An increase of 21 per cent. in imports and 48 per cent. in exports in Philippine commerce is shown in a comparative statement made public today by the division of insular affairs of the War Department, setting forth the trade returns for the first ten months of 1900 as compared with the same period in the preceding year. The total volume of merchandise imported into the Philippines from January to November of 1900 was $20,143,152, against $16,644,563 for the same period of 1899. The value of the exports from the Philippines during the 1900 period is set down at $19,372,620, against $12,975,695 in 1899.

The greater part of the imports came from the European and Asiatic countries, although this trade with the United States showed an increase of $521,367, or 43 per cent. Exports to the United States, however, showed a falling off of $75,627. The major share of the exports were [illegible] by European countries. There were no imports of gold and silver from the United States, although during the 1900 period $3,000,000 worth of coin, bullion and ore was exported to this country.

WHITE WINGS WENT DOWN.

Supposed Loss of a Fishing Vessel.

Thirty Men on Board from Seattle.

Militiamen Getting a Taste of Work—Chin Arrested Once Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The halibut fishing schooner White Wings is believed to have foundered, with thirty men on board, last month, while making her way from Vancouver Island to Wrangel Narrows, where she has been engaged in halibut fishing for two years.

The schooner is owned by the Straits Fishing Company, and sailed from Seattle about a month ago. Capt. Johnson, her master, intended to save time by taking an outside route between Vancouver and Moresby islands, instead of the more circuitous inside passage, by which she would have been sheltered the greater part of her voyage. The route which she took would expose her to the full fury of a west wind north of Vancouver, and it is believed she either foundered, or was driven ashore on Vancouver Island. Up to four days ago she had arrived in Wrangel Narrows, being then three weeks overdue. Nothing has been heard of her since she passed up the coast off Vancouver Island. She should have reached Wrangel Narrows in five days out from Seattle.

The White Wings was of only forty tons register, and could not withstand severe weather. She was built in Seattle two years ago, and had been in Alaskan waters until early in May, when she returned for repairs, and to procure coal and crew. She is reported to have had aboard a crew of sixteen, and fourteen others went north on her last trip to work in a cannery. All were shipped from Seattle.

MILITIAMEN AT WORK.

GETTING THE "REAL THING."

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SANTA CRUZ, June 17.—The militia at Camp Gage were this morning reduced to real soldiering. They were called at 5:30 a.m., and after breakfast each regiment spent three hours in battalion drills, being instructed how to charge an enemy.

The Third Brigade, composed of the Second and Sixth regiments and two troops of cavalry, left camp this afternoon on a march to the Big Trees, under the command of Brig.-Gen. Mullally. All carried shelter tents and full rations, equipped in heavy marching order. On the way to their destination scouts were sent ahead to report regarding an imaginary enemy. Rules were made of the country to be passed through, which will be submitted to Maj.-Gen. Dickinson. The object is to teach the men how to go through a hostile country and be prepared for surprises. On either side of the road are trees, brush, high hills and deep ravines, just the conditions necessary to give the men an object lessons in learning how to defend themselves against a hidden enemy. The brigade camped this evening under the forest giants and expected to return to camp by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The entire distance covered is about twenty miles. The Signal Corps did duty nearly all day laying wires.

The annual muster of regiments this week is to be very thorough, as rumors regarding the "stuffing" of different regiments have reached headquarters. It is claimed that friends of soldiers unable to attend the encampment were substituted, in order to make up the percentage, and thereby bring the percentage of attendance up to State. The investigation will be thorough, so that at future encampments the practice of "stuffing" will be discouraged. If reports prove to be true, there is danger of the officers who have encouraged "stuffing" being court-martialed.

The plateau where the drills take place was a large amount of hay, which had been planted by the person whom that portion of the heights had been rented, and there were threats of trampling down the hay, on the ground that the man had no right to plant it, but citizens came to the rescue by purchasing the hay for $400, which has been removed so that drilling may now proceed.

The rates for carrying passengers to camp were made today, the price being reduced from 25 to 10 cents, as many soldiers protested against paying a higher price.

This afternoon the First and Seventh regiments had dress parade. This evening order was issued to the effect that no teams will be admitted camp between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., unless accompanied by an officer.

In reply to the efforts to have a ship here, Secretary of the Navy today wired Adjt.-Gen. Seamans as follows: "The department regrets owing to a shortage of enlisted men on the Oregon necessary for disposing her ammunition, it is unable to send her. The Iowa, Wisconsin and Philadelphia are under orders to immediately depart from San Francisco."

Admiral Casey sent to Adjt.-Gen. Seamans his regrets at being unable to visit the camp, saying that the Philadelphia is ordered to Samoa, and the Oregon is under orders to sail for Tacoma, Wash., for repairs. The Wisconsin and Iowa are to sail for Cape Horn to Squad.

The Fifth Regiment Band gave a concert in front of Second Brigade headquarters tonight.

Congressman McLachlan was escorted through camp today by Los Angeles soldiers. He was cheered by the men from the southland when he made his appearance.

This morning the dry grass near the Second Regiment's tents took fire, but was quickly extinguished by the soldiers in response to the fire call.

Wednesday the Fifth Regiment will have a practice march to Capitola. The other continues pleasant.

WHITE WINGS WENT DOWN.

Supposed Loss of a Fishing Vessel.

Thirty Men on Board from Seattle.

Militiamen Getting a Taste of Work—Chin Arrested Once Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The halibut fishing schooner White Wings is believed to have foundered, with thirty men on board, last month, while making her way from Vancouver Island to Wrangel Narrows, where she has been engaged in halibut fishing for two years.

The schooner is owned by the Straits Fishing Company, and sailed from Seattle about a month ago. Capt. Sheldon, her master, intended to save time by taking an outside route between Vancouver and Moresby islands, instead of the more circuitous inside passage, by which she would have been sheltered the greater part of her voyage. The route, which she took would expose her to the full fury of the west wind north of Vancouver, and it is believed she either foundered, or was driven ashore on Vancouver Island. Up to four days ago she had not arrived in Wrangel Narrows, before then three weeks overdue. Nothing has been heard of her since she passed up the coast off Vancouver Island. She should have reached Wrangel Narrows in five days out from Seattle.

The White Wings was of only forty tons register, and could not withstand severe weather. She was built in Seattle two years ago, and had been in Alaskan waters until early in May, when she returned for repairs, and to secure coal and crew. She is reported to have had aboard a crew of sixteen, and fourteen others went north on her to work in a cannery. All were shipped from Seattle.

MILITIAMEN AT WORK.

GETTING THE "REAL THING."

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SANTA CRUZ, June 17.—The militia-men at Camp Gage were this morning introduced to real soldiering. They were called at 5:30 a.m., and after breakfast each regiment spent three hours in battalion drills, being instructed how to charge an enemy.

The Third Brigade, composed of the First and Sixth regiments and two troops of cavalry, left camp this afternoon on a march to the Big Trees, under the command of Brig.-Gen. Mulkey, carried shelter tents and one day's rations, equipped in heavy marching order. On the way to their destination scouts were sent ahead to report regarding an imaginary enemy. Camps were made of the country through which they will be subsisted to Maj.-Gen. Dickinson. The object is to teach the men how to go through a hostile country and be prepared for surprises. On either side of the road are trees, brush, high hills and deep ravines, just the condition necessary to give the men ample object lessons in learning how to protect themselves against a hidden enemy. The brigade camped this evening under the forest giants and are expected to return to camp by 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The entire distance covered is about twenty miles. The Signal Corps did duty yesterday all day laying wires.

The annual muster of regiments this year is to be very thorough, as rumors regarding the "stuffing" of different regiments have reached headquarters. It is claimed that friends of officers unable to attend the encampment were substituted, in order to make up the percentage, and thereby secure the full allowance made by the State. The investigation will be thorough, so that at future encampments the practice of "stuffing" will be discouraged. If reports prove to be true, there is danger of the officers who have encouraged "stuffing" being court-martialed.

On the plateau where the drills take place there was a large amount of hay, which had been planted by the person from whom that portion of the heights was rented, and there were threats of trampling down the hay, on the ground that the man had no right to rent it, but citizens came to the rescue by purchasing the hay for $400, which has been removed so that drilling may proceed.

Special rates for carrying passengers to and from camp were made today, the price having been reduced from 25 to 10 cents, as the soldiers protested against paying a higher price.

This afternoon the First and Seventh Regiments had dress parade. This evening order was issued to the effect that no teams will be admitted to camp between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., unless accompanied by an officer.

In reply to the efforts to have a warship here, Secretary of the Navy Long today wired Adjt.-Gen. Seamans as follows: "The department regrets that owing to a shortage of enlisted men on the Oregon necessary for discharging her ammunition, it is unable to send her. The Iowa, Wisconsin and Philadelphia are under orders to immediately depart from San Francisco."

Adjt.-Gen. Casey sent to Adjt.-Gen. Seamans his regrets at being unable to visit the camp, saying that the Philippines is ordered to Samoa, and the Iowa is under orders to sail for Bremerton, Wash., for repairs. The Wisconsin and Iowa are to sail for Manila.

The Fifth Regiment Band gave a concert in front of Second Brigade headquarters tonight.

Congressman McLachlan was escorted through camp today by Los Angeles soldiers. He was cheered by the men from the southland when he made his appearance.

This morning the dry grass near the Second Regiment's tents took fire, but was quickly extinguished by the men in response to the fire call.

Wednesday the Fifth Regiment will have a practice march to Capitola. The weather continues pleasant.

SHIH CHIN'S TROUBLES.

REARRESTED IN BAY CITY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Su Shih Chin, the Chinese reformer, was brought into the United States District Court today on a writ of habeas corpus. At the request of his counsel, the writ of habeas corpus was dismissed without prejudice, and the prisoner was immediately rearrested on a warrant charging him with being unlawfully in the country. Judge De Haven fixed the amount of bail at $2000 and referred the hearing of the case to United States Court Commissioner Heacock, who set June 26 as the day for the examination of the case.

Counsel for the Chinese Consul-General made the statement in court that his client had no prejudice against the reformer; that it was not true that a price of $50,000 had been placed on Su's head by the Chinese government, and all that Ho Yow complained of was that he had extended official courtesies to Su because of certain false representations that had been made to him on behalf of the reformer. He merely wished it to be understood that the Consul-General desired to recall those courtesies. Outside of that matter, Ho had no interest whatever in the landing or non-landing of Mr. Su.

FORTIETH REGIMENT RETURNS

THE PENNSYLVANIA ARRIVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The army transport Pennsylvania arrived tonight, twenty-six days from Manila, bringing home the Fortieth Regiment. The regiment was recruited at Fort Riley, Kan., in February, 1899, and went to the Philippines 1272 strong. It returns with only 909 men, including the field, staff and headquarters officers. The regiment was in Southern Luzon, and Mindonao. It is under command of Col. E. A. Godwin.

THREE WERE INJURED.

COLLISION AT NAPA.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NAPA, June 17.—The evening train from San Francisco met with an accident at this city last night, that resulted in the slight injury of the engineer, John Rutherford of Calistoga, and of two passengers, Mrs. Burgess of San Francisco and Mrs. Fred Blanchard of Napa.

When about 400 yards from the depot it ran into an open switch, upon which stood four box cars. One of these was completely demolished, and the locomotive of the passenger train was badly wrecked. Seeing that a crash was inevitable, the train men jumped. Engineer Rutherford suffered a sprained ankle, but Fireman Smith was more fortunate, and escaped uninjured.

Pullman Porter's Widow Sues.

OAKLAND, June 17.—A complaint has been filed by Mary Ann Hughes, as guardian of her five minor children, against the Southern Pacific Company for $50,000 damages, which the plaintiffs affirm they incurred by the death of J. M. Hughes, who received fatal injuries in a wreck while acting as a Pullman car porter November 15, 1899. The plaintiffs claim that Hughes met his death through the negligence and carelessness of the defendant.

No Clew to Lynchers.

ALTURAS, June 17.—The investigation which has been going on before the Modoc County grand jury looking into the lynching of Calvin Hall, three sons and Daniel Yantis closed Saturday at noon, and took a recess until 10 o'clock this morning. The investigation has failed to reveal anything as yet. All, or nearly all of the witnesses who resided at Lookout departed immediately for their homes, all being anxious over the reported Indian uprising. Nothing could be definitely learned here today regarding the Indian scare, and it is presumed that nothing serious will come out of it.

SECOND PLEA FOR ROLAND MOLINEUX.

FORMER SENATOR DAVID B. HILL AN ATTORNEY IN THE CASE.

Lawyer Milburne Claims the Evidence Does not Show That Young Molineux Caused the Death of the Late Mrs. Katherine J. Adams.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) June 17.—The second plea for the life of Roland B. Molineux, claimed by the law for the mysterious murder by mailed poison of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams in New York, December, 1898, began today before the Court of Appeals. Chief Justice Parker and Associate Judges Vann, Bartlett, Gray, O'Brien, Haight and Werner will decide the appeal, and the respective arguments are in the hands of specially retained counsel. John G. Milburne represents the defendant, and former United States Senator David B. Hill speaks for the people.

The printed record of the case is the largest ever submitted in the State in a criminal case, and upon its consideration during the interim between now and the fall session of the court, rests the decision. The oral argument submitting the briefs is to be short, and it is anticipated that it will be concluded by tomorrow afternoon. The officers of the court, fearing the annoyance of a large crowd, locked the outer doors of the Supreme Court room and admitted the privileged few by the private entrance.

Gen. Molineux, the aged father of the defendant, and David L. Carvalho, the handwriting expert, who advised the defense at the trial, were present. Judge Parker asked counsel if an extension beyond the two hours usually allotted to an argument was desired. Mr. Milburne said he would probably require four hours. Mr. Hill nodded his approval, and so it was agreed that each side should have four hours.

Milburne began his address for the defendant with a brief statement of the charge and nature of the appeal, following it with what he called a sketch of the chief personnel in the case. He sketched the training of young Molineux as an expert paint and color manufacturer and, in turn, told of his connection with the Knickerbocker and New York Athletic clubs, his marriage to Blanche Cheesebrough and his relations with Harry Cornish, manager of the Knickerbocker Athletic Club. Milburne passed on to the receipt of a bottle purporting to contain medicine and Mrs. Adams's death, after taking a dose of the supposed medicine, and contended that the prosecution had failed to connect the accused with the sending of the bottle through the mails.

RUSSELL CASE IS A COMPLEX ONE.

BOTH RUSSELL AND MRS. SOMERVILLE WERE DIVORCED.

It is Thought the Present Case Will Show Validity of American Divorces. British View of Judge Curler, the Nevada Lawyer in Case.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Earl Russell case, which has been worked up with secrecy in America by an English solicitor, presents many anomalies and complexities. Russell and Mrs. Somerville were in the same position, each having married in England, been divorced in Nevada and then married there. The defense will naturally be that a divorce was obtained under the Nevada law and that he was free to marry again. The work done by the solicitor in America was not disclosed today, with the single exception that Judge Curler, who performed the marriage, was announced as a witness. It is suspected, however, that evidence will be produced relating to the divorce obtained by Russell in Nevada, and that an attempt will be made to invalidate it on the ground of irregularities.

The case actually reaches the upper house of Parliament on question of privilege. This bigamy trial in its broadest aspects will bring up the whole question of validity of American divorces when Englishmen cross the Atlantic for purposes of evading the English law and return with American degrees as their ground of defence. It is evident that the prosecution has prepared itself for a hard fight, and it has got all the facts respecting Russell's marriage and divorce in Nevada, and also full information of recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court on the subject. Judge Curler has nothing to say respecting the Russell case, in which he will be an important witness. He is a bright and jovial American lawyer, who has enjoyed his journey across the continent and his voyage from New York.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Earl Russell was arrested today on a charge of having contracted a bigamous marriage in the United States. The Earl was met at the railway station on his arrival from the country by detectives with a warrant and was taken to the Bow-street Police Court, where he was formally charged. The nobleman appeared to be quite unconcerned.

While Earl Russell awaited in the anteroom the summons to appear before the magistrate, the woman whom he married in America joined him. When the case was called a representative of the public prosecutor said the prisoner was charged with feloniously marrying Mrs. Mollie Somerville, daughter of the late George C. Cook of Combernaul, Scotland. The prosecution proceeded to outline the Earl's marriage to Mable Scott (his first countess) the separation, his subsequent disappearance from England with a neighbor, Mrs. Somerville, and the discovery that he and Mrs. Somerville were together at Reno, Nev. On April 14, 1900, Earl Russell obtained a license to marry Mollie Cooke, otherwise Mrs. Somerville, in Nevada, and a judge performed the ceremony April 15.

Counsel for the Earl pointed out that the prosecution omitted mention of the divorce proceedings instituted by his lordship in America. The Earl was remanded in £2000 bail.

In the event of a conviction, the case will be taken to the House of Lords, as Earl Russell is entitled to a trial by his peers.

The prosecution announced that Nevada District Judge Koehler, and witnesses of the marriage had arrived in England to prove the ceremony. Counsel for the defense intimated that Earl Russell, having secured a divorce in America, believed his subsequent marriage was legal.

WANT TO SURVEY THE PACIFIC OCEAN.

NUMEROUS COMMERCIAL BENEFITS WOULD BE GAINED BY IT.

Many of the Most Practical Naval Men of All the Leading Nations are Heartily in Favor of It—Paths Established by Secretary Long.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—Safe steamer lanes across the Pacific Ocean have been established under the plans proposed by the Secretary of the Navy a year ago says a Herald special from Washington. These lanes are thirty miles wide.

A report received by Capt. C. C. Todd, hydrographer of the navy, from sixty commanders of warships, government transports and merchant steamers, show that not a single menace to navigation exists within the limits of the tracks platted by the department.

The lanes across the Pacific connect San Francisco with Honolulu, Guam and Manila; San Francisco with Nagasaki, Puget Sound ports with Nagasaki, and Honolulu and Guam with Nagasaki.

Exporters and steamship men on the Pacific Coast purpose to use their influence to secure the adoption by Congress of Rear-Admiral Bradford's recommendation for a comprehensive survey of the Pacific Ocean. Capt. Todd, in his annual report, will strongly urge that Congress be asked to make an appropriation to fit out a ship to make the survey, and Rear-Admiral Bradford, chief of equipment, will incorporate this recommendation in his report.

Naval attachés of Germany, Great Britain and Japan have suggested the advisability of the participation of their governments. If these should act with the United States it is pointed out that the ocean could be divided and each nation could survey that section which is especially important to its commercial interests or in the vicinity of its insular possessions.

NORWEGIAN BARK LOST.

Crew of Hasselnodder Were Rescued in Mid-sea by British Steamer and Taken to Cape Town.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The British steamship Begonia, which arrived tonight from Cape Town, by way of Baltimore, reports that May 5, about seventy-two miles off Algoa Bay, she fell in with the Norwegian bark Hasselnodder, Capt. Kurtze, flying signals indicating that the crew wanted to abandon her. The bark was dismasted, and had lost two men. She had a cargo of 700 tons of coal from Cardiff, and was bound for East London, Cape Colony.

The Begonia attempted to tow the tark, but the wind and sea were heavy and the hawser parted three times. The steward of the Begonia was knocked overboard the second time the tow line broke. Capt. Elliott threw him a line, and he held on until a lifeboat rescued him. The bark was making water fast, and all hands left her, boarded the steamship and were landed at Cape Town. The derelict was set on fire.

LABOR CIRCLES AROUSED.

Colorado Working People Think Some One Has Stolen the Employers' Liability Bill—After the Thief.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, June 17.—Conferences of labor leaders are being held in this city to investigate the reported theft from the official files of what is known as the "Employers' Liability Bill," passed by the last Legislature in the interest of the wage earners.

"If it is true that the record of the passage of the employers' liability law has been stolen from the official journal of the Senate, and it cannot be recovered, the law is invalid. There are decisions in our courts that cover practically similar cases." That is the statement made by Lieut.-Gov. Coates of Colorado.

"I do not yet know officially that the portion of the bill has been stolen, but I shall investigate. If the bill or a portion of it has been stolen it has been done deliberately, and with the sole intent of invalidating the law. When the bill was pending, it was bitterly fought. Every effort was made to defeat it. The duplicate copies will do us no good. The courts will accept only the original. I do not suspect any person in this work. I do not know whether the part of the record alleged to be missing disappeared before it was given to the Secretary of State or after; I am, however, inclined to believe that the portion was stolen before it reached the Secretary of State.

"This theft comes as a stunning blow to the working people of Colorado. It was the one law that the working people wanted passed, and the one for which the friends of labor made their hardest fight. Four years ago, a portion of the record of the passage of the Scrip bill was stolen, and that bill was invalidated."

At a conference held in the offices of the State Federation of Labor, President Garman declared that if the bill is declared to be void by reason of the theft, that organized labor in the State would expend hundreds of dollars in finding and convicting the guilty persons.

ONCE MORE A HAPPY WOMAN.

Completely Cured of Catarrh by Peruna. General Health Also Improved.

Miss Ida Murray writes from 2537 Polk St., Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I had chronic catarrh of the head, which made the slightest cold so much worse. I am completely cured of my catarrh after four months' faithful use of Peruna, and my general health is greatly improved. I always speak a good word for Peruna."—Ida Murray.

Miss Anna Bryan, a favorite cousin of William Jennings Bryan, writes from 1450 Florida Avenue, Washington, D. C.:

"At the solicitation of a friend I began some weeks ago to take your Peruna, and I now feel like a new person. I take pleasure in recommending it to all who want a good tonic, and a permanent cure for catarrh."—Anna Bryan.

Catarrh Generally Thought to Be a Disease of the Head Only.

Wherever there is a mucous membrane there catarrh may exist.

The only reason that catarrh is more frequent in the passage of the nose and throat is because these passages are more exposed to cold than the other portions of the mucous membrane. But one is liable to have catarrh of the lungs, or kidneys, or stomach, or liver, or bowels, and especially the bladder and other pelvic organs.

Peruna is a specific in cases of female weakness or pelvic catarrh, and is heartily endorsed by all the women.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Miss Ida Murray.

RAILROAD RECORD

ALL LEAD UP TO STUBBS.

Harriman Lines Placed in His Charge.

Fifty Thousand a Year for His Pains.

Petition for Rehearing of the Fresno Rate Case is Filed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All roads in the Middle West and Northwest in which E. H. Harriman, J. P. Morgan, the Vanderbilts and J. J. Hill are interested hereafter will be practically under one management. J. C. Stubbs, now third vice-president of the Southern Pacific, will be traffic expert, or manager for the Harriman group of roads, while Darius Miller, second vice-president of the Great Northern, will occupy a similar position for the Hill roads. Both will have offices in Chicago.

This is one result of the conference held in Chicago Saturday between Harriman and various railroad men. The position which Stubbs is to hold is the same one vainly offered recently by Harriman to Morton, second vice-president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé at a salary of $50,000 a year. Stubbs will have full charge of all traffic affairs of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Oregon Short Line and Oregon Railway and Navigation Company. He will also have charge of the transcontinental traffic affairs of the Chicago and Northwestern, Chicago and Alton, Illinois Central, Milwaukee and St. Paul, and one or two other lines that may come under Harriman control.

DARIUS MILLER'S PART.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, June 17.—Darius Miller, who is one of President Hill's trusted lieutenants, will be one of the traffic experts of the Burlington, Great Northern and Northern Pacific, and to these may be added later on, the Chicago, Great Western, the Wisconsin Central, Minneapolis and St. Louis, and Iowa Central. Miller, it is understood, will also be made second vice-president of the Burlington road.

Stubbs and Miller will act in unison on all transcontinental and competitive traffic matters. The making of rates will be in their hands, and it will be their duty to see to it that rates are firmly maintained. Their headquarters, it is said, will be in Chicago, and the traffic affairs of this vast railroad combine will be directed from this city.

FRESNO RATE CASE.

PETITION FOR REHEARING.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—A petition for a rehearing of the case of E. B. Edson, C. S. Laumeister and N. Blackstock, constituting the Board of Railroad Commissioners, plaintiffs, vs. the Southern Pacific Company, defendant and appellant, more familiarly known as the Fresno rate case, was filed with the Supreme Court today by Atty.-Gen. Tirey L. Ford, Deputy Attorney-General George A. Sturtevant and Frank H. Short, attorneys for the commissioners. The petition asks for a rehearing of the now famous case, and if it is granted it will place the case before the Supreme Court in exactly the same position in which it stood before the court's decision.

The petition is a voluminous document, and presents a lengthy argument that is designed to correct the court's view on many points involved in the case, in addition to asking for a ruling by the court on several points of law that were ignored or overlooked in the recent decision, which ruling, in the opinion of the commissioners, is absolutely necessary to save the trial court from costly errors and consequent further delays when the case is tried on its merits.

Concerning the court's recent decision, the petition presents a variety of considerations which, in the opinion of the petitioners, are sufficient to satisfy the court that in several material respects, at least, the opinion of the court rests upon incorrect assumptions and should be reversed, or in any event should be carefully reheard.

NO IMMEDIATE CHANGES

ON OGDEN ROUTE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—General Manager Kruttschnitt of the Southern Pacific Company has returned from the conference of Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Northwestern officials held at Ogden a few days ago. In discussing the matter he said: "We decided upon no radical changes. There will be no modification in the running time of through trains until the changes in the grades on the Central Pacific and the Ogden-Lucin cut off which have been planned, have been accomplished."

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The London correspondent of the Tribune says that following on Sir Alfred Hickman's so-called revelations with regard to the use of American locomotives on Indian and Burmese railways, another member of Parliament, Sir Charles Cayser, has discovered that wheels, axles and other material for these railways have been ordered from Krupp, in Essen, Germany, and that rolling stock has been ordered in Austria. He intends to put a question to Lord George Hamilton on this subject.

MISSOURI PACIFIC DIVIDENDS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—At a special meeting of the directors of the Missouri Pacific Railway a semi-annual dividend of 2½ per cent. was declared. BRAKEBEAM TRUST.

ST. LOUIS MEN CONTROL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS, June 17.—The Globe-Democrat says today that it is possible the coming week may see the consolidation of the four great companies interested in the manufacture of brakebeams, viz: the Chicago Railway Equipment Company, which is practically owned by St. Louisians; the Monarch Brakebeam Company of Detroit, the Interchangeable Brakebeam Company of St. Louis and the Sterling Worth Brakebeam Company of Easton. The provision is to consolidate with a capitalization of $5,000,000, of which one-half is to be issued in preferred stock and one-half in common stock. The holdings of St. Louisians would entitle them to about 65 per cent., or a good controlling interest in the combination.

TRANS-ALASKAN ROAD.

WILL TAP THE GOLD BELT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) June 17.—From late Alaskan advices it is evident that a trans-Alaskan railroad will be constructed in the near future. Briefly stated, it is proposed to build a steel highway from Iliamna Bay, on the southern shore of the Alaskan peninsula, to Nome, Teller City and Bering Straits. The preliminary surveys have just been completed by Norman R. Smith.

The heavy financial backers of the undertaking are said to be easetrn capitalists. The line will cover about 800 miles, and will run through the very heart of the Alaskan gold belt. Work has been quietly going on for the past two years.

MYSTERIOUS PERSECUTION.

New York Girl Three Times Burned With Carbolic Acid Thrown at Her by an Unknown Person.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Three times within two weeks Charlotte Colle, a handsome girl 18 years old, residing with her parents in the St. Nicholas, a fashionable apartment house at One Hundred and Fourteenth street and St. Nicholas avenue, has been burned by carbolic acid thrown at her by an unknown person in the house in which she lives. On every occasion she has been scarred about the face, arms and neck, and for two weeks detectives have been at work on the case with absolutely no result. The mystery, they say, is one of the most puzzling with which they have ever had to deal.

On two occasions the acid was thrown down the elevator shaft into the car in which Miss Colle was ascending, and she, as well as the elevator boy, was burned. The last assault was committed Saturday night as the young woman was leaning out of a window to water flowers on the fire escape. Some one above her broke a bottle of acid and the fluid again seared her neck and arms. It is believed that an attempt was also made to poison the young woman or a member of her family, for Thursday last her mother found, just outside the door of her apartment, a box half filled with caramels, each of them wrapped in tissue paper. This box, with its contents, is now in the hands of a chemist.

MAY BE WRONG ONE.

Man Supposed to Be Arthur Blath, the English Murderer, Wins First Honors in Court.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Charles Lilly White, who claims to be a naturalized American and who says he has been in the United States since 1885, but who was arrested in New Zealand in November last and brought to this country yesterday charged with being Arthur Blath, who is accused of murder, robbery and arson committed at Colchester, Eng., in 1893, had his first hearing today in Camera, to the disgust of a number of curious people who crowded the courtroom. The discovery of relatives the prisoner claims to have in Leeds presages a break down of the government case.

Arthur Blath, in 1893, robbed and murdered Arthur Welch at Colchester, Eng., and set fire to his victim's tailor shop in order to cover his crime. Blath escaped and no trace of him was found until a man answering his description was arrested at Wellington, N. Z., November 16, as the result of information given to the police by a woman. The prisoner was identified at Blath at Wellington by two residents of London, but the prisoner claim to be Charles Lilley White and said he had an aunt named Caroline Cook living in Chicago. He also said he had homesteaded in the State of Washington in 1892-93, and he had some documentary evidence which supported his claim.

SCORPIONS AND SCURVY.

German Bark Planet Discovered at Sea in Horrible Condition—Captain and Chief Officer Die.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 18.—A dispatch from Philadelphia to the Times says that the trans-Atlantic line steamship Crown Point, from Philadelphia to London, fell in with the German bark Planet, the decks of which were swarming with scorpions, the captain and crew of which were sick with scurvy, the chief officer dead, and the second officer too ill to take any part in the navigation of the vessel. This was on May 14 in lat. 4 deg. 35 min. N., long. 13 deg. 30 min. W. Second Officer Bryant of the Crown Point was put in charge of the stricken bark and worked her into Queenstown Harbor May 23.

Capt. Buskenneth of the Planet was stricken May 12 with scurvy. He was unconscious when the Crown Point fell in with the bark. He never regained consciousness, and died before the bark reached Queenstown. The second officer died May 24.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KINGSTON (Jamaica) June 17.—[By West Indian Cable.] Advices received here from Colombia say the rebels refuse to lay down their arms, owing to the ill-treatment of political prisoners by government officers.

As a warning to liberal sympathizers and in view of the recrudescence of rebel activity in the interior, the Colombian government has purchased the steamer Darien to be used as a gunboat.

NEW YORK, June 17.—A. J. Townsend, agent in this city of the Shanghai and Hongkong Banking Corporation, received a cable message today, saying that $250,000 Mexican dollars stolen from the company May 24 at Singapore, had been recovered in Ceylon. No particulars were given.

ALLEGED SWINDLER SAYS HE CAME FROM HERE.

WILLIAM GRIER CAMBELL IN CINCINNATI JAIL.

Worked Prominent Firms and Persons for Large Sums—Had Valuable Smelting Patents, But the Contract Which Made Them Valuable Had Expired'

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CINCINNATI, (O.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Campbell was arrested today on the complaint of Raymond R. Carew, charged with extensive swindling. According to Carew, he was induced by Campbell to put up $150,000, while his friend put up $100,000 more for a half-interest in some valuable smelting patents.

Campbell had a contract with an inventor in Boston. The patents were genuine, but it was discovered the contract had expired. On strength of it, however, he secured $1100 worth of jewelry from C. D. Peacock in Chicago and much clothing from Marshall Field & Company.

Campbell brought letters three years ago from the Governor of California and others on the Pacific Coast. He sold patent rights on the smelting invention to John D. Rockefeller, for the State of Michigan, for $80,000; C. P. Huntington bought them for Wyoming for $60,000; Armour and Pullman invested heavily, and of course, lost every cent they put in.

Campbell says his transaction were lawful. He has his wife here, and a companion for her in Miss Alvina Juss of Los Angeles. He gave his residence as Los Angeles; his age 39, and his occupation as a broker. He had $100 in money on his person when he was arrested.

MRS. BEAUPRE'S REVENGE.

Balked in Her Claim Against a Street Railway Company by Mrs. Woodgate She Wins the Latter's Husband.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Alice H. Woodgate has sued Mrs. Artemesia Beaupré for $5000 for alienating her husband's affections. Mrs. Beaupré sued the Indianapolis Street Railway Company for $20,000 for injuries several years ago. Mrs. Woodgate was a strong witness against Mrs. Beaupré's claim, and as the case was tried four times, the enmity of the women became deep-seated.

In the complaint for alienation, filed today, Mrs. Woodgate alleges that Mrs. Beaupré declared, after the street-car case was tried the last time, that she would have revenge by breaking Mrs. Woodgate's heart. As the fruit of these declarations, Mrs. Woodgate asserts, Mrs. Beaupré began a systematic assault upon the loyalty of her husband, John C. Woodgate, and finally succeeded. Suit for divorce is now pending between Mrs. Beaupré and her husband.

ODELL FOR PRESIDENT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Journal and Advertiser tomorrow will say:

"It seems to me that Gov. Odell will be reelected and that he will later be President."

This was Senator Thomas C. Platt's reply to a question put to him yesterday by a Journal and Advertiser reporter as to whether Gov. Odell is likely to succeed him in the Senate two years hence.

"It is reported that you may resign from the Senate ere your term expires."

"I have no such intention. The only fact is that I propose to retire when my term ends in 1903. The reports that I am in ill-health are unfounded."

An Oskaloosa, Iowa, dispatch says Charles Hoffmier, a prominent farmer of Mahaka county, committed suicide yesterday at Union Mills by hanging. He was mentally deranged on account of religious excitement.

Fire in the lumber yard of the C. W. Leatherbee Company, Boston, early yesterday, caused a loss estimated at about $80,000.

THE PRESIDENT'S DEGREE.

The Chief Magistrate May not Go to Harvard Commencement to Receive the Honor Designed to Be Conferred.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 18.—The Tribune says that Horatio S. Rubens, formerly counsel to the Cuban junta in this city, who came here a few days ago from Cuba, will return to Cuba this week to report to the friends of Gen. T. Estrada Palma on the possibility of Gen. Palma's accepting the nomination for the Presidency of Cuba. Gen. Palma came down from Central Valley, N. Y., to talk with Rubens, and, although he said that he did not want to run, Rubens thinks he can be persuaded to accept the nomination. Rubens said:

"Gen. Palma is not seeking office, but I do not think he will be able to resist the demands of the people of Cuba. They are almost a unit for him. Palma made himself popular with the Cubans by the way he conducted the affairs of the Cuban junta in this city. A genius is not needed as President of Cuba, but an honest man. The only possible opponent of Palma is Gen. Bartholomew Masso, the vice-president of the revolutionary provisional government in Cuba.

"The reason that there was trouble about the acceptance of the Platt amendment by the Cubans was that it was not understood there. The election will probably be held in autumn, and the inauguration of the President will be in January."

HONOR FOR CHAPPELLE.

Pope is Asked to Elevate the New Orleans Archbishop to the Rank of Cardinal.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The name of Archbishop Chappelle of New Orleans has been brought to the attention of the Vatican authorities and to the Pope in person, for elevation to the rank of cardinal, because of his success as papal delegate for the Philippines and West Indies.

Archbishop Chappelle is of French origin, and it is believed that his elevation would be looked upon with favor by the French authorities. In some ecclesiastical quarters it had been felt that the church authorities over the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico should come under the American hierarchy, rather than under a papal delegates, as the American church is better able to cooperate with the United States government in directing insular affairs. It is understood this question also has been brought to the attention of the Vatican during the visit of Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop Chappelle.

During one of the audiences when the elevation of Archbishop Chappelle was urged on the Pope, the latter expressed his high regard for the work of the archbishop.

THORNY QUESTIONS REMAIN.

London Daily Mail Says Pauncefote Should Stay at Washington—The Nicaraguan Canal in War.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 18.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Daily Mail, in an editorial urges the British government to retain Lord Pauncefote at Washington, as several thorny questions are still awaiting settlement. The editorial in question further advocates giving the United States every facility to construct the Nicaragua Canal, provided its neutrality and an "open door" be guaranteed. The Daily Mail says it is quite immaterial whether the canal be fortified or not, because an enemy desiring to use the canal against the wishes of the United States would find himself engaged in a disastrous venture.

A ton of dynamite, judiciously applied, would bottle him up in Nicaragua till the war was over.

"Who imagines," asks the Daily Mail, "that the Suez Canal would be opened to British men-of-war if Great Britain is engaged in warfare with a first-class naval power?"

ECKER SHOT AND FLED.

Deputy Sheriff Killed and Merchant Wounded in an Effort to Catch a Raiser of Checks.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KEMMERER (Wyo.) June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In an attempt to arrest Joe Ecker on the Big Piney, seventy miles north of Opal, yesterday, Deputy Sheriff C. B. Holden was shot and killed, and Fred Reardon, a prominent merchant of Opal, was fatally wounded. After the shooting Ecker fled. A posse was organized, and is now on the trail of the murdered, who, if caught, will be lynched, as the feeling against him is bitter.

Ecker about two years ago raised a check, and after cashing it fled from the country, going to the Philippines, where he was in the army service. He returned a few days ago, and an attempt was made to arrest him for the crime.

PALMA FOR PRESIDENT.

Horatio S. Rubens Thinks He Can Get the General to Accept a Nomination as Cuba's Chief.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 18.—According to a Boston dispatch to the Herald, the President will not be present at the commencement of Harvard University to receive the degree of LL.D., and the university will not confer the degree in his absence.

When President Eliot was informed that the President would not be present, he said: "If Mr. McKinley is not present at the commencement, the degree will not be conferred upon him, as there would be no opportunity to do so. Formerly a degree was so conferred, occassionally, but the custom of the college for several years has been to present the degree to those only who present themselves in prson on commencement day. I presume the custom will be adhered to this year."

RHODES'S WINNING WAYS.

CAPE TOWN, June 17.—[By South African Cable.] Cecil Rhodes, in his speech at Buluwayo, Rhodesia, June 15, when he predicted that a federation of the South African States would come within three or four years, made what is regarded as a bid for the premiership of Cape Colony.

After eulogizing the action of the Rhodesians and Natalians, he said the only State he pitied was the mother State, Cape Colony, whose political and religious leaders had incited rebellion. When federation came none of the other States would have anything to do with her, and he was afraid the people of his old State, who were running about like sheep without a shepherd, were coming out worst. Rhodes said he was glad of the opportunity to say a few words, which he hoped would be to their good.

Sir Harry Hamilton Brings Back to Civilization Stories From Uganda That Surpass Henry M. Stanley's Tales of Darkest Africa.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Sir Harry Hamilton Johnson, special commissioner for the Uganda protectorate, has returned to London, after an absence of two years. He brings stories of Uganda rivaling Henry M. Stanley's description in Darkest Africa.

Sir Harry relates that the country surrounding Moantelgon is totally depopulated as a result of tribal wars, and is consequently marvelously potched with big game that are as tame as English park deer. Zebras and antelopes can be approached to within ten yards, and there is no sport in killing them. Elephants and rhinoceros are also abundant and, according to Sir Harry, lions in Uganda are too busy eating hartebeest to notice a passing caravan. The prehistoric giraffe has been discovered in this country by the commissioner, who proposes to maintain the region referred to as national park.

He protographed a race of ape men in the Congo forest, differing entirely from Stanley's pigmies, and secured phonograph records of their language and music. He says that twelve varieties of rubber trees are found in this country in inexhaustible supply.

MORMON COLONY PROBABLE.

James Cannon, in Mexico, Trying to Get Government Concessions in the Yaqui Indian Country.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CITY OF MEXICO, June 17.—A Mormon agent, James Cannon, is here for the purpose of securing from the government a concession for settling a thousand Mormons in Sonora on the lands from which the Yaqui Indians have been driven. Mr. Cannon says: "We believe that if suitable tracts of lands are placed at our disposal in the Yaqui country we will do much in this country in the interest of peace, for the Mormon church has faced the Indian problem almost since its organization.

"We require no rifles in our management of the red brother, and are always instilling into his mind that we are his friends and not his foes. If the concession is obtained, a commissioner will be sent at once into the Yaqui territory by the Mormon church for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of the Indians, and if peaceful, a contract will be made and lands purchased from the Yaquis."

"DIAMOND FIELD JACK'S" CASE.

SALT LAKE, June 17.—A special to the Tribune from Boise, Idaho, says that the Supreme Court today refused to issue a certificate of probable cause in the case of "Diamond Field" Jack Davis, the Cassia county man who is under sentence to be hanged Friday for the murder of John C. Wilson in February, 1896. This certificate would have had the effect of a stay of execution. This is one of the most famous cases in the history of the Northwest.

JONES ON A POLICY.

WILL TAKE UP NATIVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Senator Jones of Arkansas, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said tonight that in his opinion Bryan would not be nominated again for President. He gave no reasons for this opinion, and said nothing to indicate whether he thought Bryan would refuse to be a candidate, or could not secure the nomination.

Jones further said that the issue for the next Presidential election would be shaped at the coming session of Congress, and intimated that it would relate to the government of the Philippines. He said that prior to the decision of the Supreme Court the question had been: "Does the Constitution follow the flag?" Now that that decision has been rendered, the question is: "Ought the Constitution to follow the flag?" This question would come into shape through legislation to be enacted with reference to the Philippines at the coming session. If the majority took the ground that the Constitution ought not to follow the flag, and elaborated that opinion in legislaion, he thought the representatives would be booked at the pol's. Personally, he is in favor of giving the Filipinos independence of government, and of giving it to them as soon as possible. The character of the government to be given to the Filipinos would be the coming issue.

As to the Ship Subsidy Bill, Jones said that it would come up again; that he thought it would be treated as a res adjudicata.

DESERTER EBERHARDT.

KILLED IN PHILIPPINES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) June 17.—Private advices from Germany tell of the killing in the Philippines of Otto Eberhardt, who turned traitor to the American forces and joined the Filipinos. Eberhardt was a scion of a noble German family, whose habits led to his disinheritance, and he came to America two years ago. He was an extremely talented musician, and was leader of the Phoenix Brass Band when he joined the First Volunteer Regiment of Arizona. After the regiment, which lay some months at Lexington, Ky., disbanded, he went to Washington and became a cornet soloist in the famous Marine Band. There he enlisted in the Twenty-seventh Regular Infantry commanded by Col. Bell. When that regiment reached Honolulu he committed an offense for which he was reduced to the ranks. After threats of vengeance, he deserted upon reaching the islands, going to the camp of Gen. Geronimo and soon became an insurgent captain. He fell in love with a Filipino señorita who lived at San Mateo. A jealous señorita conveyed to the American troops information of the whereabouts of Eberhardt, who intercepted him during one of his visits to San Mateo and demanded his surrender. He ran and was shot and killed. Eberhardt was once a famous musician in Berlin.

BETHLEHEM PLANT.

SCHWAB HAS RESOLD IT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 18.—According to a Philadelphia special to the Times, the latest story in connection with the disposition of the Bethlehem Steel Company is that Vickers Sons & Maxim will get the big plant after all. While it is acknowledged that Charles M. Schwab secured control recently by buying 160,000 of the 200,000 shares of Bethlehem stock, it is now said that he has resold this interest to the Vickers people, who want it for their shipbuilding and steel-making combination.

This, it is believed, will be the next development, when President Linderman issues a statement to stockholders giving the terms of the sale to Schwab, and clearing up some of the mystery which has surrounded the negotiations. The stockholders of the Bethlehem Iron Company will then be called together, August 15, to vote on a proposition to sell their company to the Bethlehem Steel Company, whose stockholders the next day will vote on an authorized issue of $7,500,000 in bonds for the purchase of the iron concern.

THE BUTCHERS EXPLAIN.

WERE "ILL-ADVISED."

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—Ben Davis, president of the Journeymen Butchers' Union, said tonight:

"The strike was called off because we saw that the proper way to proceed would be to hold a conference with the wholesalers. This was done a few days ago, and it was proposed that the union cards should come down and that the wholesalers, on their part, should see that the hour-and-wage schedule was lived up to. It was agreed that anyone violating this schedule should be dealt with by the association.

"The majority of our members are good mechanics, and in course of time, with the assistance of the Wholesalers' Association, they will get back their old places or others equally as good. Our people were ill-advised, and acted hastily. In the course of a few days this will not be counted against them. The members were satisfied to call the strike off, and glad to return to work."

The retail boss butchers, to the number of 284, met this afternoon and organized an association for mutual benefit and protection. The following officers were elected: President, H. C. Flageollet; secretary, J. H. Larney; treasurer, Frank Weiss.

FISHERMEN NEXT.

PROMISE TO GO OUT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) June 17.—The salmon canners and the fishermen of the Fraser River are now at a deadlock, and another fishermen's strike on probably the same grounds as last summer, seems inevitable. After repeated conferences, committees representing the two parties to the controversy held a final session this afternoon.

The canners offered 12½ cents per fish from July 1 to August 2. This offer was rejected by the fishermen, who submitted a counter offer of 12½ cents straight throughout the season. After consideration the canners rejected this and then withdrew all offers of concessions of any sort which had been made.

The Fishermen's Union, including the Indians, who have a quasi recognition, and the Japanese who are practically controlled by the action of the white salmon catchers, represent six thousand fishermen, whose earnings aggregate a million dollars every summer. Forty-nine canneries, representing an aggregate output of 500,000 cases, are affected by the strike.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

The sport was not, however, interfered with this afternoon. Whetner the effort to stop racing will be successful, the track owners do not venture to say.

The movement originated in the old war between the pool-room keepers, John Condon, the proprietor of Harlem, and his partner, James O'Leary, having antagonized other pool-room men who have succeeded in enlisting the help of some prominent politicians. The latter have the cooperation of the Citizens' League, and all racing in Chicago may be stopped. It is announced, however, that there will be no interference with Saturday's Derby.

CALLAHAN IN 'FRISCO.
WILL GO AGAINST HEGARTY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tim Callahan of Philadelphia, who is scheduled to box Hegarty, the Australian featherweight before the Twentieth Century Athletic Club, a week from Friday evening, reached San Francisco yesterday afternoon, and is quartered at the Blankmans. With him came "Kid" Carter of Brooklyn, who will meet Jack Root in a 20-round contest the same evening. Callahan is looking well and strong, and declares that he will be perfectly fit when the gong clangs for him "go" with the Australian boxer.

"You know I had been training for several weeks before I started, so that I won't take long to get into condition," he said.

Carter is little more than a novice at the game, but his showing has been good during the past year, although many among sporting men believe he has a chance to defeat Root. Carter will box at Blankens with Callahan, and will secure Jack Stelzner to handle him if possible.

HAMILTON ON RACES.
YACHTS TOO HEAVILY RIGGED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

GLASGOW, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Capt. Hamilton, who, in 1899, navigated the Shamrock I across the Atlantic, in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press, said he considered it impracticable to carry out the proposed ocean races with the big yachts carrying their racing gear.

While the hulls were strong enough and even the canvassing difficulty might be met with reefing, he believed that in the event of heavy weather and cross seas, the yachts would be in imminent danger of jumping their big masts out. The great booms carried by the cutters were also liable to drag in the seas, constituting a serious danger. He sees no reason, however, why the races should not be held if yawl rigging is adopted with shorter and lighter masts.

PROPOSES OCEAN RACE'
LIPTON WOULD ENJOY IT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Sir Thomas Lipton said to a representative of the Associated Press today:

"I never contemplated an ocean race except under yawl rig. I do not think it would be dangerous then. Indeed, it might be a good idea if the owner of each boat sailed on her. For my part, I am perfectly willing to do so. So far as the masts go, I would leave that entirely to her designers. The idea is acceptable to the owners of the Constitution, Independence and Columbia, I will enter the two Shamrocks. I think the race should be divided into two legs—the first to the Azores, the second to Falmouth. I hope something may come out of the suggestion, for I believe it would be one of the best sporting events in recent years."

The first trial spins will occur on the Clyde next week, and Sir Thomas Lipton expects to sail from this country about July 20. He will go to Glasgow tomorrow, and remain there until he sees the effect of the recent work on the challenger.

NEW YORK, June 17.—In racing circles in England, says the Tribune's London correspondent, it is said that W. C. Whitney's gifts to Huggins and to Lester Reiff in connection with Volodyovski's victory in the Derby were £2000 and £1500 respectively.

RACING AT DENVER.
BIG DUTCH TO THE FORE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, June 17.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] California was not directly interested in the events at Overland. George Menloch, who took second money in the 2:30 trot, is a familiar figure on the Coast. Nearest, by Baird and Hanna, among the four-year-olds, scored second. The best-contested race was the 2:14-pace which Big Dutch, an old brown gelding of unknown ancestry, who has flashed across the leading tracks of the Coast, came in first. Although badly crippled, after getting away the old gelding seemed to forget his handicap, and outdistances all competitors. The attendance was large and the track in fair condition.

SHARP ENGAGEMENT WITH THE MULLAH.

BRITISH CREDITED WITH SOME VERY CLEVER WORK.

Mullah Attacked the Zariba With Large Army and Was Finally Driven Off by McNeil With Terrible Loss of Life.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, June 17.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A dispatch to the Foreign Office from the Consul-General of Somaliland says that the Mad Mullah expedition had heavy fighting May 28. The flying column of mounted infantry under Capt. Meriweather struck the Mullah supply camp during a night march and captured 5000 head of cattle, killed one captain and captured another, covered 100 miles, fought a sharp action and returned to its base, all in twenty-four hours.

The main force of the British under Col. Swayne departed for Eldab June 22, leaving McNeil with 300 men to guard the Zariba. Swayne's column advanced against the Mullah's base, in the mean time the Mullah, with 3000 followers, attacked the Zariba three times. He was finally driven off by Capt. McNeil with a loss of 300 men. The British in the Zariba had twenty men killed and nine wounded.

The Mullah is now cut off from his base, and a decisive action is imminent.

Says He Was Summoned to Make an Accounting in a Case Where He Had Never Handled a Dollar.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—E. C. Converse, through his counsel in this city, today furnished the following statement as embodying all the facts in connection with service of notice of a suit at Greensburg, Pa., last week:

"On Friday, June 14, the two special cars in which the United States corporation Executive Committee were traveling reached Pittsburgh over the Baltimore and Ohio Railway and were run into the Pittsburgh station, stopping there about half an hour. The cars were then taken to the Pennsylvania plant of the National Tube Company, stopping there half an hour; thence to the Continental plant of the same company, stopping there half an hour; thence to McKeesport, where they were sidetracked for about four hours. I was in and about the National Tube Works plant at McKeesport with other members of the committee and in the tube offices for three or four hours. The cars then went to the other two plants of the National Tube Works, thence to the coke regions.

"All day Sunday was spent in and about the coke regions, and Greensburg was reached, where the cars were transferred to the Pennsylvania Railroad, and they lay ready to be taken up by the fast eastern mail train. I was in the center of the car when Chairman Gary's secretary, Mr. Murray, walked in and said there was a man in the rear of the car who desired to give me a message; that he had offered to take it, but the man said he wanted to deliver it to me personally. I at once stepped to the end of the car, where there were two strangers. One of them handed me a bill in equity, subpoena or summons, in a suit brought by J. L. Devinney et al., for an accounting in a matter where I never handled one dollar of the money, and which is still in the hands of a competent and reliable trustee."

SHE'S JUST ALL RIGHT.

All grace and charm and beautihood
In Mary is perfected,
But let some facts be understood
Close with these points connected.

Her eyes do not resemble stars,
They're simply sweet and human.
Against my sense that notion jars—
I protest with acumen.

Her teeth are not composed of pearls,
That fancy is a weak one,
They're simply like a pretty girl's—
You don't go far to seek one.

Her lips are not like any rose,
As some may have suggested,
But they look well beneath her nose,
And oft their charms I've tested.

She's perfect, quite, in all respects,
But she is not a jewel,
So cold a thought my heart rejects,
I deem it flatly cruel.

The license of the ghastly stuff
In poet's lore too free is.
In Mary's case it's quite enough
To be as nice as she is.

POLICEMAN SHOOTS AN UGLY MEXICAN.

IN DEFENSE of his life, Patrolman T. H. Zeigler fired four shots at Luis Ramirez, near the corner of San Fernando and Ord streets shortly before midnight. One of the bullets passed through the Mexican's leg, inflicting a painful, but not serious wound. The officer used his revolver only after he found it impossible to disarm and subdue Ramirez with his club, and after the latter had chased him nearly half a block, lunging at him all the while with a bowie-knife with a six-inch blade.

The officer came upon the Mexican on Ord street, and, seeing that he was intoxicated, approached him. As he neared the man, he noticed that he had a large knife in his hand. Zeigler ordered him to drop the weapon, but instead of obeying, the Mexican dashed at him with the blade upraised, and as he got within striking distance Zeigler knocked him down with his club. Before the patrolman could secure the knife, Ramirez scrambled to his feet and again made for the officer, to be knocked down again a second time. Zeigler well knew that if the Mexican got close enough to him to clinch, he would use the knife. This time Zeigler fell on top of him and tried to wrest the knife from his hand, and in doing so dropped his club. The Mexican is a powerful man, and tried to turn on the officer. He was succeeding when Zeigler jumped to his feet and tried to regain his club, but failed.

Again the would-be murderer leaped toward him, and the officer retreated into the street. They had fought for nearly half a block, and the Mexican showed no signs of yielding. He seemed like a maniac. As a last resort, the officer drew his gun, and fired a shot into the ground near the feet of Ramirez. As this did not stop him he fired twice more. This had no effect, so the officer raised his pistol and shot the man through the leg. The wounded Mexican kept on fighting, and he had to be knocked down again. As he fell the knife flew out of his hand. He was promptly handcuffed.

At the Receiving Hospital, the Police Surgeon extracted the bullet, about four inches above the knee. It had passed almost through the leg and glanced off the bone, but did not fracture it.

Ramirez is a laborer in the employ of the Southern Pacific. He lives on San Fernando street, and has been in trouble before.

Within the quaint, old-fashioned pew
Kneels "Sweet Humility," whose face,
With eye of tender, heavenly blue,
Betrays of worldly thought no trace.

The clergyman bows low his head,
And silence deep reigns everywhere;
Through stained glass the light is shed,
Subdued, on worshipers at prayer.

While kneeling thus with thoughts on high
"Humility," all free from guile,
Doth feel a brilliant "presence" nigh
A "presence" bright across the aisle.

A summer hat with red, red rose
"Humility" espies, and then,
With dainty sniff of dainty nose,
"Humph! seven-ninety-eight!—Aten!"

FIGHTERS SIGN UP.

Tremble and Riley Say the Latest Say.

Handsome New Building for Bowlers.

Handball Tournament Results. Smith and Bernstein Tonight—Jeffries's Purp.

Articles were signed yesterday and forfeit money posted to bind the match between Ben Tremble of this city and Tom Riley of Sacramento. The contest will take place in Turner Hall under the management of the Alpha Athletic Club and the date fixed is June 25.

The men will weigh in at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 25th at 158 pounds, and in case of failure to make this weight they lose their forfeit money and 15 per cent. of their share of the receipts. There will be one fast preliminary between Jim Tremble and some other man yet to be selected.

Ben Tremble has been training in this city at Ninth and Alameda streets for over two weeks under the personal supervision of his manager, V. A. Shafer. He is almost down to weight and will enter the ring in perfect condition. Tom Riley has been working in San Francisco and will arrive in Los Angeles this morning to finish his training here.

The fight will be under straight Marquis of Queensberry rules, which permit hitting in clinches as long as an arm is free, the men to break at the call of the referee. It ought to be a fast fight. Ben Tremble has greatly improved since he was last seen here, having fought some notable contests in the North and East. Tom Riley is a hard puncher and as clever as they make. The referee has not yet been selected.

SMITH-BERNSTEIN.

RULES FOR FIGHT.

Joe Bernstein and Solly Smith fight tonight at Hazard's Pavilion, and the event promises to be one of the fastest ever pulled off in the city. Both men are in fine shape, having been training hard for a month past, and there is great interest manifested in the bout among the sports of the city.

The men will weigh in this afternoon at 3 o'clock, and must tip the beam at 123 pounds or under. They will fight as before, under a modified form of the Marquis of Queensberry rules, permitting hitting in the clinches until the referee calls for a break. They will go twenty rounds.

The preliminary will be ten rounds between Kid Solomon and Kid Dalton. The event will be notable from the fact that Aurelio Herrera, the clever Bakersfield boy, will be present to challenge the winner, and that Jim Jeffries, the heavyweight champion of the world, will be in attendance.

"DE CHAMP'S" NEW FRIEND.

HIS ACQUAINTANCE WITH A PUP.

"De champ" has a new friend, and it is nothing but a little measly, wire-haired, yellow dog, blind in one eye and unable to see out of the other.

It all happened in this way. "De champ," when "Little Joe" gets him up in time of a morning, takes a ten-mile jaunt, just as an appetizer. Jim was spinning along in a heavy sweater the other morning when his attention was attracted to a diminutive canine that was puffing at his heels. Jim coaxed the pup to him, using persuasions utterly useless with Corbett or Fitz. The pup came and licked "de champ's" big fists, in sheer gratitude. Perhaps it knew who it was licking. It certainly has a distinction all its own.

The heavy-weight champion pugilist of the world gathered up this little God-forsaken pup and trotted along the road with it in his arms. And when Jim got back to quarters he saw that his newly-acquired friend had something to eat, and before his sweater was doffed. Jim and "Bun," as the pup is called, are now fast friends.

NEW ALLEYS.

FOURTH AND HILL.

As an evidence that bowling has taken a permanent hold upon Los Angeles, and that business men consider alleys a good investment, it may be stated authoritatively that the city will shortly have an establishment which in appointments will be the most luxurious and complete in details of any west of the Rocky Mountains. Yesterday a purchase was made of the vacant lot on the corner of Fourth and Hill streets, James Talmage, who built the Chutes, bring on the business end, and hereon will be erected a building which will be devoted to this recreation and sport.

A building, in dimensions 140 by 60 feet, will be erected, of a Grecian style of architecture, the plans now being drawn by Architect F. K. Hodson. A fine lawn, fountains and trees will add to the exterior beauty of the establishment. Six alleys of the most improved style will be installed by August 1.

HANDBALL.

Y.M.C.A. RESULTS.

Handball is receiving much attention at the Y.M.C.A. these days, and the directors have decided to give the lovers of the game every facility. A new court will be constructed and work will be commenced immediately.

An interesting tournament has just been completed in which Harry Cronkhite won the championship. The full results were as follows: Sheckles won from Mercer, McCarthy won from Finehout, Cleaver won from Bloomer, Hubbell won from Ebey, Davis won from Boyland, Cronkhite won from Hawley, Smith won from Beckwith, La Touche won from Cleveland. In the "run-up" the greatest falldown was that of Ebey, who was supposed to have a "sure thing" on the championship.

In the seconds Sheckles won from McCarthy, Hubbell won from Cleaver, Cronkhite won from Davis, and Smith won from La Touche. Then Sheckles downed Hubbell and Cronkhite defeated Smith. In the finals Cronkhite won from Sheckles.

SWIMMING CONTEST.

BIG AUGUST EVENT AT REDONDO.

Some time during August a big swimming match will take place at Redondo, the event of the season in Southern California swimming circles. It will be a thirty-mile race and will consume twelve hours in its completion. Arrangements are being perfected in this city.

Prizes aggregating $500 in value, besides a gold medal, are offered. The course will be fifteen miles out to sea and return, the swimmers to be accompanied by tugs in case of accident. Such well-known men as Harry Harmon, Walter Maxey, Claude Hawthorne, and the champions, Renier and Jordan of the Olympic Club, are entered.

FIGHT POSTPONED.

GRIFFIN AND KENNEDY.

The Griffin-Kennedy fight has been postponed from June 28 to July 2, at the request of Kennedy. Joe telegraphed Manager McCarey of the Century Athletic Club making the request, and it was acceded to.

Amateur Ball Games.

The Los Angeles High School team yesterday defeated the Long Beach High School nine by a score of 2 to 1. There is a dispute between the Long Beach nine and that of St. Vincent's in regard to the interscholastic championship of Southern California. The Los Angeles High School is now a very formidable candidate for these honors.

The Little Westlakes downed the Eighth streets at Nineteenth and Union avenue yesterday by a score of 23 to 20.

Bowling.

The Chutes and the Imperials will roll a game of ninepins, regularly scheduled, on the Oaks alleys tomorrow night. The teams will be the same as when they last met, with the exception of genial Gus Hall, who thinks the Imperials are not good enough and has switched to the Chutes. The performance of Gus will be watched with interest.

Tonight the Washingtons and the B. B.C.'s meet for a game of ten pins on the Oaks alleys.

PAIR OF SCISSORS MEANS OF SUICIDE.

SHOCKING METHOD ADOPTED BY A SAN DIEGO WOMAN.

Mrs. E. S. Sutton Stabs Herself in the Side and Death Soon Results—Water Bonds Sold for Twenty-six Thousand Dollars Premium.

SAN DIEGO, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Mrs. E. S. Sutton, widow of the late Dr. Sutton, took her life this morning by jabbing a pair of scissors into her side. She lived only a short time after the discovery of the deed. Mrs. Sutton was 59 years old, and formerly lived in Louisville, Ky., where she had property interests. She has been in feeble health since the death of her husband, and has had the care of a nurse much of the time. Yesterday she left a private sanitarium here and engaged rooms at the home of Mrs. J. T. Jones, corner of Ninth and Beech streets, accompanied by Miss Ellen Ellinwood, the nurse. This morning she seemed more indisposed than usual, and a strict watch was kept on her movements. After breakfast she started for the bathroom. Her actions were such as to arouse the suspicions of the nurse, who followed her. But Mrs. Sutton darted into the bathroom, slamming the door in the nurse's face, and bolting it. Entrance was made from the outside, and the woman was found prone upon the floor, with the fatal wound. The scissors lay at her side.

Mrs. Sutton had no near relatives, although she had recently been visited by a stepson, who lives in Louisville, Ky. So far as known, her closest friend in this section was Mrs. Dr. Kellogg of Los Angeles, who has been doing most of her corresponding and who has taken an interest in her business affairs. Mrs. Kellogg returned to Los Angeles, after a visit with Mrs. Sutton, not long ago. A few weeks ago Mrs. Sutton was living in a house on Second street, alone. The building caught fire at 2 a.m. and was nearly ruined. The origin of the fire was never satisfactorily explained, although Mrs. Sutton said that she was up writing letters and the lamp exploded. At that time it was thought that she was mentally unbalanced.

MUNICIPAL NOTES.

At tonight's meeting of the City Council the Mayor's appointment of Dr. Fred Baker to the Board of Health failed of confirmation. The City Attorney reported that the fact that Baker is a member of the city Board of Education does not disqualify him from serving on the Board of Health, but the Council refused to confirm.

A. G. Edwards was confirmed as a member of the Fire Commission, succeeding E. J. Carter, removed by the Mayor.

The $600,000 issue of waterworks bonds, 4½ per cent., to run forty years, was sold to Mason, Lewis & Co. of Chicago for 1026.255. There were nine other bidders.

SAN DIEGO BREVITIES.

Mrs. Jennie M. McEwen died yesterday, aged 37. She was the wife of W. D. McEwen, a prominent banker and business man of Rolfe, Iowa. They had spent the winters here for a number of years, on account of Mrs. McEwen's health.

Rev. Dr. Earwood of Los Angeles, who organized the First Congregational Church here in 1886, filled its pulpit yesterday morning.

Capts. A. F. Dill and E. B. Dyrell entertained friends with a chowder reception at Ballast Point, yesterday.

The Elks' baseball nine is in practice for the game with the Los Angeles Elks next Saturday.

The naval militia boat, Pinta, has been taken to the marine ways for a cleaning.

CORONADO ITEMS.

Mrs. W. H. Brown died yesterday, aged 29. She came to Coronado from San Bernardino two years ago for her health. She was a native of San Antonio, Tex.

Late hotel arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Price, Columbus, O.; Margaret E. Parsons, Detroit, Mich.; H. H. Sinclair, Redlands; Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Cohn and two children, Los Angeles.

The Everlasting Enemy.

[Chicago Tribune:] "I never saw anything quite so mortifying," severely commented Mr. Ferguson after they had left the church door and started homeward, "as that performance of yours in applauding the preacher. He wasn't saying a word at the time, either. He was merely looking at his watch. Didn't you see how everybody stared at you in a horrified way when you clapped your hands?"

"I wasn't applauding the preacher, George," replied Mrs. Ferguson, ready to cry, "I was trying to kill a moth!"

ACTOR CUMMINGS WAS A PRISONER.

THE financial tribulations which have recently come upon the Cummings theatrical people culminated in the arrest yesterday afternoon of the manager of the company, Actor Ralph E. Cummings, and for nearly six hours he was in the custody of a deputy constable, but was not locked up. Last evening he gave sufficient bonds to secure his release, and left the city on the 10:20 p.m. train for Bakersfield, where his company appears tonight.

When the Cummings company closed its long engagement at the Burbank Theater Saturday night, several of the members, to whom amounts were due as salary, presented their claims at the box office, but they were not honored, the reason given by Manager Morosco being that he did not feel justified in paying the bills, inasmuch as the engagement of the company for the present was at an end. Two of the men, John J. Shaw and Charles Gilslyn, were particularly insistent, and declared they would take means of making Cummings wish he had paid them.

Yesterday morning they assigned their claims to some person, whose name they later refused to divulge, and the two bills, Shaw's for $46, and Gilslyn's for $60, were coupled with an account of the Los Angeles Printing Company. The attorney, in whose hands these claims had been placed, swore out a bail writ in Justice James's court. In order to secure such a writ it was necessary to make an affidavit setting forth belief that Cummings was about to leave the State for the purpose of defrauding his creditors, and such an affidavit was filed. Justice James issued the writ for the arrest of Cummings, and it was placed in the hands of a deputy constable. The officer found his man without difficulty, for it is said that Cummings was pointed out to him by one of the complainants.

The prisoner was permitted to go with the officer to find his attorney, Lucien Earle, Esq., and was not taken to jail. He expressed amazement at his arrest, and was very bitter toward those who had caused it.

CUMMINGS'S STATEMENT.

Cummings was seen at the Belmont Café, Fifth and Main street, where he, together with his attorney and the officer, was taking dinner. He did not appear to be worried over the trouble which his present financial straits had caused him, and said repeatedly that it was caused by personal differences between himself and the two members of his company, whose salaries have not been paid.

"This arrest is an outrage, and I will have no trouble in securing my release. It is all spite work on the part of those two men, and their action is simply an effort to get even because we have had some trouble. As to Shaw I had better say nothing, but could tell much if I cared to. That man has been with me seven years, and his actions at times have been such as to make it unpleasant for him if the facts should be made public. I say that the arrest is an outrage because if the claims of those men are valid there is another and surer method of collecting their bills. I am the owner of thirty-five lots and much acreage property in the city of San Diego, and I have owned this property since 1885. I also have left personal property, scenery, etc., at the Burbank, the value of which amounts to many times the amount of the claims. If any of those men swore that I was about to leave the State for the purpose of defrauding my creditors they swore to what they know to be false. Why, I am coming back here July 28 to fill an engagement which will continue until the last of August."

Cummings then displayed his contract for that engagement. It was duly signed and acknowledged and later Manager Morosco of the Burbank confirmed the statement that the Cummings company will return here next month. He added that the company has left much of its property here.

"Shaw demands $40, and he well knows that there is only about $17 due him. I will fight his claim to the court of last resort if necessary," continued Cummings. "The claim of the Los Angeles Printing Company amounts to about $60, but I am surprised that that company should be a party to this action, inasmuch as they have accepted my note for what is due them. The note is certainly good, because I am worth in real property many times the face value of it, and a civil suit would have secured its payment if such action were necessary."

SHAW IS BITTER.

John Shaw, one of the complainants, was seen last night at the Burbank Theater, but positively refused to make any statement with reference to the case. That there is bitter personal feeling between him and Cummings was manifest from his replies. "That man had better not go too far," he said bitterly. "No, I will not tell you anything. It may or may not come out in court. I will not say to whom I assigned my claim. If I wanted to tell you about Cummings I could tell a great deal that he would not like to have made public."

About 9 o'clock last night Thomas Dermody and Manager Morosco of the Burbank signed the bond required for Cummings's release and he was released by the officer. He went at once to the train and departed for the north. Both of his bondsmen expressed themselves as certain that the case is one of persecution, and declared that they were willing to back Cummings to the limit of their means.

POLITICS IN THE SCHOOLS.

A teacher in the Los Angeles High School recently committed a great breach of propriety in making an uncalled-for physical assault upon one of the pupils, for which he was complained of to the Board of Education. Not only this, but in a letter of explanation—which did not explain—to one of the local papers, he made such gross errors in orthography as to prove himself entirely unfit for the position which he holds, even if he had done nothing else to forfeit the confidence of his employers, the public.

It was freely prophesied that he would be dismissed, the case being too gross to be overlooked. Now, however, it is said that the Board of Education, after a secret session, has announced that the matter has been satisfactorily settled. It is added, further, that the teacher exerts a certain power which he is said to possess as a member of a discredited political party, also that he is not the only one who retains his position, not through fitness or competency, but on account of a political pull. If it is true that this case has been compromised through political influence, it is about time for the public to step in and make it plain to the educational authorities that this sort of thing must stop. It is bad enough for the ordinary municipal affairs of the city to be smeared with the mire of ward politics, but at least the school department should be free of a suspicion of this sort. Unfortunately, this is so far from being the case that there have probably been more scandals connected with the school department than with any other branch of the city government. The citizens who put up their good money to support the school, and entrust the training of their children to the appointees of the School Board have a right to protest earnestly and strenuously against this condition of affairs, and they will be recreant to their duties as good citizens if they fail to do so.

THE BLINDFOLDING OF LABOR.

On the first page of Harper's Weekly for June 15 is published a striking cartoon by W. A. Rogers, representing Labor as a heroic masculine figure, in a kneeling posture, holding in one hand a sledge-hammer, resting upon an anvil, the other hand, also, resting upon the anvil. At the back of the figure is a ladder upon which two "walking delegates" are ascending, dragging a heavy chain. Farther up, upon the shoulders of the figure of Labor, are also two typical "walking delegates," engaged in tying a heavy bandage, which passes over the eyes of the figure. Underneath is the legend, "He doesn't need eyes with us to guide him." In the background is seen a crowd bearing a banner upon which is inscribed, "Brotherhood of Walking Delegates."

The sketch is an exceedingly affective one, and is an excellent specimen of the cartoonist's art. Unfortunately, it tells an o'er-true tale. Laboring men who have submitted and are submitting to the dictation of the walking delegate, the professional "organizer," and others of the ilk, are allowing themselves to be blindfolded; and not only blindfolded, but bound hand and foot, with the chains of a despotism far more oppressive than the despotisms of capital.

The walking delegate, the professional organizer, and men of that class, who presume to do the thinking that laboring men ought to do for themselves, entertain toward those who submit to their tyrannies the precise view expressed above, viz., that laboring men do not need eyes to see, nor ears to hear, nor brains to understand; but that these functions should be performed for the laboring man by these so-called "leaders." They proceed upon the assumption that as a matter of course the "organized" laborer, in joining his organization, signs away his personal independence, his right to think and to act for himself; in short, that he abrogates his manhood and relegates himself to the position of a mere puppet, which must dance perforce when the operator pulls the string. Proceeding upon this assumption, the professional manipulators of labor generally succeed in bringing about conditions which give them autocratic powers over the consciences, the minds, and the material interests of those who consent to become their dupes.

We have heard a great deal, during the past two or three years, about government with and without the consent of the governed. In the autocratic government of labor organizations it often happens that the individual is governed without his consent and against his better judgment. In the beginning he is naturally coerced into joining the "union," through the fear that he will otherwise be deprived of one of the inherent rights of every man—the right to earn an honest living by honest employment, at such wages as may be agreed upon between himself and his employer.

Having thus been driven into the "union" against his will and against his better judgment, the individual is kept within the organization through the same sort of intimidation. He dare not withdraw lest he bring down upon himself the wrath of the "leaders" and the denunciation of the more rabid and extreme members of the organization. Indeed, he has just reason to fear physical violence should he presume to exercise his right as an American citizen to think and act for himself. In the case of a strike, he dare not refuse to follow the bidding of his masters, the labor "leaders"—knowing that by so doing he would place his life in jeopardy.

It is one of the surprising phases of American life that men who are otherwise courageous will so often fall down in abject servility before these "leaders," who are often ignorant, unscrupulous, and mercenary. In doing this, they rivet the shackles upon their own limbs, and invite the fate that overtakes them. So long as this kind of abject bondage continues within the republic, Americans are free men only in name.

Trade-union despotism has well-nigh wrecked the once flourishing industries of England. We shall not escape a similar fate if we permit the shackles of industrial despotism to be bound about the feet and the hands of American enterprise.

WONDERFUL POSSIBILITIES.

When, a couple of years ago, electric power was delivered in Los Angeles from a cañon back of Redlands, a distance of over eighty miles, the enterprise was widely advertised as the longest power transmission plant in the world. Soon after that, the city of Oakland obtained power from the Yuba River, a distance of 140 miles, and now in The Times of Saturday a dispatch from San José announces that the two street-railroad systems of that city have made an agreement, by the terms of which they will obtain power from the Standard Electric Company, whose plant is at Colgate, in Amador county, 184 miles away, where power is developed by the water of the Mokelumne River.

This development opens up a wonderful field of possibilities in the line of manufacturing and other enterprises needing power, and may to a great extent revolutionize manufacturing conditions in the near future. Ten years ago, the idea of transmitting electric power for a distance of fifty miles was deemed more or less chimerical. Today, as we have seen, the electric current is sent over the wires, with little loss in transit for a distance of nearly 200 miles. It is not at all impossible—nay it is quite probable—that in less than ten years from today electric power may be transmitted for a distance of 500 miles or more from the point where it is generated.

It is not necessary to point out what a revolution this condition of affairs will work in the manufacturing industry. No longer will it be necessary for a big factory to be located close to the point where the coal, or petroleum, or wood, or other fuel is produced. Manufacturing cities may be entirely free from smoke and soot, and they may be located altogether irrespective of the nearest fuel supply, so long as they are within a reasonable distance of that point.

To California, especially, is this new development of the utmost importance. Along the eastern boundary of the State, from north to south, at an average distance of less than 200 miles from the seacoast, extends the high Sierra, with its rapid descent toward the west, on which the water, falling by gravity, can easily be harnessed to drive every engine and light every town in the State. No only this, but in California this water will serve a double purpose, as, after generating power, it can be made available for irrigation in the valleys below.

Only a few short years ago the idea generally prevailed that California could never become a great manufacturing State, on account of the high cost of fuel. Now, it is quite probable that within a few years the manufacturers of this State may obtain their power at a cost as low as it can be had in any other part of the United States. On the other hand, we have the vast possibilities of Oriental trade that are now opened up to us. Put this and that together, and even a blind man should be able to see what a wonderful future lies before the Golden State.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

From an illustrated article in Cassell's Magazine for June the following figures relative to the Brooklyn bridge are taken:

"The total length is one and three-quarter miles, and the breadth is eighty-five feet. The height, at either end, at high water, is 120 feet. Each end rests on a tower, springing from a caisson. The Brooklyn caisson is 168 by 102 feet, and the New York caisson is 172 by 120 feet, each containing over 5000 yards of timber and iron, and over 5000 cubic feet of concrete, weighing 8000 tons; the weight of the caisson is about 7000 tons. The bridge proper is suspended by four steel cables, each sixteen inches in diameter, containing 5434 parallel wires, which are galvanized, steel and oil-coated, bound together tightly with other wires, the whole making a solid cable 3578½ feet in length, with a supporting power of 12,000 tons. The arches of the towers, which form the entrance to the bridge, are 117 feet high, and the capstones 271 feet above the water. Each arch admits of a railway track, carriage road, and a promenade, the latter of which is elevated from the center. The summits of the towers are narrowed down to 120 by 40 feet. The new York tower contains 56,395 cubic yards of masonry, and the Brooklyn tower 38,214 cubic yards. Behind the towers are the anchorages, 830 feet distant, built of granite, each 129 by 119 feet at the base, 117 by 104 at the top, 89 feet high in front and 85 at the rear. On these anchorages the cables are fastened with iron bars and an anchor plate weighing 23 tons. The weight of the bridge itself is about 3600 tons, and when covered with traffic it weighs about 5000 tons. It has a capacity for carrying about 35,000 passengers and 1440 vehicles in an hour. It cost $15,000,000, about $7,000,000 more than the estimate."

This great engineering work is beyond question the most remarkable achievement of its kind in the world. In whatever degree it may be eclipsed by future achievements in bridge-building, it will always stand as a splendid monument to American engineering skill and daring. The length of the single span across the East River is 1595 feet, and this is 135 feet above high water, allowing the masts of the large ocean-going vessels to pass under it freely.

When this bridge was projected, there were knowing persons who predicted that it would be a failure. They figured the matter out to their own satisfaction that the tolls to be paid for the use of the bridge would never begin to pay the cost of building it, nor even the interest on the money invested. These pessimistic predictions were soon set at naught when the bridge came into actual use. The present daily average of passengers is 120,000, although as many as 160,000 persons have crossed the river upon it in a single day. The annual receipts are between $1,250,000 and $3,000,000, while the cost of maintenance, repairs, etc., is less than $1,000,000 per year. About 43,000,000 persons are carried over the bridge every year, while about 12,000,000 walk over. The designer was John Roebling, and upon his sudden death, before the completion of the bridge, his son, Col. William A. Roebling, took up the work, completing it in the year 1883.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

BURBANK THEATER. James Neill and his company may well be gratified at the generous reception which they received, collectively, and which each member of the company received individually, upon the opening of the Neill engagement at the Burbank last evening. Although Mr. Neill's first appearance was well toward the middle of the first act, the heartiness of his reception compelled a wait in the play, until the audience had satisfied itself with hand-clapping. It was a handsome testimonial to the popularity of Mr. Neill and the Neill organization in Los Angeles.

The play is called "The Lottery of Love." It is a bright, breezy comedy, bordering closely upon the farcical, full of vim and action, of witty lines and ridiculous situations. A brief synopsis of the story has already been published in these columns. The play is staged in Mr. Neill's usual excellent style, and the several characters are handled, each and all, in an unexceptionable manner. In the character of Adolphus Doubledot Mr. Neill has a congenial role, and he enters into the spirit of it with much abandon, bringing out its ludicrous and amusing features with great effectiveness.

John W. Burton, always a capable and conscientious actor, is especially well cast as Benjamin Buttercorn, and he plays the part "for all there is in it." Mr. Burton has seldom been seen here to better advantage than in this role. The character as interpreted by him has the color of a flesh-and-blood creation.

It is needless to say that Frank MacVicars presents an artistic portrayal of the character assigned to him—that of Capt. Sam Merrimac. Mr. MacVicars never fails to invest whatever character he assumes with the attributes of artistic reality. As a character actor he has few equals.

Donald Bowles is a new member of the Neill comany—that is, new to our people. He enacts the role of Tom Dangerous very cleverly, and gives evidence that he is a player of excellent quality.

Lillian Andrews made a decided hit as Mrs. Zenobia Sherramy, the mother-in-law. Her make-up was delightfully repellant. Were the play less merry and boisterous, the part would have been overdone as Miss Andrews played it. But then, the lady would not have laid on her colors so broadly in a quieter play. Action is of the essence of success in this play and in most plays, for that matter. Miss Andrews's reception last evening was a warm one, and she won new honors by strong and conscientious and self-sacrificing work.

Edythe Chapman received quite an ovation as she came upon the scene with her arms full of flowers. The role of Diana is rather colorless, but Miss Chapman gives it decided individuality and misses none of its opportunities.

And Julia Dean, charming and piquant always, has a delightful little role as "Jo" Buttercorn. She plays this part with a great deal of vivacity and earnestness, which adds much to the artistic value of the presentation as a whole.

Mary Elizabeth Forbes, a new member of the comany, does very good work indeed as the servant, Ann Eliza. It is a small role, but it is artistically handled.

The play will continue all the week, with a matinée on Saturday only.

The first part of the Sunday night bill, in which the Cummings company made its farewell appearance at the Burbank, was a presentation of the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet," by John Mason and Katherine Grey. The bit was prettily staged, with a soft illumination, imitating moonlight, upon the players. Mr. Mason rendered spiritedly his conception of the lover, and Miss Grey acceptably interpreted the womanly qualities in rendering the part of Juliet. At the close of the act they appeared before the curtain and received an ovation.

Sidney Grundy's "Arabian Nights," as played by Ralph E. Cummings and company, proved a thoroughly mirth-provoking production. It dealt with an interfering mother-in-law, in which part Mrs. Bankson appeared to advantage. Mr. Cummings scored well as the son-in-law with plenty of troubles of his own. Willard Blackmore cleverly aided in the entanglements.

ORPHEUM. Last, but not least, on the Orpheum bill this week is the turn by Hines and Remington. Call it last, for, though the pictures are good, the American biograph does not count. Hines and Remington are scheduled as "The unique character artists, presenting their original sketch." They are unique, and the sketch is original. These people are real fun makers, and during their skit, which though long, is not tedious, the house is in an uproar.

The bill is entirely new, except for the turn of Henry Lee, the impersonator. The Rudyard Kipling part is cut out this week, and in the place of the English author of a week ago there appears William Shakespeare. William looks like his pictures, and Oom Paul Kruger has a remarkable mastery of the English language. The impersonations are, however, good.

Flatt & Sutherland, scheduled as vocalists and instrumentalists, are good song and dance artists. They open the programme and make a decided hit.

Epenesey Kelly is an old favorite in Los Angeles, and his appearance is sufficient to start applause. His songs are good.

P. Richards, with his funny cartoons, is something out of the ordinary. He is clever with chalk, but there is a lack of spicy chatter which usually accompanies, or is supposed to accompany a vaudeville sketch.

As a relief, after the rather commonplace display of Allan Shaw and his manipulation of coins, comes Florence Bindley. Not that Shaw does not manipulate, he does that, but it is trite. Miss Bindley is as clever as she is small, and she is no bigger than a minute, barring her jewels. They range from a garter to a sunburst, and really that garter talks, while Florence sings or plays, and she does either with equal alacrity.

I never could imagine why

They simply want to do what's right.

Instead of calling it a game of skill,

Why not put on an extra frill,
And name it piously: "A Passion play?"

INDIAN WORK.

Exhibit Installed at the Pan-American Exposition by Miss Alice Fletcher.

Beautiful Furniture.

[Exposition Circular:] Notable among the vast array of superb exhibits in the United States Government building at the Pan-American Exposition is the Indian exhibit installed by Miss Alice Fletcher. The exhibit shows both her knowledge of the subject and her artistic appreciation of Indian character.

At the entrance to the exhibit is a case full of Indian relics which antedate the discovery of America.

To the initiated these are full of meaning. Then the evolution of the Indian under the influences of civilization is told in the systematic installation until the final group, inclosed in beautiful grill work, shows the educated Indian to be artist, poet, scholar and author. This represents a modern sitting-room, mainly designed by Angel de Cora, an Indian girl who graduated from the institute at Hampton, Va., and is now studying art, her chosen profession, in Boston. The fireplace is a poem in wood.

A conventionalized eagle—the thunder bird of the Indian—in dark wood, is inlaid on the light panel which supports the mantel shelf. It is placed here because the thunder bird is also a type of the sun, the source of all heat and fire.

Around the entire mantel is a wood-carved scroll made up of the sacred fire sticks with which the Indian produced fire by friction.

In the topmost panel is an oil painting representing a fiery sunset on the prairie.

In the left of the picture is a group of Indian tents through which the glow of the evening fires shine. On a knoll near the center are an Indian maiden and an Indian brave grouped so as to indicate the formation of another hearthstone in the near future.

In this room are articles of furniture, hand-carved and inlaid with onyx. This dainty apartment is hung with beautiful portieres woven by the Navaho Indians.

Near the entrance, is a column of different colored woods arranged so as to look from a distance like costly mosaic.

The pedestal has four faces, on which are inlaid mythological designs and symbols of Indian allegories much older than the advent of the pale face to this hemisphere, which cannot be interpreted by Miss Fletcher or any other expert in the history or religion of the American Indian.

The capital is as ornate as that of a Corinthian column and reproduces four heads of Moqui Indian maidens, clusters of oak leaves and acorns, etc.

On top of this column is an ancient urn of classic shape, which suggests those seen at Pompeii and the museums of Greece.

Around the bottom of this pedestal is a reproduction of the well-known Greek border. A suggestion of this border occurs on many of the more ancient water jugs, plaques, etc.

The exhibit is in charge of the Indian author, Francis la Flesche.

Our American Potentates.

The worst that McKinley's enemies have ever said about him is that he has aspired to lay aside the title of President for that of emperor. No one has accused him of such vaulting ambition as a desire to be an Imperial Potentate, Imperial Ceremonial Master, Imperial High Priest, Imperial Rabban, Imperial Marshal, or even Imperial Oriental Guide.—[Kansas City Star.

Winners in All Fields.

So many notable honors have been won in England this year in outdoor sports by representatives of this country that it is especially to be hoped and desired that the American oarsmen at Henley may make an excellent showing. The American eagle is likely to soar exultant this season over additional victories of American colors in many a contest on land and water on the further side of the Atlantic.—[New York Tribune.

Severe, but Necessary.

The law preventing immigrants who are afflicted with consumption from landing in the United States will be a serious hardship to hundreds, but there is no one who will question its justice. This country has been too long the dumping ground of the whole world's sick and pennyless. The restrictions touching the arrival of paupers have been enforced with little difficulty. This last bar is more important than any other, and it should be maintained. The laws are made for the greatest good of the greatest number.—[Milwaukee Sentinel.

THE OLD MAN'S VIEWS.

Back there in the old days, when 'pendicitis wasn't known,
Feller'd git to feelin' bad, an' git kind o' out o' tone,
"Doc" ud waltz right in an' say: "Got a fever? Had a chill?
Well, this weather's kind o' bad! Rest awhile an' take a pill!
Be all right tomorrow, Joe!" Stop an' joke some with the kid,
You'd be out the next day, sir, plowin' like you never did!

Feller gits a chill today—Ge-mu-nee! the doctor comes,
Stands an' feels your pulse an' then shakes his head an' haws and hums:
"Gravest symptoms—system is thoroughly run down, I fear;
Sorry, sir; but there's some signs of appendicitis here!
See you in a day or so!" Then a feller lays in bed,
An' appendicitis comes from the worry in his head!

That's the way it seems to me—science is a mighty thing;
But when ignorance is bliss, let's be ignorant, by jing!

IN JUNE.

At night the garden calls me out;
Through perfumed aisles I go.
Red lilies with strange spotted cups
Sway softly to and fro.

Great, dusky moths drift silently
About the half-closed flowers,
And from a deep-blue sky the moon
Lets fall her silver showers.

Throughout the fragrant gloom, dear love,
Each night I search for thee;
Behind each clump of shimmering leaves,
I peer epectantly.

Into each corner, dark and still,
Whence blackest shadows satrt,
I seek for thee, and find thee, love,
Nowhere but in my heart.

Drastic Terms for Traction Co.

[World's Work:] In Berlin the street railway company is required to reduce the ten-hour day to its employes, to provide waiting rooms properly warmed and lighted, and, from June 1, 1901, to fix a uniform fare of 15 pfennigs for the whole length of the line, both in and without the city. The company receives 8 per cent. of the gross receipts plus half the net profits over 9 per cent. on old capital and 6 per cent. on new capital. At the end of the year 1919 the lines and rolling stock become city property. These terms are drastic, indeed; yet, the company is not satisfied, and additional lines are now planned.

Determination of Oregon Short Line to Connect With Local Tracks.

H. E. Huntington, president of the Los Angeles Railway Company, came in from San Francisco Sunday afternoon in his private car. Yesterday he went with C. W. Smith, general manager of the road, looking over the lines. Mr. Huntington had not been here before for nearly six months. During that time a good deal of important work had been finished up and a start called in the improvement of the property. As a result of Mr. Huntington's presence here at this time, four or five blocks on Broadway will be relaid at once. The Grand-avenue line will all be relaid and some work on the Second-street line will be done. The new line to Pasadena is already under way.

A Times reporter asked Mr. Huntington if he had any plans in mind as to the interurban electric line to connect Los Angeles with other points in Southern California. He said nothing that could be called plans. He conceded that such projects had occupied more or less of his attention, but nothing has yet been formulated. He could not say anything over would be done, and also what it might be or when work might be undertaken.

The Huntington-Hellman syndicate is more than satisfied with their investment in Los Angeles electric lines, though it is pretty certain that they will put a great deal of money into improvements on top of what they paid for the property. They have put in nothing more than they have taken out. It is also known that all the members of the syndicate have much faith in the future of Southern California. But, in spite of all this, there is yet nothing in the nature of new enterprises now determined upon, whatever may come to pass in the future. Mr. Huntington not only stated that only more or less indefinite possibilities had so far occupied his mind, but said that people are in no wise interested in any of the several schemes recently put on foot in the way of interurban railway lines.

A reporter inquired of Mr. Huntington if it would be proper to ask him anything as to the Southern Pacific, and its plans. He said: "Why no, I am still a vice-president, although my personal interest in the company is very small. I saw Mr. Harriman recently, and he assured me of the Union Pacific's earnest intention to push the Oregon Short Line to Los Angeles as rapidly as the work can be done. There is no doubt in the world that this is the purpose of the Union Pacific. I do not think a new line will be built over the mountains to Los Angeles. I do not know where the connection will be made, whether at Mojave, or at Mojave, or at what point. But it is not likely that a new line will be constructed over the mountains.

You know the Oregon Short Line is a part of the Union Pacific, and the Union Pacific now owns the Southern Pacific, so there is no necessity of building a line further than a junction with the Southern Pacific."

In reply to a question as to any intention of the Southern Pacific building new shops in Los Angeles, Mr. Huntington said he had not heard any intimation of any such thing being undertaken. Mr. Huntington will be here some time, taking a survey of the lines of the system. He is accompanied by his father-in-law, Bert Holliday of San Francisco, who married Mr. Huntington's younger sister.

"By the way," said Mr. Huntington, "the reporters across to go, "traffic has become so much in Los Angeles we have found it necessary to order fifty new street cars, of which twenty are for the line to Pasadena, and thirty for the Los Angeles city lines."

IMPORTANT CAPTURE MADE AT REDLANDS.

KING, ALIAS KENT, TRIES TO PASS A FORGED CHECK.

Clever Crook, Suspected of Operating Elsewhere, Now Behind the Bars—Claims He Was Drunk When He Did It—Young Window Smashers.

REDLANDS, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] In C. King, alias C. C. King, the police of Redlands are certain they have captured a clever and dangerous crook. He is now confined in the County Jail in charge of forgery, and the evidence against him is considered conclusive. He came to Redlands last Monday, registered at the Baker House as C. King, and gave his business vocation as a physician, newspaper man and artist. He is an artist without doubt, but not in the ordinary acceptation of the name. King proceeded to advertise in the local newspapers on an advertising proposition, and he is such a smooth talker that he succeeded in getting one of them for a camera and some money.

Apparently he tried to do some work, for he got advertisements from the Arlington House, in San Bernardino, and from the management of the Urbita Springs. The commission on these, however, was not sufficient to satisfy King's somewhat expensive tastes, and it became necessary for him "to make a raise." He took the old reliable route of forgery, and but for an accident, would have made the paper good. He picked out the Popular shoe store as a victim, probably because it has been open only a few days, and he could reasonably expect them to be unacquainted with the men of the city. The name he forged is that of C. O. Burt, a former resident of San Bernardino, but the clerk chanced to know that Mr. Burt died about six years ago, so he refused to pay the check, the value of $35, and had King arrested.

King refused to talk when questioned, further than to say he had been drunk, and had no idea what he had been doing at the time the check was pre-

IMPORTANT CAPTURE MADE AT REDLANDS.

...D, ALIAS KEMP, TRIES TO PASS FORGED CHECK.

...ar Creek, Suspected of Operating Elsewhere, Now Behind the Bars—Claims He Was Drunk When He Did It—Two Window Smashers.

REDLANDS, June 17.—[From The Times Resident Correspondent.] In C. King, alias C. C. King, the police of Redlands are certain they have captured a clever and dangerous crook. King is now confined in the County Jail on a charge of forgery, and the evidence against him is considered conclusive. He came to Redlands last week, registered at the Baker House as C. King, and gave his business variously as a physician, newspaper man and artist. He is an artist without doubt, but not in the ordinary acceptation of the name. King proceeded to advertise in the local newspapers on an interesting proposition, and he is such a smooth talker that he succeeded in getting one of them for a camera and some money.

Subsequently he tried to do some work, and to get advertisements from the Casa Blanca House, in San Bernardino, and from the management of the Urbita Springs. The commission on these, however, was not sufficient to satisfy King's somewhat expensive tastes, and it became necessary for him "to make a raise." He took the old reliable game of forgery, and but for an accident would have made the paper good. He picked out the Popular shoe store as a victim, probably because it has been open only a few days, and he did not reasonably expect them to be acquainted with the men of the city. The name he forged is that of C. O. Burt, a former resident of San Bernardino, but the clerk chanced to know that Mr. Burt died about six years ago, so he refused to pay the check of $35, and had King arrested.

King refused to talk when questioned, and has given out no statement, but he had been drunk, and had no idea what he had been doing at the time the check was presented. Another check, with similar signature and for a like amount, was found in his pockets when he was searched at the jail.

Examination of King's effects showed him to be in possession of the letters, memoranda and papers of one C. C. Kemp, who has been in the employ of the Portland Oregonian, Denver Post, and a number of other papers through the East as a business representative. Kemp was also a druggist, and papers in King's possession show Kemp to have been working for drug firms of Cincinnati and Chicago as far back as 1877. It is this that makes the police certain that King has stolen the things, for though he claims to be 42 years old, he does not look to be over 25.

Kemp's contracts and letters would indicate that he has been recently employed as representative of the Golden State, a Coast paper devoted to the interests of Native Sons and Daughters and the Pioneers of California. He also seems to have been recently employed in Denver and Colorado Springs.

The police think King is also wanted for forgery in Riverside, and an effort will be made to identify him with the forgeries negotiated there last week. King is a young man of prepossessing appearance, and seemed to have plenty of money, although only 5 cents was found on him when he was arrested. He drank quite heavily during his stay in Redlands, but was never seen drunk.

MISCHIEVOUS BOYS.

D. M. Donnell, proprietor of a local planing mill, applied this morning for a warrant for the arrest of four boys, who maliciously broke twenty windows in his building Sunday afternoon when nobody was around. A little Mexican girl who lives near by saw the young miscreants, and gave the names of the ringleaders as Johnnie Sutherland, Eddie Sutherland, Eddie Sobion and Sherman Belk. For some time a crowd of about twenty boys from 8 to 14 years old, have been playing similar tricks elsewhere about the town, and have also become a nuisance as petty thieves to the extent that an effort is being made to have them sent to industrial schools and reformatories. The boys mentioned, however, are not charged with anything except window breaking.

HERNANDEZ TRACED.

Encarnacion Hernandez, the Mexican who nearly beat his wife to death in Riverside last Wednesday, has been traced to Redlands with a fair chance that he will be captured. Hernandez came almost directly here after committing his brutal crime, and drove a horse to a buckboard that is believed to have been stolen. He sold the rig for $10 to a farmer near town, although the rig was easily worth $60. After that, however, Hernandez disappeared, and it is believed he is being harbored by Mexican friends here or at Beaumont. The police have a good description of the man, and a close watch is being kept for him.

A peculiar coincidence was noticed when the information of the Riverside crime was received, for on the same night another Hernandez in Redlands was arrested for wife beating, and got ninety days for it on the following day.

REDLANDS BREVITIES.

The address delivered by Bishop Johnson of Los Angeles at Trinity Church yesterday brought out a large crowd. There were many communicants, and a large class for confirmation.

The unusually warm weather is fast depopulating the town in favor of the mountain and seaside resorts. The winter hotels are about ready to close for the season.

"OIL-RIGHT" OIL MAN.

He Solves the Problem of Lighting a Cigar on a Windy Day With the Aid of a Car.

He was an oil man. And it all happened on West First street, where the cars go down and up the steepest grades in the city. If there is one place more than another where the motorneer dreads to make a stop it is on the incline on one of the First-street hills.

The wind was blowing yesterday at a very fair rate, gusty and uncertain. It caused trouble for light straw hats and fleecy skirts.

A man stood unsteadily on the corner of First and Flower. Loosely fastened between his lips was a partly-consumed cigar. He was making ineffectual attempts to light it.

That cantankerous wind and his bibulous condition rendered his efforts in this direction futile. Giving up in despair he looked about dreamily, and his sodden eyes alighted upon a telephone pole across the way. With uncertain steps he started to cross the street just as a car came bounding down. The bell clanged warningly. The bibulous man stayed his footsteps, swaying gently in the breeze—or from another cause. A happy inspiration seized him. He waved his arms wildly at the car.

The motorneer threw his whole weight on the brake, and finally succeeded in stopping the car just as it was crossing the hump. The bibulous man walked as best he could to the side of the car, extracted a match from his pocket, ignited it on the car's rail and triumphantly lighted his weed. A broad smile illuminated his face as he puffed away contentedly, and he extracted the weed from his face to wave his hand and say:

"All right! Go ahead! Mush 'bliged to you," and as the motorneer released the brakes a mummur which savored at times of forcible language floated upon the gentle zephyrs which came out of the West.

"I can easily see the reason why a badly-told story seldom gets much countenance."

"And what is the reason?"

Gold Teeth or Bridge Work.

This method does away with plates and, while more expensive, is certainly much more satisfactory. You can bite and masticate with these teeth just as you could with natural teeth. We do so much of this work and save more time by the Schiffman Method that we are enabled to save you about 35 per cent. In delicate work like this, where practice is such an element in success, does it not seem reasonable to suppose that a dentist of natural ability, wide experience and unusual practice, can do better and cheaper work than others of less experience and small practice, even if they have the same natural ability? Reason answers for us.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he removed the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth, and put on a porcelain crown which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. BURR, Of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 3 Rogers Bl'k.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, and also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to any one wishing dental work done without pain.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Yesterday the Los Angeles Water Company fixed the price of the waterworks at $2,275,000. The Council took it under advisement.

A petition was presented to the Council yesterday asking that New High street be cut through to Broadway. The petition was referred to the Board of Public Works.

The parental fight over the custody of little Viola Murphy is being waged in court on habeas corpus proceedings.

Monday has been set apart by the Supervisors for a consideration of county game laws, and their abandonment.

AT THE CITY HALL

CITY WATER COMPANY FIXED THE PRICE.

TWO MILLION, TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND.

Petition Presented to Council Asking That New High Street Be Cut Through to Broadway—Funds for Fourth of July.

The pig is out of the poke.

What the water company wants for the waterworks plant is $2,275,000.

The price was named yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the City Council.

A special meeting of the Council has been called for today at 11:30 a.m., at which time an answer will be made to the offer.

In a way, yesterday's session was amusing; for just as the last cat was ready to swing and all was as sweetly peaceful as a summer morning and brotherly love percolated and permeated and diffused itself into every heart, there came a thunderbolt out of a clear sky and they were at it again hammer and tongs. The state of affairs became as mixed as this metanbor!

The Council had resolved itself into a committee of the whole and they were sitting about in a sociable circle regarding each other smilingly, but with their fingers crossed.

It was interesting to see how the lawyers, who for years have been battling over this case, demeaned themselves when they felt that it was almost over. Maj. Lee, the senior counsel for the city, watched the face of Mr. Elliott as he read the final compromise proposition with most intense interest, while Mr. Scott, his associate, glared ferociously at the carpet all through the reading. Over in the stronghold of the water company's ranks, surrounded by W. H. Perry, Mr. Newmark, Lieut. Miner, Lieut. Drake, and the others, J. S. Chapman Esq., who has been in the fight for the company from the first, looked absently out across the room.

It began with a pleasant little sally between Mr. Elliott of the water company and Councilman Walker.

As Walker was sitting a little outside the circle, Mr. Elliott suggested agreeably, "Come in closer, Mr. Walker; we may be able to compromise better."

"Yes," we're getting closer all the time," replied the Councilman, as he moved up his chair.

It began so amicably.

Mr. Elliott read the long proposition looking toward the compromise, as it appears in full below, with all its innumerable details and its safeguards.

When he had finished, he surveyed the assembled Council over the edge of the paper and asked: "Am I to understand that this is acceptable as the terms under which we state the price?"

There was a moment of silence, which was broken by Maj. Lee, who bowed in acquiescence and said, "So far as the attorneys are concerned."

They made a few friendly little stipulations, how the water company was to have the right to prosecute the suits against defendants other than the city and how slight verbal corrections of the proposition of compromise might be made. Then the mix-up came.

Mr. Elliot was just on the verge of naming the long-awaited price, when Mr. Mathews, the City Attorney, got to his feet.

He said that it was the desire of the lawyers for the city to know that the Council would agree unanimously as to the acceptance of the conditions of the compromise proposition before any agreement was made as to the suspension of the Crystal Springs suit. In other words, he said the attorneys desired to know that the Council stood pat; there was no way to be sure that the bonds would carry by vote of the people, even if it went so far, but unless the Council stood together unanimously for the proposition, he thought it was hanging the fate of the famous suit on too great an uncertainty.

His remarks created a commotion.

Mr. Elliott replied hotly: "You made two strenuous objections, and we gave in. Now I think that if we keep our hands off you might do the same."

Mr. Mathews said that as a voter, not as an attorney, he knew that it was necessary for the successful carrying of the bonds that the Council agree on the proposition.

And to this Mr. Elliott threw out a stinger, "You might as well say that if two of our stockholders would not consent to this, it is all off. You are afraid of us; we are afraid of you. We trust you more than you do us."

They all took a hand in it, and the city was accused of unfairness, and then Mr. Elliott threw in another shot. "I am going to say right in front of your attorneys," he said, "it is not fair to draw us into an arrangement where the backing out of two or three of you can make us helpless. We have pulled our attorneys off. Now, you stand up and tell your attorneys to do as well as we have."

Which inspired Councilman Allen to discipline the recreant attorneys.

Mr. Allen was surprised; also much pained.

He said: "I am somewhat surprised. I thought it had all been agreed between the attorneys. I am surprised to be confronted by the proposition that this Council should be controlled by the minority. If six votes can't control this Council, I am ready to step out."

MORE WRANGLE.

Another favor from Mr. Elliott as follows: "If this thing drags on and goes to the Supreme Court, you will have to pay $1,500,000 more."

The Council then went into executive session and the legal representatives sat around in little groups for half an hour perhaps, when the legislators came solemnly back into the Council chamber, and hostilities were resumed.

Mr. Bowen, who had been appointed chairman of the committee of the whole, announced that it was the unanimous opinion of the Council that "we proceed on the basis as outlined here."

Everybody who could think of one quick enough exploded some kind of a "Am I to understand, sir?"

Finally, when conversation lagged, Mr. Elliott announced the price and the Council adjourned to meet again today, having taken the matter under advisement.

The entire details of the agreement under which the price was named are as follows:

OUT OF THE POKE.

MODIFIED PROPOSITION.

In modification of the proposition heretofore presented, and in concession to some of the requests which the city and its Council have made, the companies propose:

First—That this proposition, if agreed to by the Council and submitted to the people, shall not be considered as binding upon the Council or the city unless bonds should be voted by the people for the payment of the sum mentioned, and the payment made; that if the said vote should be unfavorable to the issuance of the bonds, the proposition shall be considered as terminated, and neither party will thereafter be affected in any manner by it.

Furthermore, that the proposition, if accepted by the Council, shall not be construed as any waiver on the part of either party of any right or claim or demand now existing, or claimed to exist by either, against the other under the contract of July 22, 1868, or otherwise; but that contract, it is understood by both parties, and the rights, duties and obligations of each party thereunder, and all other rights claimed by either party, shall remain exactly the same, as though the proposition had not been made, until it is thus accepted by the people by such vote, and such payment made.

And, furthermore, that the said contract is not altered or modified, but this proposition shall be deemed and taken, when accepted and carried out, as the performance in full of the said contract of July 22, 1868. And when the payment of the said sum hereinafter mentioned is made by the city of Los Angeles, all controversies of every kind existing between the city of Los Angeles and the said water companies, or any of them, shall be fully and finally settled, determined, satisfied and discharged.

Second—Until the payment of the said sum, the water company shall remain in the possession of the property and the management, control and operation thereof. But from and after the time when the vote shall be taken, and it shall have been determined that the said bonds have carried, the company shall be entitled to 7 per cent. per annum interest upon the said sum, until the money is paid, and the city shall be entitled to the net profits arising from the operation of the said systems and property proposed to be turned over to the city, and the distribution of the water; that during the said time—that is, after it has been determined that the said bonds have carried—the companies shall still remain in the possession, and take the rates, rents and revenues, and after deducting the costs and expense of operating the same and the 7 per cent. per annum, the remainder shall be payable to the city, with this exception: That any extensions and enlargements that may become necessary in the mean time, shall also be paid for by the city out of the said revenues, the amount to be paid being only the actual cost thereof, the city or any agent that it may appoint for that purpose to be cognizant of and fully informed as such work proceeds, of such cost. The company, however, is to make no such extensions or enlargements, except with the consent and approval of the city. Provided, always, that the said company may at its risk, made such extensions or enlargements as seem to it absolutely necessary to prevent any forfeiture or other injury or damage from accruing to it by reason of the nonperformance of the terms of the said contract of 1868.

Third—This proposition is made as a compromise proposition, and in the event that it be not finally accepted, and consummated by payment of said sum, or, if for any reason compromise fails, it shall not be deemed or taken as any evidence of the value of the properties, nor shall either party waive, forfeit or be deemed to have abandoned any right or claim under the contract of July 22, 1868, or otherwise, but on the contrary, if the said compromise finally fails, the parties shall be in the same position precisely as though the proposition had never been made.

Fourth—It is further proposed, however, that if the Council so far approve of this proposition as to submit the same to the people, that then all litigation now pending between the parties shall be postponed, and all actions and proceedings set for a definite time shall be reset by stipulation of Council for hearing at such dates after the voting on the bonds as that they shall maintain their present respective relative positions in point of time, nor will any new actions at law or other proceedings be taken or commenced for any cause now existing, unless necessary to prevent the bar of the statute of limitations and then only to commence the suit. And no further proceedings shall be taken therein by either party until the vote of the people is taken and ascertained. And if the proposition be rejected and the city, therefore, be not bound by it, neither shall the company be bound, and the litigation may proceed.

Fifth—Upon these terms and with this understanding, we propose to take the sum of $2,275,000 for all the properties of the Crystal Springs Land and Water Company, the Los Angeles City Water Company, and whatever may be standing in the name of the East Side Spring Water Company, and that upon the payment of said sum, whatever instruments, if any, may be necessary or proper to carry into effect the foregoing agreement, the said companies and each and any and all of them will execute, or at the said City of Los Angeles desires that a judgment may be taken for the further security and perfecting of its title so that it may be as fully possessed of and vested with the said property and the possession thereof as the said companies now are, or may at any time hereafter become, before the final consummation of this transaction, then the said companies will consent that such judgment be taken, and that upon the payment of the said sum of money, they will immediately turn over the possession of all of the said properties to the said City of Los Angeles, and will thereafter, if required or requested, make such further assurances, or suffer such judgments as the city may desire.

Sixth—It is understood by the companies and assured to the city, that the present improvements and enlargements of the system now being carried on will be completed by the said companies, and that no further charge or cost therefore shall be laid than the said sum herein mentioned and the rates up to the said election if it be determined that the bonds have carried, and the interest accuring therefore.

Seventh—It will be understood by the companies that if the said bonds are voted, the proceedings for the sale of the said bonds and the making of the sale shall be prosecuted with all reasonable diligence and that thereafter there shall be no greater delays in raising the money than are reasonably requisite to making the sale of the bonds, and if the money is raised the same shall be immediately paid over as herein provided.

Eighth—As already stated above, this proposition is made to and considered by the city with the understanding that it is a compromise agreement, and neither party is to be in any manner affected if the compromise fails, for no inconsiderable part of the consideration that moves the parties to enter into this compromise is the settling and disposing of the vast amount of litigation that is pending, and to that end they are respectively willing to make the concessions herein stated, and to agree upon the price herein named, with the understanding also already attempted to be expressed, that if it fails their respective position shall not be in any manner changed, nor their respective rights under the contract of 1868 be otherwise in any manner changed, altered, enlarged or abridged, or otherwise affected, nor their respective positions in the litigation in any way changed further than is herein expressly agreed upon, to-wit, merely the postponement of the prosecution of this litigation pending this negotiation and suspending further proceedings by either against the other.

Ninth—It is of course understood that the proposition to turn over all the property of the companies does not include the moneys which they are to receive for the property or that they may obtain from rates as above provided, interest, etc., and that so far as the personal property is concerned, it may not and probably would not be exactly the same upon the determination that the bonds had carried that it is now, as many of these articles of personal property are used in making repairs constantly, some of it is perishable, and tools and implements wear out and are impaired. The amount and value on hand, however, is practically about the same all the time, and as to the system of waterworks, including reservoirs and real estate and easements, they are the same. It is understood that the books and records of the corporation, accounts, bills receivable and demands accuring before the determination that the bonds have carried are excepted. This exception, however, does not except the books, maps, charts, etc., used in the administration of the system and the distribution of the water, but relates only to the corporate books properly so called, including its books of accounts.

Nothing herein contained or the agreement of the Council of the city and the Mayor to the said price and the terms of the proposition as hereby amended shall be construed as an admission on the part of the city that the said contract of 1868 is now in force or effect, excepting so far as it governs or controls the payment to the water company of the value of its improvements, and the right of possession of the works. Nor shall the Council or the Mayor by assenting to this proposition, be deemed to admit that any property comes under the provisions of said contract, excepting that included in the valuation of $1,183,591.42 made by George H. Mendel and James C. Kays, nor as admitting that said sum of $2,275,000 to be paid by the city is the true value of the property to be taken by the city.

Nor does the company nor either of the companies admit in any manner that the claim of the city is correct, that this contract is not in force in all its terms, nor waive any claim that it has made or may make as to the meaning of said contract and its rights thereunder.

HOW OUR SHADE TREES "IMPRESS" AN EASTERN VISITOR.

TREES VIOLATE LAW.

AVENUES OF DROOP.

Avenues of drooping branches are all right for a hatless race. The man who wears a silk tile down some of the prettiest streets of the city will pray to be transported to a land where there are no trees, but the kind of palms that grow in Harper's Geography, where the branches are a mile from the ground.

There is a city ordinance resting somewhere that requires the branches to be cut to a height of eight feet from the ground, but it would take a regiment of police to enforce it.

The worst of it is that it is the kind of ordinance that won't stay enforced. The trees keep growing into violation of the law.

Once in a while, the copper on the beat scares the lady of the house into nervous collapse by presenting stern dictums from the Chief of Police which give the impression that that august officia has been stealing out at dead of night with a measuring pole, and has found grievous shortcomings in the distance betwen the sidewalk and the lowest branch tips.

Then there is a frantic search for the family saw and picturesque language, for a pepper tree is the "consarndest" thing to cut that ever was.

Many of the worst offending trees are in front of vacant lots, for whom the fabled "non-resident owner" is always responsible.

The overgrown trees are bad enough for pedestrians, but worse for the driving public. To drive along some of the streets at night is an adventure in itself. You are switched and cut and your hat is jerked off and smashed down over your ears and the trimming is dragged askew.

NEW HIGH STREET.

PETITION TO EXTEND.

A petition was presented to the Council yesterday asking that New High street be cut through from its present terminus to Broadway, the proposed junction being at the northwest corner of The Times building.

The petition was signed by the Title Insurance and Trust Company, Albert M. Stephens, A. W. Rhodes, Charles H. Frost, D. K. Andrews, John D. Bicknell, E. H. Winans, Times-Mirror Company, J. C. Mossin.

The petition was accompanied by a resolution passed by the Business Center Association, Kaspare Cohn presiding at the meeting. The resolution asked that the City Council take steps to condemn the property for street purposes.

The matter was referred to the Board of Public Works and arrangements were made to have the assessment district laid out in order that property holders in the vicinity might know whether they will be financially affected by the cut.

Water Users Worried.

Several people residing in the district supplied by the Highland Park Water Company have petitioned the Council asking that provision be made for supplying that district with water in case the city decides to purchase the water company's plant, either by the purchase of the Highland Water Company or by the immediate extension of the systems of the Los Angeles Water Company. The petitioners fear they may be unjustly discriminated against, unless one of these courses be adopted, and made to pay higher rates than will be charged to residents of districts supplied by the municipality if it goes into the water trade.

Lake Overflow.

The City Attorney was instructed yesterday to prepare a contract with Joseph Brown for the use of the overflow water from East Lake. Brown runs a paper mill and wants the water power. He offered to pay $25 a year and wanted to make a contract for thirty years. The City Attorney was instructed to fix the contract so the city would not be bound for a period of years.

Get House Numbers.

At the request of the postal authorities the Council instructed the City Engineer yesterday to notify the householders of Highland Park and Garvanza that they must get house numbers. The numbers are to be fixed by the City Engineer.

Street-sweeping Bids.

Bids for street sweeping were opened by the Council yesterday. As they were higher than last year when feed was lower, it is probable that they will have to be resubmitted. The bids were as follows: Franklyn & Alexander, first district, 62½ cents per 1,000 square yards; second district, 24⅝ cents; third district, 24⅝ cents; fourth district, 24⅜ cents; washing first district, 55 cents per 1000 square yards. W. I. Hollingsworth, first district, 70 cents; second district, 26½ cents; third district, 24 cents; fourth district, 26¼ cents; washing first district, 53 cents. Ramish & Marsh, first district, 67 cents; second district, 27½ cents; third district, 25 cents; fourth district, 27½ cents; washing first district, 50 cents.

Money for Fourth.

Representatives of the Fourth of July Committee have asked the Council for the $300 left over from the Presidential reception fund. The Council will grant the request if there is no legal objection.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

IMPRISONMENT OF YOUNG CHILDREN.

COURT CALLS ATTENTION TO A NEWLY CODIFIED LAW.

Charlie Blodgett, an Alleged Boy Burglar, is Too Young to Stay in County Jail With Other Prisoners and Must Have an Early Trial.

When Charlie Blodgett, a tow-headed boy 14 years old, was arraigned in the criminal court yesterday to plead to a charge of burglary, his attorney, B. S. Hunter, Esq., asked for an early trial, but, when Judge Smith scanned his calendar, it appeared that every date had been assigned far into July. The boy has been unable to give bail, and of course is lying in the County Jail.

While considering the matter, the court called attention to the law, as laid down in a recent code, relative to the imprisonment of children.

"No child," says the law, "under the age of 16 years must be placed in any prison, or place of confinement, or in any courtroom, or in any vehicle for transportation to any place, in company with adults charged with or convicted of crime, except in the presence of a proper official."

Such is a provision of the act, entitled "an act for the protection of children and to prevent and punish certain wrongs to children." It was passed in 1878, but a recent codification of the statutes has simply brought it to light.

Young Blodgett will be given an immediate trial. He is a homeless half-orphan, whose father cannot train him and wishes him sent to the Whittier Reform School to learn a trade.

MURPHY GIRL.

PARENTAL FIGHT RESUMED.

The fight over the custody of little Viola Murphy, which began recently with the alleged kidnaping of the child by her mother from the Boyd-street school and a cab-flight to Sierra Madre, was resumed in habeas corpus proceedings before Judge Day yesterday.

The petitioner is William H. Murphy, a canvasser, who lives at the Santa Rosa Hotel, corner San Pedro and Fourth streets. He says that his little daughter should not be allowed to live in the care of her mother, whom he alleges to be an unfit perzon to undertake the raising of a girl, and that, inasmuch as she is alleged to have deserted her baby about five years ago, he asks for the custody of the child. All day yesterday was spent in testimony of a very unfavorable nature against the mother, whose history for several years past was gone into at length. The principal witness was Murphy. He painted her very black. Then he had a number of witnesses testify how good he was to his daughter. Several years ago Mrs. Murphy was divorced in Arizona from her husband and has recently remarried, her name now being Mrs. Elizabeth Guldin. She will tell her side of the story today. Viola and her mother are at the Hollenbeck.

GAME PROTECTION.

SUPERVISORS WILL CONSIDER.

Henry O'Melveny was before the Board of Supervisors yesterday with a piscatorial burden on his heart. He wants the trout season shortened. This request opens the entire question of the efficacy of a county game ordinance. Many of the sportsmen of this vicinity are in favor of a strict enforcement of the statutes of the State regulating game and its killing, but would like in that event do away with the bother of county laws. Mr. O'Melveny suggests that in a State so large as California, it is difficult to frame laws adapted to both ends of the State. This is especially true, he thinks, in his pet fish matter, for the conditions of moisture are so different in the north and south, that trout here are in greater need of protection than elsewhere.

To acquaint themselves with both sides of this issue, the Supervisors have set aside next Monday for special consideration of it, and invite sportsmen to appear and give their views.

INCORPORATIONS.

FRUIT AND PETROLEUM.

The Whittier Citrus Association incorporated yesterday, with a capital stock of $25,000, divided into $10 shares, of which amount $70 has been subscribed. The directors are F. A. Fletcher, Fred O. Sargent, Will S Fawcett, A. L. Reed, C. J. Cook, U. S. George and Truman Berry, all of Whittier.

A certified copy of the articles of incorporation of the Sunset Czar Oil Company, incorporated under the laws of Arizona, was filed with County Clerk Bell yesterday. The directors are George Easton, B. W. Hahn, J. R. Atchison, R. B. Dickinson and M. Phipps. The company's capital stock is $500,000, divided into $1 shares, of which amount $50,000 has been subscribed.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

FLINT ESTATE. Henry G. Wilson filed a petition for letters of administration yesterday in the $1525 estate of Austin P. Flint, who died in Jefferson county, N. Y., on July 15, 1894.

NO INTERREGORUM. Judge Smith passed upon the habeas corpus case yesterday of Joseph Thompson, who was recently convicted of selling liquor without a license some time between March 5 and March 17, and fined $75. The new law changing the classification of Los Angeles and the status of the Police Court was in effect on March 5, but the incumbent judges did not qualify under the new régime until March 17. Thompson tried to take advantage of this fact to claim that he was tried by a court without existence. Judge Smith, however, holds that the court was validly in existence, and that any question as to the right of the police judges to this office would have to be attacked on quo warranto. The fact that Thompson was convicted by a judge, acting in fact, if illegally, was sufficient to defeat his habeas corpus proceeding.

DOW DIVORCE. Herbert C. Dow was divorced from Mrs. R. A. Dow by Judge Conrey yesterday on the ground of desertion.

FORGERY CASE. J. F. Tanaka was on trial in the criminal court yesterday charged with forging the unpronounceable name of a fellow-countryman to a $140 check on April 4. He was convicted.

FORBES WAS CRUEL. B. E. Forbes was divorced from W. A. Forbes by Judge Trask yesterday on the ground of cruelty.

HANLEY INSANE. Davis J. Hanley, aged 73, was adjudged insane by Judge Day yesterday and ordered committed to the asylum at Highland. The aged patient is suffering from senile dementia.

BLUNDER IN MARRIAGE. A suit in divorce was begun yesterday by J. E. White against H. A. White.

AFTER GUARDIAN. W. T. Brown of Downey was before Judge Day yesterday on citation of his ward, Lizzie H. Banks of Santa Monica, to show cause why he should not pay her $20 a month for her support. Several years ago Miss Banks's father died, leaving an estate valued at $10,000 in trust to four children. Brown is their uncle and guardian. Miss Banks complains that she has had no allowance since February. She lives with an aunt, Miss Cheney, of Santa Monica. The present difficulty was precipitated by a demand on the guardian for $25 a month for Miss Bank's support. When Brown, thinking the demand too great, hunted her up a home for $20 a month, she would not go to it.

PREVENTED A MURDER.

Chinatown Officers Arrest an Armed Mongolian Who Was Looking for a Fellow-countryman.

The arrest by Patrolmen Craig and Hubbard, late Sunday night, of Sing Bing, undoubtedly prevented another murder in Chinatown. When the Chinaman was taken into custody a 45-caliber Colt revolver was taken from him and for more than an hour he had been closely following Wong Chung, a rival in the lottery business, with the avowed purpose of killing him.

The trouble between the two Chinamen was not the result of differences between the tongs, but was due to rivalry among the lottery companies. A new company was recently organized in Chinatown, and the old companies declared a boycott against it. They raised $400 for the purpose of driving the new company out of business, and by the judicious use of this money made it difficult for the new company to place its tickets on sale. Several of the recent seizures of tickets by the police are said to have been the result of tips given the officers by those interested in the other companies, and many of the tickets taken were those of the new company.

The new operators employed Wong Chung to try to induce the Chinese merchants to handle their tickets, and also to spy on the work which the other companies did against them. Wong went to a Chinese store on Second street Sunday night, and was watching what the others were doing. His actions were resented by Sing Bing, and a violent quarrel ensued. The two men met later in Chinatown, and the quarrel was renewed. Chung knocked Bing down, and the latter went to one of the headquarters of his tong and secured a pistol. He told several of his companions that he intended to kill Chung before he slept. The remark was heard by a white woman who lives with a Chinaman, and she told the officers about it. The police searched for Bing for some time, and finally saw him following Chung. At sight of the officers Bing ran, and for a time disappeared. Later he was found standing in a doorway next to a store in which Chung was talking to another Chinaman. When placed under arrest Bing tried to throw away his weapon, but one of the policemen wrenched it from his grasp.

THE MINING FIELDS

NOT BOOMING, BUT MOVING LIVELY.

GROWING ACTIVITY IN ARIZONA'S MINING DISTRICTS.

Several Important Sales Have Been Consummated—What is Doing at Chloride—Gold Bonanza North of Phoenix Struck in Ben Hur Mine.

If mine owners were not particular, the present activity in Arizona mining circles would be advertised as a boom. But mining men fear the term and only announce that "things are moving lively."

New capital is daily finding its way in, and better still new and extensive improvements are being made all along the line. One of the latest sales is the transfer of the Octave Mining Company's mining claims near Stanton. The Peery interests have been absorbed by the company, and arrangements are being made to develop the property to its full limit. Since December 1, 1899, the deeds have been in escrow, the consideration at that time being fixed at $50,000. Since that time the property has been developed largely, and is now reported to be producing about $50,000 a month.

Another sale that has been consummated is that of the transfer of the numerous claims of the Big Copper Company lying south of Prescott. The purchaser is a New York syndicate.

Ike Hamilton is now shipping fifty tons of ore from the Gold Leaf near the Jersey Lily mine. He has about three feet of $29 ore, which is being shipped to the Muscal mill for treatment. He is making the pioneer attempt at cyaniding in his district, working on a dump of $10 ore.

The Blue Dick people are grading out for a smelter.

CHLORIDE DEVELOPMENT.

Thomas B. Scott has made applications for patents on the Lucky Boy, Lucky Baldwin, Bright Days and Queen mines and mining claims. Those which are not now being worked are to be opened up at once.

E. T. Ley, superintendent and general manager of the Minnesota mine at Chloride, is en route for Pittsburgh, Pa., for the new Hooper dry concentrating plant for the Philadelphia and Arizona Mining Company. The machinery is expected to arrive by the middle of next week. Grading is now being done at the Minnesota mine for the foundation and big building, and the work of getting the machinery in place and the mill in operation will go forward rapidly.

James Carroll will begin work soon on his small vein of rich chloride of silver ore, that he struck last fall while prospecting in the tunnel of an old and abandoned prospect three miles northwest of town. The vein matter is small, and probably would not average more than half an inch in thickness in all the work done, there being about seventy feet of the old drift. But it is rich, assays going from 800 to 2000 ounces silver to the ton. The walls of granite and lime are hard, too, and hug the small streak of pay ore closely, if not affectionately, and the prospector will have to sharpen his tools many a time in breaking them down and removing them in following the little emerald-hued ore vein. His hopes, however, lie in the pay chute widening at some stage of development work, "and if it does," he says, "I'll have enough."

F. W. Theis is having a shaft sunk on the first southeast extension of the rich strike of Hughes & Mitchell's. The work on the new prospect is down twenty feet, and already small particles of silver and chlorides are found in the quartz.

N. M. Richardson is taking out and shipping mica of good marketable value from his mine at Union Pass.

The Gold Road mine in San Francisco district is to have suitable reduction works to treat its twenty-foot body of $29 free milling gold ledge and quartz matter.

BIG GOLD BONANZA.

Another big gold bonanza has been unearthed in Arizona. Thirty-five miles north of Phoenix and about eight miles from the Phoenix and Ben Hur mines, W. A. Watts and W. D. Piles discovered a vein twelve inches wide that is literally spotted with gold nuggets all through the quartz. Some of the assays run as high as $1000 per ton, and free gold can be seen in almost every chip of quartz. One of its strong features is that the ledge can be traced on the surface for over half a mile, and there are five other ledges within a total distance of 400 yards.

ON THE DUMP HEAP.

Excellent samples of quartz from various districts of Arizona are now on exhibit in the office of Bayerstock & Staples, assayers, in this city.

Copley and Kennet, rival Arizona towns, want the Trinity Copper Company's smelter. The people of Kennet have agreed to deed the company forty acres of land at the mouth of Squaw Creek, a mile south of that place.

PAUNCEFOTE'S RETIREMENT.

British Ambassador Will, it is Thought, Quit the Diplomatic Service in a Short Time—Now in London.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.)

NEW YORK, June 17.—Rumors of the early retirement of Lord Pauncefote have been restarted by his arrivel in London, with his family, says the Tribune's London correspondent. It is said, as it has repeatedly been said before, that he will not remain in the diplomatic service for many months, and, as he is now 73 years of age, he has certainly earned a rest from his heavy responsibilities. It was intended that he should terminate his career as the British Ambassador to the United States last year, but his term of office was prolonged because of important questions remaining to be settled between England and America, and it may perhaps be again extended for the same reason.

THEY DO IT.

People Quit Coffee and Get Well on Postum Food Coffee

A man in Milford, Ind., says he did not quit drinking coffee because he thought it hurt him, but because he found a morning beverage he liked better in Postum Food Coffee, but to his wonder and surprise, he found in a few weeks all of the old symptoms of sickness had left him.

He had been greatly troubled with his stomach and heart, also with what is called "water brash," and dull headaches "which made me very irritable and quick tempered."

All of these symptoms disappeared and he discovered, in spite of all his previous theories that coffee was really the cause of his troubles, and the leaving off of coffee and taking on Postum Food Coffee brought about a perfect cure.

He speaks, also, of Mrs. Josephine Kelly, living at Elkhart, Ind. Says she was afflicted much as he was, but had become more emaciated than he. So she quit drinking coffee and took on Postum Food Coffee. She is now a healthy and robust lady and willing to make affidavit that Postum Food Coffee saved her.

The gentleman from Milford speaks also of Thomas McDonald as having recovered by using Postum. It can be had at all grocers. A good cup of Postum cannot be made unless it is boiled long enough to bring out the flavor and food value, then it is delicious.

In the East childlessness is considered a curse from the gods. It is a pathetic sight to see some childless Hindoo mother prostrate before an idol, imploring that the curse of childlessness may be taken away.

Are we much wiser than the heathen? Thousands of childless women are not as they suppose under Nature's ban, but are suffering from a diseased condition of the delicate feminine organs. It may be debilitating drains or female weakness, and perhaps an ulcerated and inflamed condition of the parts. In any case the diseased condition must be removed and a healthy condition established before the maternal function can be fulfilled.

Many a mother acknowledges her debt to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and to its inventor Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., who invites the sick to write and consult him without charge. "Favorite Prescription" promptly allays irritation, heals ulceration, checks the debilitating drains, cures female weakness and the accompanying bearing down pains. It gives vitality and elasticity to the organs peculiary feminine, and establishes the natural conditions which make for the easy birth of healthy children.

There is nothing just as good for you as "Favorite Prescription." Don't be put off with a substitute.

"I have never written you how grateful I am for your help in securing good health and one more sweetest, dearest thirteen pound girls that ever came into a home," writes Mrs. M. Vastine of 647 South Liberty St., Galesburg, Ill. "When I wrote you about my ailments I was living in Richland, Iowa. I took six bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, four of the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and four vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Before I had taken four bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription' I was a new woman. I cannot make pen describe my heartfelt gratitude."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the stomach, liver and bowels.

Skin Diseases

ECZEMA, TETTER, PSORIASIS, SALT RHEUM, ACNE and a great many other diseases of like character are classed as skin diseases, when they could just as properly be called blood diseases, for they undoubtedly originate in the blood, like Cancer, Catarrh, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, etc.; the only real difference being in the intensity and nature of the poison. The more serious diseases, Cancer, Catarrh, etc., are caused by some specific poison or virus, which is either inherited or in other ways gets into the blood and attacks certain vital organs or appears in the form of terrible sores and ulcers, while the milder and less dangerous skin diseases are caused by blood humors or an over acid condition of that fluid. These acid poisons, as they ooze out through the pores of the skin, cause great irritation, with intense itching and burning. The eruption may be of a pustular kind, with excessive discharge of thick, gummy fluid, or the skin may be hot, dry and feverish, swollen and fissured. Skin diseases, whether they appear as sores, blotches or pimples, become more deeply rooted and intractable the longer neglected, the skin in time having a thick, hard, rough and unsightly appearance. You can hide the blemishes for a time with cosmetics, and washes, lotions, soaps and powders may relieve temporarily the itching and burning, but eventually the pores of the skin become so clogged up by this treatment that the poisonous matter thrown off by the blood cannot pass out of the system, and settles on the lungs, heart or some other vital organ and endangers life.

I can cheerfully and most sincerely endorse your specific as a cure for Eczema, the most irritating and annoying disease, I think, that flesh is heir to. I was troubled with it for twenty-five years, and tried many remedies with no good effect. After using your medicine a short time I think I am entirely relieved. You can give this statement any publicity you may desire, as it is voluntarily made, more for those afflicted than notoriety for myself.

Very respectfully,
WM. CAMPBELL,
813 West Central. Wichita, Kans.

To purify and build up the polluted blood is the right treatment for skin diseases, and for this purpose no other medicine is so deservedly popular as S. S. S. It is a perfect antidote for all blood humors, and when taken into the circulation, gently but thoroughly eliminates all impurities and puts the blood in a healthy, normal state. The skin can't remain in an irritated, diseased condition when nourished with rich, new blood. S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, and the safest and best skin beautifier. Write our physicians if you have any blood or skin disease, and they will cheerfully advise you without charge.

LIBRARY BUILDING FOR LOS ANGELES.

New York Philanthropist Promises to Donate it on Certain Conditions. Thanks to Historical Society.

THROUGH the efforts of the Southern California Historical Society, the city of Los Angeles may have a beautiful public library building. That society has been working quietly but effectively for over a year with this object in view, and it looks as though success would crown its efforts.

Walter R. Bacon, president of the society, and a well-known lawyer of this city, spoke very enthusiastically yesterday of the plans by which the city may soon possess a library building, and that without an expense above what is now paid out to maintain the library in its present quarters. Said he: "The Southern California Historical Society has about 2500 volumes at present stored in the Courthouse, which cover the history of Southern California from the first explorers to the present time. Besides, it has an exceptionally fine collection of relics illustrating our history. This collection is said by visitors from other States who have seen it to be one of the most complete owned by any similar society in the country. Now, it is our ambition to have these books and this collection of museum material properly displayed, and to do this we must have a building or space in some building. For sixteen years we have been represented by a periodical. We, of course, exchange with the very best similar publications throughout the country, and we find that we make a poor showing as compared with most of them. The society already has enough money to purchase a site and erect thereon a small building, but that is not our intention."

Mr. Bacon then explained the plan of the society to accomplish this ambition of theirs, which is to domicile their sacred possessions in the new library building.

But where will come the library building?

Such an edifice is not visible to the casual observer, and many cannot even see it in their mind's eye. The inability of the city to erect a suitable building and the fact that the wealthy men of Los Angeles cannot be aroused to enthusiasm sufficient to enlist their financial support, give the skeptic strong grounds for doubt.

But the Southern California Historical Society has a project that is going to succeed, if sign count for anything. The interest of a wealthy New Yorker has been enlisted in behalf of a new library building for Los Angeles. "Like Carnegie, the steel magnate, he is in a giving vein, and, like that noted philanthropist, too, his hobby is libraries. This gentleman, whose name is withheld, is a lifelong friend of Mr. Bacon, and having amassed a fortune in railroads, has assured Mr. Bacon that if satisfactory arrangements can be made, his adequate financial aid will be forthcoming. He has already made two gifts of $250,000 each for similar purposes, but so modestly has this been done that few know of it.

Mr. Bacon assures the public that if the expected gift is obtained, the new library building will not be a cheap affair, but rather one of the finest architectural adornments of Los Angeles. The reward that the Historical Society asks for its efforts is that space shall be set apart in the new building for a proper display of its books and museum material. At the regular monthly meeting of the Historical Society, held June 10, a committee consisting of W. R. Bacon, J. M. Guinn and H. D. Barrows conferred with the members of the city library board, and it was then decided to lay a proposition before the City Council. The city will be put to little if any additional expense above what is now incurred, and the only important request is that the City Council donate a site for the new building.

There are two sites in view. One is the plot of ground adjacent to the City Hall, and the other is Central Park. The objection to the former is that it is too small for such a purpose. It is the popular belief that Central Park must be used only as a public park, and that Charles Lahman, who, many years ago, planned the "Garden of Eden," situated in the block now occupied by the Henne building, also donated what was then called Los Angeles Park, but is now Central Park, to the city, and that in his deed of gift he had a cause inserted which provided that if the park were ever used for any other purpose the land would revert to the donor.

This, Mr. Bacon says, is a fiction. "I have," said he, "gone through the records carefully, and have investigated the matter thoroughly, and find that there is absolutely no ground for such a belief. On the contrary, the records show that the land has always belonged to the city, and that no private party has any valid claim to it whatever."

If the City Council can be made to see things in this light, it is safe to say that the Historical Society will do its part, and thus make itself truly historical. Should the arrangements relative to the site and the expense of maintaining the library be made, and if they prove satisfactory to the generous New Yorker, one of the members of the Historical Society will go east immediately thereafter, with the expectation of returning with a library building fund.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

Wedding bells have tinkled merrily and incessantly during the first two weeks of summer, and especially within the past few days. June, the month of brides and roses, is being true to its ancient traditions, and each day so far has been marked by the marriage of people more or less prominent in the social world. This fact has made the month an unusually gay one.

Miss Josephine Lawrence of Chillicothe, Mo., and Foster C. Wright of this city are among the number who have taken the marriage vows. They were married Sunday afternoon in the parlors of the Pacific Hotel at Pomona, Rev. Francis T. Scott, pastor of All Souls' Church, and a college chum and Sigma Chi Fraternity brother of Mr. Wright, officiated. The service was witnessed by a few friends. Preceding the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served in the hotel dining-room. The bride wore a handsome street gown. Mr. and Mrs. Wright returned to Los Angeles yesterday, and are at present residing at No. 1016 West Thirty-eighth street. July 4 they will leave for an extended eastern trip. They will visit New Orleans, Chicago, Buffalo, Niagara, and en route to Los Angeles will spend a few days with Mrs. Wright's aunt in Kansas City, Mo. Upon their return to the Coast they will reside a part of the time at a novel and original country home at Tropico, presented to the bride by her mother for a wedding gift. They expect to return August 1. The bride came to Los Angeles ten months ago from Chillicothe, Mo., and she has divided her time between towns in Southern California. She was educated in St. Joseph's Academy in St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Wright was graduated from the University of Southern California. For more than a year he held a position as reporter on the local staff of The Times, and is now secretary to the Mayor. Many gifts were received by the young couple.

Brode-Lawler.

Miss Hilda Brode, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brode, and Oscar Lawler were married yesterday evening at the home of the bride's parents, No. 1229 South Olive street. Judge D. K. Trask officiated. The service united in marriage two of Los Angeles well-known and popular young people, who have resided in this city many years. However, the wedding was celebrated quietly. The house was artistically and beautifully decorated, the colors being carried out in pink, white and green. Clusters of carnations were arranged about the rooms, and the service took place in the drawing-room beneath a floral bell. The bay window was banked with sword ferns, growing palms and other foliage, forming a beautiful background for the bridal party. Bows of pink satin ribbons, intertwined with asparagus plumosus, formed a canopy overhead in the drawing-room. Library and dining-room. The bride wore a gown of white taffeta, with an overdress of white organdie. She was attended by Miss Hattie Lawler, sister of the groom, and Miss Bertha Ducommun. They wore gowns of pink silk and white organdie overdresses. Walter C. Brode, brother of the bride, was best man, and the other attendant was Capt. Robert Wankowski. After the ceremony an elaborate dinner was served. Arend's Orchestra furnished the music. Mr. and Mrs. Lawler have gone to Lake Tahoe for a few weeks. They will be at home after August 15, at No. 563 West Twenty-second street. The gifts received by the bride were numerous and beautiful.

Newman-Maier.

Miss Minnie Newman and Leopold Maier were married Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the apartments of Mr. and Mrs. A. Klein at Hotel Gray on Main street. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Newman of this city, and she is a sister of Mrs. A. Klein. The room in which the service took place was elaborately decorated with clusters of roses and carnations. A canopy of smilax and ferns was formed overhead, and white satin ribbons extended from the chandelier in the center of the room to the corners. The dining-room was in pink and green, quantities of carnations and sprays of satin ribbons being artistically used with ferns. The bride wore a handsome gown of white French batiste, elaborately trimmed with lace. Her long veil was held in place with a cluster of diamonds, a gift from the groom. She carried bride roses. Mrs. Klein assisted as matron of honor. Her gown was of black silk, with an overdress of black silk lace. Her flowers were pink carnations. Miss Zara Federman and Miss Lulu Mendelssohn acted as bridesmaids. They wore gowns over blue organdie and carried pink carnations. Eva Danziger, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. Messrs. Walters and Alexander Newman were groomsmen. Rabbi Hecht officiated. Music was furnished by Angelotty's Orchestra. After the service an elaborate dinner was served to about thirty relatives of the two families. Mr. and Mrs. Maier will spend several days in San Francisco, after which they will return to Los Angeles for a few days before going to Benson, Ariz., where Mr. Maier has established himself in business. For many years he has been associated with the Haas-Baruch company here. Many beautiful wedding gifts were received by the young couple, attesting their popularity in Los Angeles.

Strong-White.

Miss Josepha Strong and Harry C. White were married Wednesday, June 12, at 1 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Oakley, No. 1144 East Adams street. Rev. Edwin H. Pretz officiated. The bride wore a handsome gown of white mull, elaborately trimmed with lace. She carried white carnations and ferns. Miss Lucy Johnson acted as maid of honor. She was dressed in white organdie, and carried white sweet peas and ferns. Miss Ina White, bridesmaid, was gowned in blue organdie, and she carried white sweet peas and ferns. The groom was attended by John H. Berton. The services took place in the front parlor in an arch of palms, and the couple stood beneath a horseshoe of white pansies and ferns, tied with a lover's knot of white satin ribbon. A background was formed of ferns and tropical foliage, and ropes of smilax extended from the chandeliers in the center to the corners of the room. The reception room was decorated with yellow and green foliage, and the dining-room was in pink roses. The bridal party entered the parlors to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," and "Call Me Thine Own" was played during the ceremony. Mrs. William Reeve presided at the piano. Mrs. Oakley was assisted in receiving and entertaining by Mrs. J. P. White and Mrs. Moss. Mr. and Mrs. White have gone to San Francisco for a fortnight, and they will be at home to their friends after July 1, at No. 1134 East Adams street. The bride and groom are well and favorably known here, where they resided since childhood. A number of gifts were received, among them a deed to a handsome cottage, completely furnished, by Mr. and Mrs. Oakley.

Dinner and Whist.

Dr. and Mrs. A. M. F. McCollough of No. 955 South Alvarado street entertained delightfully on Monday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Pool, with a progressive dinner, followed by whist. The decorations in the drawing-rooms were pink and white, and the dining-room, scarlet and green. After the dinner the guests were delightfully entertained with two beautiful selections of music by Miss Mary L. O'Donoughue. Little Miss McCollough and Master Charles Pool charmed all by singing a duet, entitled, "Won't You Play House With Me." Mrs. Jepsen captured the lady's first prize, a beautiful hand-painted china plate. Prof. Inskeep captured the gentleman's first prize, a letter opener. The consolations were awarded to Mrs. Conant and Dr. Choate. Those who assisted in entertaining were Miss Gibson, Miss Reed, Miss Inch, and Miss Lewis. The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Barker, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Conant, Dr. J. J. Choate, E. W. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. French, Mr. and Mrs. William Garland, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Inch, Prof. and Mrs. I. N. MARKET MEN INDIGNANT.

Alleged Bluff on Part of City Council.

Police are Spurred to Sudden Activity.

There was excitement bordering close on riot at the old public market, corner of Ninth and Los Angeles street yesterday morning. The commotion was caused by a squad of police under command of Sergt. George Williams, who attempted to clear the street of wagons.

The police assert that they were merely trying to prevent a blockade of a public thoroughfare, and to put a stop to noises which were disturbing residents of the neighborhood. The market men are emphatic in their declarations that the movement was a deliberate one, planned with a view of forcing the Chinese vegetable peddlers and others to patronize the new city market at Third street and Central avenue, instead of the private market of D. Hewes.

The new public market, which will probably go down in history as a monument to the City Council's folly, was opened to traffic last Saturday. But the stall renters are as yet so few as to make the success of the enterprise very doubtful. The Council elected to change the market site in the face of the protests of nearly every person who patronized the old market, either as a seller or buyer. The site selected for the new market was objectionable in many ways. The city was deriving a handsome revenue from the old market, but in spite of all protests the Council voted to change the location. The result was that the patrons of the market agreed to continue doing business at the old stand, provided Mr. Hewes, the owner of the property, would erect a new market house. This he readily assented to do, and as a consequence of his enterprise the old shack which was carted away to a new site at the behest of the City Council is now being replaced by a handsome and commodious new building, which will cost $10,000, and which will be in all respects the best and most sightly market-house on the Pacific Coast.

LATE SLEEPERS PROTEST.

The Hewes market is now well under way and is to be ready for occupancy by the first of next month. Nearly all the stall holders in the old market have rented space in the new Hewes building, but while it is in course of construction the market men have been practically compelled to transact their morning's business in the streets or on vacant lots in the vicinity. This has given rise to complaint by residents in the neighborhood of Ninth and Los Angeles streets, who allege that their early morning slumbers are disturbed by the Chinese vegetable peddlers who congregate in front of their houses and jabber in outlandish manner over their barterings.

Councilmen who voted in favor of the new market site at Third street and Central avenue, in spite of all protests on the part of the people most affected by the change, have intimated from time to time, that when the day came for the opening of the new market a way would be found to compel the rebellious market men to occupy the new quarters. They did not say what that way would be, but by some strange coincidence the police interference at the old market site began on the very day that the new market was opened for business.

When the city first decided upon establishing a public market, a piece of property, 466 by 72 feet at the northeast corner of Ninth and Los Angeles streets was leased for the building. This was soon found to be inadequate and an additional lot about 100 feet square, at the corner of Ninth and Santee streets, was rented. When the new site at Third street and Central avenue was decided upon, the building and all the fences and fixtures were removed from the Ninth and Los Angeles street property, including the lot at the corner of Ninth and Santee streets. Mr. Hewes, who had in the meantime become the owner of the old market site, immediately began the erection of a splendid new brick market house at the corner of Ninth and Los Angeles streets, and also took possession of the lot at Ninth and Santee streets, upon which he erected fences and rented space to hucksters for open air bartering while the new building was in course of construction.

POLICE INTERFERE.

Now it happens that the city's lease on the Santee-street lot does not expire until July 1, but Mr. Hewes took it for granted when the fences were removed that the city had no further use for the property, and did not intend to pay any more rent for it. He, accordingly, took possession, as already stated, and remained in peaceable occupation until last Saturday morning, the day the City Council's new market was opened for business, when several policemen appeared and ordered all wagons to keep off the premises, as the city did not propose to permit any more trespassing on its leased property. The usual warrant for the rent had not yet been forthcoming, but Mr. Hewes promptly withdrew from possession and in due time will present a demand for the month's rent, which he places at $40.

But the climax came yesterday morning when a squad of police appeared soon after 4 o'clock, and for the next few hours busied themselves in preventing teams from stopping in Los Angeles street in front of the property of Mr. Hewes. The officers said they were there to prevent the street from becoming unduly blockaded, but the commission merchants who have temporary stalls on the west side of Los Angeles street, and are tenants of Mr. Hewes, aver that the police went so far as not even to permit wagons to stop at the curb in front of regular places of business to load or unload products that had been purchased or sold.

"Drive on! Drive on!" shouted the officers, amid an ominous flourish of clubs. "You can't stop here." Such were the mandates of the police, say the market men, and the Chinese and Italian teamsters, terrified by the blue-coats, were afraid to stop to unload or take on cargoes.

OFFICERS OPENLY DEFIED.

The stall owners were loud in their protests, and shouted their defiance at the police, bantering them to arrest them, or any of the wagon drivers if they dared, and making a riotous din. Ira Herrington, superintendent of the new market for Mr. Hewes, and who was for so many months the efficient license collecter and market inspector for the city, entered his protest with Sergt. Williams, who had charge of the police squad, and the two had quite a wordy argument, during which the market superintendent insisted upon knowing what rights the market men had. Sergt. Williams explained that his men were there merely to prevent trading in the street, and to keep the street from becoming congested with teams. He said they were not there to interfere with lawful business or to prevent the loading or unloading of goods that had been sold.

But commission men J. D. Robinson, H. L. Baake, Herbert Slaughter, George Waite and others assert, in spite of the sergeant's protestations, that business was interfered with, and that in a number of instances, drivers were not allowed to back up to the curb to deliver or take away goods that had been sold. Wagons had to be unloaded on the move, to the great inconvenience of the parties concerned. Some of these merchants alleged that their business was damaged to the extent of $25 or $50 yesterday morning in consequence of the police interference, and threats of bringing suits against the city are accordingly being made.

WHO GAVE THE ORDERS?

It is not inferred, of course, that the police took the action they did without instructions from some higher authority. The conditions were no worse in the vicinity of Ninth and Los Angeles streets yesterday morning than they have been every morning since the city vacated the old market site. There is an officer there every morning to keep order and arrest violators of the law, but evidently this officer did not think the law was being violated, for no arrests were made. The appearance of six policemen yesterday morning, filled with zeal to make their presence felt, therefore created a sensation.

Naturally the market men who refused to remove to the new market at Third street and Central avenue, presumed that the sudden activity of the police was due to instructions from members of the City Council to compel them to patronize the new market. Their resentment of the supposed attempted cajolement was fierce.

Mayor Snyder, when asked if he knew of any orders having been issued to the police to harass the patrons of the new market, replied that he had not heard of the trouble at all, and said he certainly did not approve of such tactics. It will be remembered that the Mayor vetoed the ordinance establishing the new market, and it is natural, therefore, that he should resent any attempt to force anyone to patronize it.

Chief of Police Elton, when questioned about the matter said his men were not acting in the interest of the new market site. He had not received instructions from the Council or any member of the Council, to harrass patrons of the Hewes market. But for some time complaints had been coming to him that the Chinamen and other vegetable peddlers were creating a nuisance by congregating in front of private residences, whooping up the old market and making outlandish noises at early hours before the residents had completed their night's rest. His instructions to officers were to stop this nuisance and to prevent trafficking in the streets.

MR. THORPE EXPLAINS.

It developed yesterday evening that Police Commissioner Thorpe had made a request in behalf of Councilman Allen, that the police suppress the early-morning noises in the vicinity of the old market. It was represented that some sick children belonging to a family living at Ninth and Santee streets were among the persons annoyed. Mr. Thorpe last night said he had no motive in view other than to protect the rights of private citizens when he requested that special police precautions be taken to prevent disorder at the old market. His request of the Chief to send officers to repress disturbances was made entirely independent of the City Council's new market site. He was not interested in this in the least, and had no ax to grind. If the police exceeded their authority by preventing the loading and unloading of goods in front of lawful business places, he was in no wise responsible, as he had not requested any action of that kind.

Sergt. Williams, who had charge of the police, who were at the scene of disturbance, said only two extra men were sent to the place at the start, to prevent blockading of the street and annoyance of private residents. By and by he heard that there was a rumpus of some kind at the old market site, and proceeded to the spot. A patrolman or two on other beats also showed up, so that there were probably half a dozen policemen altogether at the place before the fracas was over. The sergeant denied that any attempt was made to prevent the loading or unloading of goods that had been sold. He said the officers simply tried to prevent the blockading of the streets and the disturbance of families living in the vicinity. He thought some of the commission men became unduly excited, and ought to be more interested for boisterous conduct, although he considerately refrained from placing any of them under arrest.

SAY IT IS A BLUFF.

The commission men allege, in spite of the protests of the police, that they were simply there to prevent unnecessary blockading of the streets and disturbance of sleeping families, that the officers confined their efforts to driving people away from in front of premises owned by Mr. Hewes and occupied by his tenants. They insist that it was an attempt to bluff them into patronizing the new public market, and vow that if they return to the task this morning they will be given a warm reception.

One of the objections of the market men to patronizing the new market place established by the Council, is that it is surrounded by a net of street-car tracks, which makes it dangerous for teams, and is in no wise so conveniently situated or arranged as the old place. Thus far the new market house has scarcely any tenants, and the city, instead of deriving a handsome revenue as heretofore, stands a first-rate chance of losing a lot of money.

IS MRS. FISHER INSANE?

She Says No, Others Say Yes—Interesting Testimony Looked for at the Examination Today.

Interesting developments are expected to come out today in Judge Shaw's department of the Superior Court when Mrs. Clara Fisher is examined on the charge of insanity, preferred by her uncle, C. H. Bush, a North Main-street jeweler. Mrs. Fisher was arrested last Friday and taken to the County Hospital, from which institution she escaped early Saturday morning by sliding down a water pipe from the second story. She was soon recaptured and taken back.

Mrs. Fisher is a well-educated woman about forty-four years of age. She has property worth about $10,000, her real estate consisting of a fine house on the corner of Orange and Wittmer streets. It is the desire to get this property, she claims, that moves her relatives to have her arrested for insanity. Those who are conversant with her case say she is undoubtedly insane.

While living in Los Angeles two years ago, Mrs. Fisher became ill, and this, in addition to money troubles, is said to have unbalanced her mind. At that time while in the Westminster Hotel, she made a scene by flourishing a pistol. She has since been under restraint by a trained nurse. Three months ago she escaped from this nurse and went to St. Paul, Minn., where she formerly lived. Learning where she was, her relatives sent for her and she was brought back last Friday.

Dr. J. W. Trueworthy, who has treated Mrs. Fisher for two years, said last night that she is undoubtedly insane. Other doctors make the statement. She declares, however, that this charge is trumped up by her relatives to get her money. Today some spicy testimony will probably come out.

Mrs. Fisher is the widow of a former Episcopal minister of Boston. He came here some years ago, took charge of a church on Boyle Heights, and tried to instill life in it. The congregation was small and in endeavoring to keep up the church for them the pastor spent several thousand dollars of his own money and then committed suicide by shooting. Mrs. Fisher is a former member of the Ruskin Art Club, and a number of the members called on her yesterday at the County Hospital.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Los Angeles Ebell.

The programme of yesterday's meeting of the Ebell Society was a varied one, and included some notable features not written down nor expected.

The meeting opened at 2:30 p.m., the president, Mrs. W. T. Lewis, in the chair. During the preliminary business, Mrs. George Drake Ruddy extended to the club an invitation to spend Wednesday at her cottage at Ocean Park. The invitation was accepted. A letter from the President and Mrs. McKinley was read, thanking the Ebell Society for its part in the courtesies extended to the Presidential party during the recent visit to Los Angeles.

The first number on the programme was a piano solo by Miss Gertrude Ross. This was warmly encored, and in response Miss Ross played a second selection.

The afternoon was to be one of book reviews. Mrs. C. N. Sterry read the first review, having for her subject Gwendolen Overton's "The Heritage of Unrest." The entire review was one of warm appreciation, in the course of it Mrs. Sterry said:

"Los Angeles is to be congratulated in many ways. She is growing at a marvelous rate. She has recently received within her gates many distinguished guests, among whom the most noteworthy were the President of the United States and his wife. Los Angeles is also to be congratulated on the literary talent resident here. The latest book of note produced by a Los Angeles author, 'The Heritage of Unrest,' has been classed as one of the best books of the year, and, indeed, critics are already claiming for it a place among the best fiction of the world. The book would have been remarkable if it had been written by a man of many years' work and experience; it is still more remarkable as the first venture of a young woman in the field of more extended fiction. It is a story that one dislikes to lay down until it is finished, and that when finished, continues to haunt one for many days after. In the whole of it, you cannot find one blemish, one blur of the brush. In ranks among the best selling books of the year, and already stands among the first literary favorites."

Miss Eugenia L. Hobbs followed Mrs. Sterry with a review of Barrie's "Tommy and Grizel." Miss Hobbs gave an outline of both this book and its predecessor, "Sentimental Tommy," She designated the book as an attempt on the part of the author to abandon the earlier simple style in which he wrote while still under the influence of the life in Thrums, and produce something on a larger scale. She thought the attempt hardly happy in this regard, although the originality of the book could not be questioned.

"Unleavened Bread" was reviewed by Mrs. C. N. Flint. Mrs. Flint said in part:

"The book is the satire of a conservative man against that advance of independent thought which insists that 'equality is the essence of American doctrines' Compared with works of its kind it is not a great book, yet it is sufficiently incisive to do some needed surgical work. The writer lacks, however, that brotherly pity for human weakness which makes the wit of Molière, Cervantes and Thackeray imperishable. Satire in the Damascus blade of the moralist; in the hands of illtemper or malice its edge is blunted. Mr. Grant's satire, though it amuses, seldom instructs or convinces. He is always severe and sometimes spiteful—feminely spiteful. He is a keen observer of actions rather than motives, looking at people rather than through them. He has not given us pleasant pictures of American women. We have had crude sketches, garish colorings and finical impressions offered us, from time to time, by the stranger in our land, but these portraits by 'our own' chivalrous American man have the detail and the frankness of the pre-Raphaelite. Most of us know the woman in the picture—possessed of high ideals yet dominated by foolish vanity and the meanness of petty jealousy. That which chiefly concerns us is her confusion with the women of the club. That she is the product of the club we deny. In club life she is sporadic, just numerous enough to be a wholesome warning. I am reminded that her husband's fall from grace was on the occasion of her visit to the biennial—which further convinces me that satire is largely malice. A golf tournament or a church conference would have done as well."

A brief sketch and critique of two books—"Gertrude and Her German Garden" and "A Solitary Summer"—by Mrs. J. L. Merrill was preceded by a harp solo by Miss Edith Bond. Miss Bond, who is just beginning public work in Los Angeles, played with a feeling and finish that called forth an insistent encore, in response to which she rendered a second selection. Miss Gwendolen Overton, who had been called for at the close of Mrs. Sterry's review, but had not at that time been present, or at least had not made her presence known, was again asked to come forward for a Chautauqua salute from the club, but replied through a club member that she did not feel able to face so large an audience. Miss Will Allen Dromgoole, who was present, was asked to speak, and did with great effect several anecdotes suggested by questions put to her since her arrival in Los Angeles. The last, the story of an old negro who made himself ill by indulging in too much molasses, was suggested by an inquiry as to the probable length of her stay in California. The old negro in question gave as an excuse for his overindulgence: "I tell yuh that 'lasses jug—when once yuh git a lick at it, yuh always want to run back for another lick." "And that," said Miss Dromgoole, "is the way with California."

Following the programme tea was served.

Sericultural Club.

The Woman's Sericultural Club held its usual semi-monthly meeting at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon. Mrs. G. Sormano offered to donate sufficient eggs to stock the projected exhibit at Washington Gardens. A committee was therefore appointed to engage a man to take charge of the worms when they should be placed in the exhibition rooms. Mr. Ellet promised to have the building ready for their accommodation within ten or twelve days. The annual meeting of the club will consist of a picnic at Terminal Island on the 29th inst.

Mother and Son Overcome by Smoke in a Burning Building and Rescued Just in Time.

Mrs. Isabel Reed and her fourteen-year-old son narrowly escaped death by suffocation in a fire which destroyed their home and Mrs. Reed's small store on the corner of Twenty-ninth and Pedro streets, shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday morning. The cause of the fire is unknown. There was no fire in the place when Mrs. Reed retired, and it could not be determined what part of the building it originated in when it was discovered the whole interior of the grocery was in flames. The fire was discovered by Officer Rico, who at once turned in an alarm from box 35. With the assistance of several neighbors, the officer rescued the woman and her son, who were almost unconscious. They were taken to a neighboring residence and revived.

Although the fire department responded promptly to the alarm, the building and all its contents were totally destroyed. Mrs. Reed saved some of her clothing and almost everything else she possessed. She was assisted by friends with sufficient clothing to come uptown yesterday and purchase a new supply. The loss will amount to about $1800, partially insured.

BURGLAR ON BOYLE HEIGHTS.

Two Residences Entered in Broad Daylight and Money and Jewelry Stolen—No Clew.

A bold burglar robbed two houses yesterday afternoon, and got away without any person seeing him. There, therefore, no clew to his identity. The first of the places entered was the residence of Mrs. C. M. Hodge, 214 Soto street. Between noon and 2 p.m., while the members of the family were absent from the house, someone picked the lock of a rear door and entered. He made a thorough search of almost every room, and as many articles of value, if it is known he was looking only for such, should be easily disposed of. Only a little gold watch and chain, a breastpin, bracelet and ring, of small value of his loot being more than known. About 3 o'clock in the afternoon the residence of E. J. Waterhouse, 2000 Bridge street, was entered in the same manner, and because the mistress of the house did not know what articles of value were kept at the Hedges residence, it is supposed that the same thief visited both places. He secured a pair of opera glasses and chain and $4 in silver.

WRECKED A SHOWCASE.

Frederick Schroeder was arrested yesterday on a charge of malicious mischief, and will have a hearing before the Police Court. On Friday afternoon he was seen to break the glass front covering a display of photographs at the entrance to Splaine's photograph gallery, and steel a picture. It was through this he made his escape, and no one knew who he was until the detectives went to search his house, and learned whose picture had been stolen. With this clew the police secured evidence to justify a search, and therefore swore out a warrant against Schroeder.

LODGING-HOUSE PARLANCE.

C. E. Logie created some excitement in the Queen lodging-house, 9 South Spring street, last night. He was slightly intoxicated when he left the place several times, and finally at his father be released from the rooms. He was told that if he did not there, but the latter refused to identify him, and he is said to have made dire threats against the lives of several of the women lodgers before he was sent for. Logie was booked at the police station on a charge of disturbing the peace.

W. A. MATTHEWS INDICTED.

ATLANTA (Ga.) June 15.—A special from a county grand jury has been returned here presentments against W. A. Matthews, formerly president of the Gate City National Bank, of this city, which went into the hands of a receiver June 1. The presentments charge embezzlement, larceny and the wrongful appliance of the funds of the bank. Matthews is understood to have left the city.

MANAGER JIM PAIN.

Jim Morley, the manager of the Los Angeles baseball team, paid a visit to the Police Court yesterday morning in the capacity of a street-car conductor. The Ninth-street line is a week old, and there is a difference of opinion as to whether or not Morley ought to be a conductor for a dog, and the latter has become insolent to the driver of the dog. He has an epithet to Morley that he is very fond of hurling at him.

Thomas G. Barker on Trial for Insulting Rev. Keller, Who Has Not Insulted His Wife.

THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.

NEW YORK, June 17.—Thomas G. Barker was placed on trial in the Jefferson county court, Jersey City, this morning before Judge Blair, charged with an assault with intent to kill. Barker on May 3 last Barker shot Rev. Dr. Keller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Arlington, N. J., in front of the church. Keller, it is said, had insulted Barker's wife. Barker was looking only for such a chance, he said, that he could be easily disposed of. He then drew a revolver and shot Keller twice, inflicting wounds from which the latter died less than an hour. Barker was arrested by Detective Irwin while opening the door of the church to enter the edifice.

MANY LIVES IN DANGER.

Dam Breaks on Poudre River at Fort Collins, Colo., and Is Doing Much Damage.

Crops Being Swept Away.

THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS.

DENVER, June 17.—A special from Fort Collins, Colo., says: The breaking of the Larimer county reservoir has placed many lives in peril, and may destroy thousands of dollars' worth of property. The reservoir is situated on the north bank of the Poudre River, about one and one-half miles north of Fort Collins. The capacity of many miles of ditches depends upon the amount of water and is now flowing.

This morning a break was discovered in the dam and the water was pouring through it like a small river. The break was quickly given its proper name, and engineers were sent to repair the dam. They reported that there was great danger of the whole dam giving way and letting out all the water in the reservoir. Ranchmen in the valley were notified by telephone to get to places of safety as soon as possible. There are about 1000 people and fifty ranches in the probable flood.

It is thought that Fort Collins is in no danger, for it is on the south side of the Poudre, which will probably carry off part of the flood.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, June 17.—The stock market made a vigorous attempt today to withstand the chilling effect of heavy exports of gold and the flurry in the money rate to 5 per cent. But the general show of strength at the opening was forced to succumb by this development in spite of the persistence of some notably strong spots. The closing showed advances very generally wiped out, except in the few stocks which moved against the current. St. Paul continued to be most conspicuous, and the strength in that stock was supplemented by advances in various other railroad stocks from individual causes and by a buoyant tone for the independent steel companies and a few industrials. Missouri Pacific was slightly affected by the dividend. The action of the market Saturday after the appearance of the bank statement had been sufficient notice that the financial powers were prepared to ignore the showing of the statement and to continue their efforts for an advance. The opening was strong, in consequence, with 4000 shares of St. Paul taken at a spread of 2½ points, the quotation on running sales, varying from 181½@184, compared with 180 Saturday. The stock touched 185¾ later in the day on enormous dealings. The belief is well-defined that an offer is to be made of 4 per cents at the ratio of 200 at par of bonds for 100 at par of the stocks, as was done for the Burlington. As certificates for the Burlington stocks are ruling at 194½, the price seemed to be the objective point for St. Paul. The heavy realizing which meets the stock's advance at each stage and its late reaction, however, warranted a conjecture that the final settlement in the matter may remain to be made. The independent steel companies were affected by rumors of pending absorption into the United States Steel Corporation. Tennessee Coal rose an extreme 7½; Colorado Fuel, 5½; Republic Steel, 3½, the preferred and Hocking Coal, 2½. The advance of 4½ in Illinois Central had no other explanation than the high rate of the dividend return. Amalgamated Copper was then all day, but it was not until the final dealings that it was rushed precipitately up to 120, with indications of distress on the part of the shorts. The activity of the trading decreased conspicuously after the gold shipments were announced to an aggregate of $4,000,000. The belief is general that further shipments will be made later in the week. Berlin is clearly enough the point of trouble for which relief is being provided. The market closed irregular, but with some recovery from the reaction. The bond market was rather active and irregular. Total sales, $2,-265,000. United States refunding 2s, the 3s and new 4s declined ¼ per cent on the last call.

London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram says: "What activity there was in the stock market today was furnished by American shares. They were freely dealt in, but other departments of the market were idle. Canada were heavy in anticipation of another issue. American stocks opened firm and then went higher on New York support. The feature was St. Paul, which touched 191. This advance was partly due to covering by bears who had become somewhat fearful that the recent shipments of the certificates of the stock to New York has produced a shortage of 10,000 shares here. The main cause of the advance was the report that Union Pacific would get control of St. Paul on the basis of $200 in bonds for $100 par value of St. Paul stock. This is regarded as a good thing for St. Paul, and the prediction is made that it will touch 210. The arrangement is considered bad for Union Pacific."

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, June 17.—The improved tone of Liverpool cables, coupled with decreases in the world's shipments of quantity on passage, gave a bullish turn to the market to start today. The July delivery opening unchanged to ⅛c lower. On covering by shorts, who were moved to action by reports of serious crop damage in continental Europe, there was an early advance to 70¾, at which trading was mostly of a local nature, though there was some buying for export. Disappointment was felt by the bulls over the small decrease in the visible, and the long line of accumulations when the upturn was put out, breaking the price to 69⅝c. Some considerable purchases by the elevator people caused a sharp rally to 70¾c, at which the market closed ¼c lower and fairly steady. The bull movement caused the notable appreciation in corn which was on hand at the beginning of business today despite the reports of a continuation of the heavy western movement. The July option opened firm between 42¾@43⅛c, and closed steady, ⅛c down at 43¾c. Oats ruled firm, as did all other grains. July closed ⅛ to ¼c improved at 28¾c. Provisions were dull and bare of speculative interest. The opening was easier; July pork closed 7½ cents lower, and lard a shade lower, with ribs 5½c down.

The leading futures closed as follows:

COLONIAL GOVERNMENTS OF TODAY.

XVII—WHY GREAT BRITAIN SUCCEEDS AS A COLONIZER.

[By Alfred Stead, Fellow of the Royal Colonial Institute.]

THERE can be laid down no hard and fast rules or general policy to describe the colonizing of Great Britain. With each new colony new methods are employed, yet they all have as a foundation the main principle of adaptation—adaptation of the government so as to incorporate all that is good and possible in the native customs, and upon this stem to engraft the buds of British progress and enlightenment. To this policy England owes much of her success in founding and maintaining colonies. By colonies I mean integral parts of the empire—not costly advertisements of a colonial policy or battlefields for the training of soldiers and the amassing of fortunes by contractors.

The Englishman who settles in new territory regards it as so much land to be developed and made to bring forth the maximum amount of valuable produce. He retains many of his customs and habits, but once settled he has every intention of remaining to enjoy the fruits of his labors. England is always "home" to him, even if he never visits it again, in the same way as it is always "home" to colonial-born Englishmen and Englishwomen. This feeling toward England is one of the most pleasing features of the silken bonds which hold the empire so firmly together. In the Englishman there is innate the knowledge that he is par excellence the pioneer and explorer of the world, and that knowledge lifts him up well above the natives whom he has to rule. It gives to the English that sublime confidence in their powers which goes far to gain the confidence of the native races. If you would gain the belief of others you must first have belief in yourself.

FRENCH AND GERMAN COLONIZING.

The Frenchman in his colonies seeks ever to reproduce there the Paris of his dreams, and for him there ever shines the possibility of being able to return to that city with a sufficient fortune to obviate any departure from it in the future. Such aspirations may tend to the rapid acquisition of wealth, but they certainly do not help the development of the colony. The Germans, on the other hand, seek ever to introduce at once a system of rigid military government, with a military Governor and a strong garrison. They turn the new colony as far as possible into a recruiting ground. This method is most successful in the thoroughness with which it discourages German and other merchants from establishing themselves in German colonies.

BRITISH METHODS AND TRADE.

The British seek ever to encourage trade in their new possessions, and have no desire to spend unnecessary money upon warlike expeditions if they can obtain peace by reasonable incorporation of native customs. The colonies of the British empire are essentially business concerns with very few exceptions. Primarily attracted by the opportunities of successful trade, the British have been forced, as that trade developed, to extend their trading grounds. So long as this was possible by peaceful methods, such methods were employed. I cannot say that these methods always redounded to the credit of the traders, but it is certain that, whatever the acts of individuals, the central government was so anxious for peace that it did not criticise too closely the methods by which it was maintained. As the spheres of trade grew larger and larger, the aboriginal tribes felt the inconvenience and injustice of losing their lands even at a price, and attacked the traders. Then followed expeditions, mobile, well organized and well armed, resulting in the death of many natives and the subjugation of the rest. The terms enforced, however, were seldom hard, and frequently the very natives who had fought against the white men were almost at once organized as native police or native regiments to guard the trading interests.

EXAMPLES OF TRADE DEVELOPMENT.

In several instances the fact that the British policy in colonizing is to develop trade has received striking proof. I refer to those cases in which charters have been granted to companies enabling them to develop territories until such a time as they were fit to be taken under British protectorate. Such companies from the time of the Great India Company have generally succeeded in a marvelous manner and have gained for the British many prosperous colonies and territories. In recent years there have been the Royal Niger Comany, the North Borneo Company and the British South Africa Company. The first two have now given place to British protectorates, and eventually the British South Africa Company, that enormous creation of Mr. Rhodes, will follow their example. That this system of private colonization is good is proved by results. The German government also, in several cases, has introduced it into its colonies, adding, however, immediate State protection—a doubtful advantage, entailing, as it does, a certain amount of State supervision.

SIR WILFRED LAURIER.
(Premier of Canada.)

It must be very evident even to the most unobservant citizen that there is a far greater probability of rapid development for a new country under such a company than can be the case under direct British control. There are dividends to be earned and shareholders' meetings to be faced. It is necessary that the company shall be acquainted, and intimately acquainted, with their trading ground and its inhabitants. Under State control there is apparently no such necessity for accurate knowledge. Of course there is always the possibility that the company will abuse its powers and neglect its obligation in the anxiety to earn an extra per cent. in dividends. Such action, however, always brings its inevitable punishment in the shape of reduced privileges, so it is never likely to become popular among companies.

THE EARL OF MINTO.
(Governor-General of Canada.)

THE POLICY OF THE OPEN DOOR.

Though it may be said that companies are useful in opening up countries, there is no doubt that they must ever be superseded in those countries after a time by British protectorates. Great Britain owes much to the fact that the open door and equal privileges for all merchants in her territories, whether of her nation or not, encourage trade to an enormous extent. The trade may not be British trade; frequently now it is American or German trade, but the colony prospers and develops steadily. In these days, as in the past, there can never be successful philanthropic colonization, even if any nation were to attempt it. Colonization must proceed by trade, just as steam is necessary for a locomotive. The end attained may be very high and people may then look down with infinite scorn upon trade; nevertheless, it is always trade which has made colonization successful. France has tried to colonize by planting a flag and having troops occupy more or less miserable imitations of Paris, and she has succeeded in having an annual drain upon her national income of enormous proportions.

NATIVES AND THE RULING POWER.

While Great Britain gives great latitude to the natives in her possessions, as far as local affairs are concerned, she is very particular that they shall acquire no real ruling power, or at least no overwhelming voice in the ruling power. When the native population outnumbers the white in such great proportion as is usual in British colonies—non-self-governing—it would be suicidal to follow any other course until at least the natives have reached a high level of education and civilization. Until such a time it is far more judicious and kinder to protect them from the results which would inevitably befall if they were permitted to mislegislate before they have learned even their A B C's. After a cautious training in local and municipal government they may be allowed in time to have a voice in the actual government. In countries where there are several differing native races it is manifestly impossible to allow members of one race to govern others—such a course would directly lead to risings and disturbance of the peace.

The natives in the British colonies are insured just laws and have the necessaries of life provided for them at a reasonable rate. They are not allowed to fight whenever the fit takes them, but must live orderly, well-behaved lives. In several of the colonies Great Britain has raised native regiments, notably for work in the malarial African tropics. These troops, led by white men, work splendidly, and afford a safety-valve to the military ardor of races who for centuries have regarded fighting as the amusement most to be desired. If Great Britain were a military power she could easily raise a native army large enough to enable her to enforce her wishes on land as well as on sea. However, she prefers to use the natives as coolies or as tillers of the soil. Who shall say her course is not a wise one?

In the Malay archipelago Great Britain has had to deal with many of the elements of trouble with which the United States is now face to face with in the Philippines. These she has successfully overcome and now has the satisfaction of owning colonies at peace and growing in prosperity in the extreme.

TWO CHIEF ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS.

To sum up this necessarily most short and incomplete account of British colonial policy, we find that the two chief points are the willingness to adapt the government to suit special cases and the encouragement of trade by holding open the customs door and granting equal trading rights for all merchants. In the past the former was the most important point, but now, alas, that each administrator is tied to the Colonial Office by the cable, much of its value has departed. It is this melancholy red-tape cable which causes one to welcome the assistance of chartered companies and private enterprise.

LORD HOPETOUN.
(Governor-General of Australia.)

So long as Great Britain holds to free trade and adaptation she will be successful and worthy of being followed.

THE TIMES' DAILY STORY

A WHITE MAN'S CHOICE.

BY MARTHA McCULLOCH-WILLIAMS.

[Published under special arrangement with the S. S. McClure Co., New York.]

JIMMY MARION was no great shakes. In the mind of Brush Creek, Jimmy had but two redeeming qualities. One was being his father's son, the other that he had wit enough to love his father's ward, Cressy Oliphant.

Upon a summer morning, Cressy called to him over her shoulder: "Jimmy, do come on! You are the slowest old thing! And you know I hate a man or a horse without lots of go."

They were riding up hill. Cressy's whiplash whined accompaniment to her words. Jimmy had a talent for saying nothing, still, as he came within easy hail, he piped, amiably: "Cress, I been wonderin' all this mornin' if you woont never learn better'n to gallop a horse up hill?"

"I've been wondering if you will ever learn—anything," Cressy retorted, slashing savagely at a near bush. Jimmy opened his eyes. "What's the matter, cross cat?" he asked. "You come ridin' so mad—nobody didn't make you—an' I've let you pick your own road, an' go your own gait——"

"If you're tired of me, I'll go on by myself," Cressy said irritably, half wheeling her horse. Jimmy kept beside her. "You needn't try ter run away from me," he said. "I been knowin' all the way you felt bad—and I reckon I know what about."

"You don't! What is it?" Cressy answered all in a breath. Jimmy laughed tranquilly: "I fetched you a letter yistiddy evenin'. A letter from Charley——"

"What business have you to know that?" Cressy demanded. "He's coming today—that's why I am running away."

"If he pesters you, I'll make him go right back," Jimmy said promptly; then his face falling. "But it'll be sorter awkward—old Charles is all the own cousin I've got—Pappy an' mammy think nigh as much of him as they do o' me."

"You ought to hate him. Why don't you?" Cressy demanded. Jimmy stared. "Hate him!" he repeated slowly. "Why should I hate him? He can't help bein' whut he is—smart an' bright, an' good lookin'—no more'n I can help bein' what I am."

"And what is that?" Cressy asked crisply. Jimmy drew a deep breath. "A born fool," he said humbly. "But I got sense enough ter know it. All I can do is to be a real white man. An' it ain't white ter hate Char—anybody better off."

"You are worse than a born fool—a made one," Cressy cried passionately. "And you won't stand up for yourself. You won't even say you love me—you drive me to tell you I know it——"

"You cain't help but know it," Jimmy broke in. "You been knowin' it ever sence you were knee-high. I been fool enough ter think sometimes maybe you might fetch yourself ter take me—an' the place——"

"I do love—the place," Cressy interrupted, a smile dawning in her stormy eyes. "And it has belonged to the Marions ever since the Indians went away."

"I know," Jimmy said wistfully, "but don't let that bother you, Cress. There's jest us two o' the name—Charles an' me. You needn't never leave—the place—no matter whut happens." Then, persuasively: "Let's us leave all this talk until next year."

"Charley is not so patient," Cressy said, swallowing hard. "He insists upon a definite answer—today."

"I lay he don't get it—not until you're good an' ready," Jimmy said with a quick smile, patting her hand. Then he ran on haltingly: "Cressy, I love you all I know how—but don't you let that count if—if you love—anybody else."

They were nearing a roadside gate. As Cressy went through it she said, with her head very high: "Go home, Jimmy, and give Charley his answer. Tell him I don't know—and I don't want to know."

As Jimmy went up the walk he saw his mother at the sitting-room window, very white and moaning faintly. He rushed inside—his father met him, all his hale ruddiness changed to ashen gray. Charley had come, and sat at Squire Marion's desk, his pen racing over a sheet of legal cap. Without looking up, he called: "Saddle me a fresh horse, Jimmy. The best you've got. The minute this is signed I must ride like the devil."

"What's up?" Jimmy demanded. His father clutched his shoulder, leaned heavily upon it, and gasped: "Son! Son! We're on the edge o' ruin! Charley found out early this mornin' that Gill Magee had run away with all the county money. And me on his bond for $50,000! I trusted Gill like my own brother!"

"There! There! Uncle Jim," Charley interposed. "Walls have ears sometimes, and we must not leave one loophole in this precious document. It's a deed of gift, Jimmy. Uncle Jim makes over to you everything—land, money, stock and crops."

"What for?" Jimmy asked, his eyes wide. Charley laughed shortly. "For the best of reasons—to save himself from beggary and keep a roof over his head. But I've written it down for a consideration of $1, love and natural affection. Sign quick, Uncle Jim. Unless this goes on record before Gill Magee's pranks get wind, it will be worth less than the paper it's written on."

"Oh, it's hard!" the old man moaned. "In my old age, too. I never did think I could be brought to any o' them coverin'-up tricks. I've been so proud to hear folks say 'As honest as a Marion.' But what else can I do? I'm old—seventy next month! I cain't let my home go! I cain't take my wife ter the poorhouse."

"You'll have me, Pappy—no matter whut comes," Jimmy said, lifting his head and throwing his arm about his father's bowed shoulders. So holding him, he moved to where his mother sat, lifted her to her feet, and with his free arm drew her to his breast. Then he turned to his cousin, and said, clearly: "Charley, it was good in you to think o' us this-a-way. But I cain't see things your way. Now, Gill's gone bad, by the Lord he shan't take old Jim Marion with him. I love the place, every stock and stone, and red-clay hill in it, next to—my own people. But I won't keep it, unless I can keep it honest——"

"Are you crazy?" Charley broke in. "I can change the beneficiary in a trice. Say, Uncle Jim—won't you trust me? I'll certainly never take advantage of your trust. Speak quick—we have just three hours' grace—and it will take two at least to get back to the courthouse."

"I—I don't believe I keer ter save things—except fer Jimmy," 'Squire Marion began, brokenly.

Charley sprang to his feet and stepped in front of his cousin. He was white with anger and apprehension. In a high, shaken voice, he cried: "For God's sake, Jimmy, don't doom your father and mother to beggary. It makes me feel like shooting you to hear you quibble and prate, when all their comfort, it may be their lives, hang on the matter of a minute."

"They have got me," Jimmy reiterated. Charley flung up his hands. "You!" he cried, with the intensest scorn. "What are you? What can you do—without money or brains?"

"Work—all day and all night," Jimmy said sturdily. Charley drew back a step, his face twitching. He bit his lips hard before he went on.

"Another thing. Think of—Cressy. She will end by marrying you—if you keep the place. It is that which has stood between me and winning her. I know it. Remember, I am speaking now against myself. I cannot do less, in face of all I owe my uncle, and my dear, good aunt. Speak to Jimmy, both of you. If he still refuses to save you—sign this deed, and put it in my power."

Mrs. Marion nestled close to her son. Her husband broke away from them and leaned from the open window. Jimmy's eyes followed the father's gaze as it rested upon the familiar fields, the big barns, the deep, shadowy woodlands belting the clear land. Could they give it up, and go away, strangers in a strange land?

Stronger, more insistent, was the thought of Cressy. How should a beggar lift eyes to her. No, not a beggar—except for work! Somehow the word was a tonic. He faced half about, drew his mother in front of him, and said, with many breaks: "Charley—I—cain't—talk with ye. But the Lord—help me—ter show I—can work with ye."

'Squire Marion stepped beside his son, linked arms and said: "Ruin er no ruin, Charley, I'll do as Jimmy says. If the money must all go, let it! Lord, what is all the property in the world beside findin' that I've got a real man fer my son!"

"The best man in the world," Cressy cried, breaking tempestuously from an ambush of a half-closed door. "I had to come home right behind you," she panted to Jimmy. "It—it is not true—what he said," nodding toward Charley. "Now you have lost everything else, I ask you to—to take me."

"Amen. The Lord be praised!" 'Squire Marion said, catching Cressy in his arms. Charley darted away, swearing under his breath. Jimmy's Jimmy put his head upon his mother's shoulder, and cried—for the first time since he was 10 years old.

Jimmy showed the stuff he was made of by working through five hopeless years, trying to save the homestead, mortgaged to full value. Cressy helped him, singing about the place, her face always sunshiny, her tempers all blown away. Still there was rejoicing. Indeed, when Gill Magee came back from the Klondike with money enough to make good all his luckless sureties had paid. Little Jim, aged 4, high in the arms of his doting grandmother, held the canceled mortgage in a candle flame, and laughed to see it burn. Across the hearth the grandfather looked on with eyes that did not see, and murmured brokenly: "The righteous shall not be forsaken, nor his seed beg bread."

The Banisher of Loneliness.

[Baltimore Sun:] Improved means of transportation, as well as increased wealth, promote the tendency to buy property in the country. The electric car and telephone are becoming ubiquitous. The dreary isolation, which was some years ago the feature of farm life that made it odious to young people, is less marked in this day of bicycles and improved communications. As population becomes more dense and social enjoyments are more accessible the advantages of country life are again appreciated.

EDIBLE SEAWEEDS.

Nourishing Products of the Sea Coming to Be Known in This Country—Where They are Found.

[Providence Journal:] Nearly everyone who lives near the sea coast is familiar with the various kinds of algae that grow upon rocks in the ocean and which are washed ashore along with shells, dead fish and bits of wreckage.

However, people of such environment are oftentimes no better acquainted with the uses of salt water algae (other than those limited to their locality) than people who live inland. For instance, it is doubtful if many Americans know that a coarse yellow and brown algae found in Finistere, France, is dried and used as fuel. On the other hand, nearly everybody is informed of the greatest use to which seaweed has ever been put, viz., as a fertilizer. Even as early as the fourth century we learn that Palladius, a Roman author of that period, made a reference to it in his writings as a partial substitute for manure. It was applied to the land when partly decomposed, during the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and George Owens (an agriculturist of considerable reputation for those times) said of it: "Therefore springeth up gude corn, especially barley."

But even though seaweed has been known so very long it was not until recently that its use as a human food became general.

However, it has been used as an animal food for some time, and was long ago fed to pigs and calves in either a dried or wet state by the inhabitants of Northern Europe. The nourishing quality of salt-water algae was thus well established by its practical use in a cold climate. The Laplanders, too, have long been in the habit of collecting and drying some varieties, which they fed to pigs, horses and cattle by mixing it with meal or bran. The herds themselves, in the northern part of Scotland, regularly visit the shore upon the receding of the tide, in order to feed upon rock weeds. Consequently, nothing could be more natural than the use of seaweeds as human foods, since their beneficial qualities had been established by feeding to the lower animals.

Several varieties are eaten, but all are said to taste alike. A chemical analysis shows them to be rich in calcium oxide (lime,) and from this one would infer that they are great bone builders. Nitrogen is also in considerable abundance. But by far the most common ingredient of each and every plant is water. It generally makes up from 70 to 80 per cent. of the actual weight.

The variety of salt water algae most frequently eaten is Chondrus crispus, or, as it is commonly known, Irish or Carrageen moss. Properly speaking the weed itself is not eaten. Instead, the plant is bleached (in which condition it is sold as the Irish moss of commerce) and then boiled in a dish of milk for a short time. The mixture is now strained through a cloth and then the weed thrown away as useless. The liquid should then be flavored or sweetened to suit the taste and cooked somewhat longer, after which it may be cooled in molds. The dish is served as a dessert with a little sauce of cream and sugar, being known as blanc-mange.

The next variety most frequently eaten is Rhodymenia palmata. In Scotland this seaweed is known as "duke" and among the Irish peasants as "dillesk." It is a medium-sized plant (yet larger than the Irish moss described above) and has many short branches, each of which is about three-quarters of an inch in width. Strange to say, this plant is a parasite. It lives upon other seaweeds generally, but occasionally procures its food from mussles and small shellfish. If grown under the latter circumstances it is much sweeter and less tough than when it feeds upon members of its own species. It can be seen exposed for sale on fruit stands in the Irish quarter of New York. Thus one may infer that its use is not by any means restricted to the poorer classes, even though the Irish peasant who lives along the seacoast thinks the algae a great relish when eaten with his potatoes. Among the natives who live on the northern coast of Africa, bordering upon the Mediterranean it is sometimes used as an ingredient in soups and less frequently fried.

Two other well known edible varieties both belong to the same order. Their names are Laminaria saccharina and Laminaria digitata. Either is called "tangle." But the former is generally spoken of as ribbon weed or kelp, while the latter is commonly designated as broad ribbon weed or broad-leaved kelp and sometimes referred to by the name of sea apron. Both are large varieties and grow on rocks from low water marks to four or five fathoms. Laminaria saccharina is a single plant, while Laminaria digitata has many divisions. The former is common everywhere, but the latter is seldom found south of Cape Cod. Whenever either variety is cooked it is invariably fried.

The above are a few of the edible seaweeds. It is probable that many others can be eaten, and, if so, will be found highly nourishing. The cost of these foods would be meager indeed if people only cared to eat them. When sold upon the beach seaweed brings about fifty cents per cord, depending somewhat upon the locality. But a small proportion could be utilized as victuals, however. Yet, considering this, as well as the cost of assorting, the food would then be reasonable enough in price.

The many other uses to which seaweeds are put might be mentioned incidentally, since the part left after taking the edible portions out would necessarily be a by-product. Many varieties are burned and the resulting ashes worked for the soda and iodine it contains, the latter being extensively used in the arts and in medicine. The gelatinous portions of some varieties become so hard upon drying that they can be advantageously used as substitutes for horn, shell, etc., in the manufacture of handles for knives, files and similar tools or instruments. One species (Zostera marina or eel grass) is quite successfully employed for stuffing matresses, cushions and the like. Other species have been used as fish lines and still others for ornamental work.

Thus it will be seen that seaweed is a very useful product of the ocean.

ON THE HOME STRETCH.

All Eyes Open—There is no Time Now for Napping.

The 6-months' contest for Times prizes is drawing to a close. It will end June 30, 1901.

During the concluding 30 days no new competitors will be permitted to enter. The fight will be restricted to the veterans already in the field.

Only those who on June 30 have to their credit as many as 100 subscriptions in months will be entitled to prizes.

There are now 48 contestants with that many subscriptions, or more.

Each will receive at least two prizes, and several of them more—for work in different classes.

In value, the combined prizes of the first ten contestants will aggregate over $10,000.

They have turned in, so far, 102,907 subscriptions, a good proportion of them new, upon which they have already been paid commissions in cash.

In addition to the persons whose names are given below, there are about a dozen others enrolled who have not yet secured as many as 100 subscriptions.

As fast as these increase the number of their credits to 100 their names will be added to the printed list, and they will become eligible for prizes.

Otherwise the printed list will not be changed again till toward the close of the contest. This is for the purpose of shrouding it in a little wholesome mystery and increasing the "guessing."

No person will be allowed any advantage over another in the way of private information, but each will be obliged to do his best if he would maintain or better his standing.

There will doubtless be some surprises.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

HARD LUCK FISH STORIES.

AVALON, June 17.—[From the Times' Resident Correspondent.] There was little but hard-luck stories of broken tackle and strikes that came to naught, among the tuna fishers this morning, with the exception of a catch by Hon. Joseph Chambers of Cincinnati, O., who was out with M. E. Mathson, and after a battle lasting an hour and fifty minutes he succeeded in conquering a tuna weighing 100 pounds which gives him a button.

FISH ON THE WING.

The schools of tuna have moved up the island toward the Isthmus where they were following up the flying-fish. parties who went to the Isthmus yesterday reported the most wonderful flights of these winged fish. At Empire Bay the air was so full of them that persons in boats were really in danger of being maimed and were obliged to be constantly on the alert to dodge the fish. While the flying-fish can change its course at will it seldom deviates from a straight line, and when a person gets in the way it behooves them to do some artful dodging or take the consequences of a collision which is but little less serious than the kick of a mule.

HEAVY TUNA.

The tuna this season have averaged larger than last year, and seem to be harder fighters. The first eight fish of last season, which included the second largest caught during the season, weighed 861 pounds, an average of 107 pounds, while the first eight of this season weighed 1046, an average of 130 pounds.

BAD-MONEY MAN AT LONG BEACH.

ARRESTED BY LOCAL OFFICERS FOR RAISING BILLS.

He Asserts That He is Innocent, but the Multiplied Currency With Material for Making More is Found in His Possession.

LONG BEACH, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] F. Vazien, a polite Frenchman, was placed under arrest by Constable Wilson this morning, charged with the offense of raising $1 bills.

Saturday afternoon he attempted to pass at the store of W. C. Bower & Sons, one of the bills, which had been raised to $10. The work on the bills was so coarse that the clerk rejected it at a glance.

This morning Vazien attempted the same game at the same place, and notice was at once given to the officers of the law. City Marshal Baker and Constable Wilson lost no time in visiting the boarding-house in Alamitos and found him with a valise in hand, evidently ready to leave. A search disclosed the fact that he had raised bills in his pockets to the amount of $55, and also the adhesive strips, colors and acids which are used in work of that sort.

Vazien pretended to be greatly surprised at his arrest, and stoutly maintained that he had done nothing to warrant it. The bills, he said, had been paid him for work done during the past three weeks, but this was easily proven to be false. The officers are confident they have made a great find, and entertain no doubt as to his guilt, not only in this, but other instances.

In the last week in April a man answering Vazien's description, passed a neatly-raised bill, purporting to be for $5, at the postoffice. This was the best work of the kind which has been found here, and was well calculated to deceive.

On the following week the man entered the employ of the United Electric Gas and Power Company, under the name of M. de Compto. Later he gave the name of F. Van Ruche, but the officers feel confident none of these is the right one.

A search of the trunk in Vazien's room revealed eight suits of very fine clothes, with shoes and furnishings such as could be used in making up a variety of disguises.

GENEROSITY ABUSED.

Nelson Rose imbibed too freely Saturday afternoon, and was brought before the City Recorder. He had no money with which to pay the $8 fine imposed, and put up a new bicycle as security. He made such a pitiful plea that the magistrate gave him a dollar to defray the expenses of the trip home. With that money and a physician's prescription, given for the aid of a sick horse, which Nelson never owned, he was able to lay in a fresh supply of alcohol and take on a second jag, which landed him in jail. He will be given a hearing Wednesday.

LONG BEACH BREVITIES.

COVINA.

CITRUS GROWERS MEET.

COVINA, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] A mass meeting of the orange growers of this locality, called by the directors of the Covina Citrus Association, was held in the office of the corporation on Saturday afternoon to ascertain the wishes of the growers as to whether they desired the present association to enlarge its plant at Azusa avenue for the coming season, or if it would be advisable for the growers near that place to organize a new association and acquire and enlarge the plant of the Covina Citrus As-sensus of opinion of those present to remain under the present management and treble the capacity of the Azusa-avenue house before next season. A committee of three was appointed to canvass the territory and ascertain how many growers would ship their fruit through this house, and report at a meeting to be held next Saturday afternoon.

REDONDO.

GAMBLING COMPLAINT.

REDONDO, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] At the last meeting of the Board of Trustees, the regular ordinance was amended, for the special purpose of granting a license to J. C. Russell to conduct a ring game. It was changed from $5 a day to $50 a month. Russell immediately procured a license and built a booth, but after running half of a day, a complaint was made by citizens, alleging that it was a gambling game, and the place was closed yesterday by the Marshal. Russell has laid the matter before the board, and it is expected that a meeting will be called to decide upon the legality of the game.

MONROVIA.

TWO ELECTRIC LINES.

MONROVIA, June 17.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Today W. H. Holabird paid to the City Clerk $475, the purchase price of a franchise to build and operate an electric railway on White Oak, Myrtle, Olive, California and Duarte streets. The $5000 bond will be filed within three days. The payment of this money is in line with the idea that Holabird's bid was in the interest of some corporation that intended to block the proposed Stebbins-Cronenwett road. According to the terms of the franchise, work must be begun within four months. As the Stebbins-Cronenwett company says it is bound to build the line, and is pushing the work of securing right of way, Monrovia will soon have two electric roads.

thousands and perhaps tens of thousands of times as bright as our sun. If our earth revolved around it at the same distance that it does from the sun everything on its surface would immediately melt with fervent heat.

There are a number of cases recorded in history of new and very bright stars blazing in the heavens. This, however, occurred very rarely. Sometimes two such stars would be seen in the course of a century. Frequently several centuries have elapsed without anything of this kind being recorded. But, in recent times, when people watch the heavens more carefully, it is found that such an occurrence takes place every year or two. Generally, however, the star is so small that only a trained expert observer would have noticed it among the thousands of its companions. Very wonderful, therefore, was the blazing out, so recently at last February, of the most brilliant star of this kind whose appearance has been recorded during the last 200 years. It is now well known under the name of Nova Persei or the new star in the constellation of Perseus. It has not yet been determined that any star visible in the most powerful telescope existed in the place where this one appeared. Yet it blazed up until it was the brightest star in the spring sky, except Sirius. Then it gradually faded away, and has since become invisible. Whether it will disappear entirely we do not yet know.

No astronomer now doubts that these stars existed before they blazed up in this way, only they were so smaller as not to be noticeable. A most interesting and important question is what was the cause of such an outburst of light? Is it possible that our sun may increase its light and heat in the same way? Even were this possible, the chances for such an occurrence would be too small to cause concern to the most timid person. Out of a hundred million stars, scarcely one in a year meets with the accident. If our sun were as liable to the accident as any other star we should probably have to wait millions of years before it occurred. The actual cause of such an increase of light is quite unknown to us. Perhaps the most plausible explanation is that one star fell into another. A collision between these two bodies would result in an enormous evolution of light and heat such as we see in the cases of new stars. But in the present state of our knowledge this is little more than a surmise. The wisest astronomer acknowledges that he does not know the cause of the outburst.

What gives most color to the idea of a collision is that the most recent researches on the nature of the stars show that they are very different from each other in their physical constitution and density. Many of them are little more than bright bubbles of heated gas, lighter and thinner than air, but enormously compressed by the weight of their superficial parts which bear upon the interior. If such a compressed gas were struck by a moving star, the result would be an explosion like that of a bomb shell. This would account both for the rapid rise of the star's brilliancy, and its slow fading away. Additional plausibility is given to this view by the fact that no such star has ever been known to blaze out more than once. Whether, when it fades away, it sinks back into its former insignificance, no one knows. There is only one case in which a star previously known and recorded thus burst forth. That was in 1866. In this case the star did sink to just about its former brightness.

MYSTERIES OF THE HEAVENS.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

NO ACHIEVEMENT of the human intellect is more wonderful than the discovery of planets revolving around many of the stars. If these bodies could be seen with a telescope there would be nothing wonderful in their being found. But they are generally, so far as we know, entirely dark; at least they send forth no light that the most powerful telescope. They are and must forever be invisible. How then is their existence made known? By their attraction on the stars around which they revolve, and which they cause to swing first to one side and then to the other. But this swing of a star is so small as to be entirely beyond the power of detection by the most delicate eye, and the most powerful telescope. To all appearances the stars remain absolutely at rest, except for the slow straight-forward motion which we find many of them to have when observations on their position are extended through years or generations. If we cannot see any motion, how do we know that the stars move?

This is the real wonder. It is done by analyzing the light which the star sends to us. It has long been known that light really consists in minute vibrations or wave-like motions in an ether which fills all space. There are from 10,000 to 100,000 of these waves in the length of a single inch, and yet they travel forward so rapidly that they would encircle the earth seven times between two beats of the clock. Small though they are, each little wave has its crest an have the hollows of the ocean. On the latter the distances between two successive crests may be more than the length of a ship, or less than that of a ship's boat. So it is with light; although countless millions of millions of waves pass in a single second, some vibrate more rapidly than others.

By the aid of the spectroscope the astronomer analyzes the light of a star, and thus finds the length of certain of the waves which it sends toward us. If it is moving in our direction these waves will be a little shorter than when it is moving away from us. And thus it is said that, by measuring the length of the light-wave, which a star emits, it can be determined whether the star is increasing or diminishing its distance from us. When these most difficult and delicate measures were made upon a number of the brighter stars, it was found that some of them changed their motion to or from us. For a few hours or perhaps a few days, a star would be moving toward us, then it would slacken its pace and move away from us, to return toward us again. Thus it would vibrate backward and forward, as it were, like a swinging pendulum. As a matter of fact, we know that the motion was more likely to be around and around in a circle. But this circle, though millions of miles in extent, is so small as to be quite invisible at the enormous distances of the fixed stars. The motion of the stars which I have described, being made known by the light, can be as well determined upon a star at the most immeasurable distance as upon one in our immediate neighborhood. And thus it is that these motions are made out when the telescope fails to show any movement whatever. They can be caused only by the attraction of invisible but massive bodies revolving around the stars as the planets revolve around the sun.

So exact have these measures been made in recent times that the form of the orbit of a dark body can, in some cases, be calculated with more or less exactness. And thus it happens that, if there are any inhabitants on these planets our astronomers here on earth could tell them more about the motion of the world on which they live than the most civilized people a few centuries ago knew of the motions of the earth on which we dwell.

The most recent researches show that there is an immense variety among the stars, especially as to their actual brightness. Of course, a star of any given brightness will look fainter the farther it is from us. Thus it was in former times supposed that the brightest stars were most near us. But this is not always the case. It is true that Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, is among the nearer ones; about twice as far as the nearest star known. But the next brightest is Canopus, which never rises in our northern latitudes, though it may sometimes be seen in the Gulf States. It is there visible low down near the southern horizon some time during the winter evenings. Gill, at the Cape of Good Hope, made a long series of the most exact measures on the position of this star among those scattered around it with a view of determining its distance. The result of his work was that this distance must be immeasurably great. Had it been only ten million times the distance of the sun, he would have found it out. The result of his work is that this star must be

Seaside Deafness.

[Cincinnati Enquirer:] A number of people come home from the seaside quite deaf, and many, if not deaf, are much harder of hearing than when they left home.

The cause of this is blowing the nose after bathing.

Of course, one blows his nose because there is some salt water in it, which makes him uncomfortable. This water he forces into the little Eustachian tube that runs from behind the nose to the ear. Here the water remains for days, and the particles of salt set up inflammation. The next step is that the Eustachian tubes get blocked, and remain more or less so permanently, causing partial deafness.

You should always wait some time after the bathe before blowing your nose, and then you should do it gently.

James Sheperdson, editor of a Chicago weekly society paper, committed suicide yesterday by shooting. His mind had been impaired by brain fever.

THE WRONG MEDICINE.

Thousands of people yearly treat their ails with the wrong medicine. They are in the habit of jumping at the first "cure-all" they see advertised and fancy they are going to be benefited.

People should use more caution in selecting their medicines. These are times when the country is flooded with the printed boasts of experimentors. Those who have piles in any form cannot be too careful in its treatment.

The delicate membranes may receive injuries from humbug remedies that will lead to the most complicated eruptions.

Pyramid Pile Cure is the safest remedy known to medical science. It purifies the affected parts, reduces the tumors and takes away the inflammation If you are troubled, try it.

It is prepared by the most skilled specialists who have made the curing of piles and kindred troubles a life study.

It is now the best known pile remedy before the public. Thousands have been cured who had experimented for years with every other known remedy. Hundreds who have been treated surgically without results have been completely cured by Pyramid Pile Cure. Don't experiment with dangerous drugs nor run the risk of a painful surgical operation. This remedy is a prompt, perfect and permanent cure for the most persistent case of piles. It is manufactured by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., and has found its way into every wide-awake drug store on this contioent. Ask for it and be cured of a disease which may lead to fatal complications.

Trunk on Fire.

An innocent-looking trunk that was thrown from a Los Angeles Transfer Company's wagon near Fourth and Spring streets yesterday was found to be on fire inside, and when forced open and the flames subdued, the contents were found to be badly damaged. The trunk was sent on to its destination without the cause of the fire being learned.

Seventh-street School.

The Child Study Circle of the Seventh-street school met Wednesday afternoon. Miss Dobbs read an instructive paper on "Manual Training." The teachers had arranged an extensive exhibit of pupils' work in wood, paper, sewing and drawing, taken from seven grades, and the kindergarten, which was much appreciated by the fifty mothers in attendance.

Old Case Postponed.

The old case against W. W. Jenkins et al., to determine the character of a big body of land in the Castaic country was begun again yesterday in the local land office. At the first trial, several weeks ago, the parties who assert the land is agricultural in character gave their testimony, and yesterday those who say it is mineral land testified. The case may go on for several days.

Gov. Gage Declines.

On account of the press of official business Gov. Gage will not officiate as orator of the day at the Fourth of July celebration in Los Angeles. The Governor has made this statement to the committee having the arrangements in charge. He has been invited to participate in several similar celebrations at various places in the State, but has declined all, for the reason here given.

Tod Ford Building.

The latest of the Broadway business blocks whose erection has been determined upon is the Tod Ford building. It is to be a four-story brick, with basement, and will be built upon the lot, 61x160 feet, on the west side of Broadway, between Fourth and Fifth streets, recently purchased by Mr. Ford of Henry Maritz for $76,250. Each floor will be fitted up for use as a storeroom, and several mercantile firms are already negotiating for the lease of the building. The structure will be provided with two elevators. The front will be of buff-colored pressed brick, plate-glass and steel, with terra cotta ornaments. A new feature of the plate-glass front will be the total absence of bars. The glass will be joined together at the angles without any wood or metal between. The block will cost about $40,000.

DANDRUFF CAUSED BY A GERM.
A New Discovery That Kills the Germ and Prevents Baldness.
Pretty nearly all the hair preparations for dandruff, have some merit in allaying itching of the scalp, and in being a fairly good dressing for the hair, but there is only one that recognizes what causes dandruff, falling hair, and baldness, and that destroys that cause, a little germ—and that is Newbro's Herpicide. This germ eats its way into the scalp, down to the hair root, where it saps that vitality, causing dandruff as it digs up the scalp into little white scales. Unless it is destroyed there's no permanent stopping of falling hair and cure of dandruff and baldness. Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

$2.50 Golf Cloth for 98c
One of the most remarkable values offered at the dress goods sale. You may doubt our ability to deliver to you regular $2.50 golf suitings for 98c a yard, but it is because you are not familiar with the workings of our buying organization. Such results can not be achieved by ordinary or common methods. These suitings are especially desirable for bicycle and walking skirts. Some have plaid effects and the others are plain on both sides. They come in all the new tan and gray mixtures. Every piece is all wool, and every one is worth $1.50 a yard. Some are worth $2.00 a yard.
